ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Residents of Hunnewell hill were greatly shocked on Monday morning when Mr. Edwin C. Lewis, a resident of Waverley avenue, near Washington street, attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a razor on his front piazza. Mr. Lewis has been living in this house for some years, altho the mortgage foreclosed on the property last year. It is said that Mr. Lewis agreed to rent the premises, but that he had paid only one month's rent. There had been some difficulties over this matter and many attempts at settling, but the owner had become impatient and placed a keeper in the house, and later ordered a deputy sheriff to evict the tenants. Mr. Lewis had been to West Newton that morning to see Judge Kennedy of the police court and Mayor Hatfield, and returning found part of his furniture on the piazza and sidewalks. He rushed upon the piazza, and cried "You have hounded me to the cross" and pulled a razor from his pocket and cut his throat. He was disarmed at once and physicians and the ambulance summoned, and removed to the Newton Hospital.

Mr. Lewis has acted queerly for some time. He has been a frequent visitor at City Hall, where he has endeavored to interest Mayor Hatfield in his troubles and on one occasion, at least, pulled a razor from his pocket and flourished it about in one of the city offices. He is a lawyer but was disbarred some four years ago.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Editor THE GRAPHIC.

Dear Sir: Must you wait for some one to be killed or maimed before the reckless speeding of autos up and down Centre St. is stopped? Last week on one foggy night one auto ran straight up Centre street and into the stone wall of the Alden Estate not following the road at all showing how careless and reckless one can drive.

But in broad day light, at school time, mornings is the best time for witnessing the narrow escapes of school children of whom a hundred or two have to cross the above street on the way to school.

I was informed by Police Headquarters that there is no speed limit but citizens certainly have some rights in having protection for their children to and from school.

Along this same line, if an "island" or some protection is not given the travelling public in Nonantum Square, the city should compel the Street Railroads to evacuate it. It is not safe to send a child to the post office in the morning or night during rush hours of travel.

PLAIN CITIZEN.

UNION MEETING.

An interested and appreciative audience attended the union meeting of the Newton Equal Franchise Association and the Newton Woman's Christian Temperance Union held in the spacious hall of the Newton Y. M. C. A. building. The Rev. Dr. Francis of the Clarendon Street Baptist church of Boston in a stirring temperance address encouraged the earnest workers for the cause to still greater effort. Mrs. Teresa Crowley of Brookline attorney at law, followed in a speech on the justice of equal suffrage. She said that because women have to obey the laws just as men do they should vote equally with men.

Mr. Hiram K. Moberwell of Harvard College who spoke for the enfranchisement of women from the viewpoint of the student said: "I cannot see how the subject requires argument."

Mrs. Arthur S. Flinn, sang two numbers accompanied on the piano by Miss Elsa Leonard.

The Rev. Mr. Butters offered prayer. A play entitled "Mr. Boh" will be given under the auspices of the Junior Parish of the West Newton Unitarian church on Saturday evening, Nov. 4th at 7:45 o'clock. The play is for the benefit of the Biennial Fair of the Young Peoples' Religious Union. Members of the cast include Miss Ruth Stutson, Miss Caroline Burrage, Miss Evelyn Gorton, Miss Adelaide Chaise, Mr. John W. Condit, Mr. Stewart Chase and Mr. Osmond Perkins.

F. W. Dorr & Co. sell all kinds of grain but nothing that pleases everybody so well as The Park & Pollard Dry-Mash, a sure cure for loafing hens. They must lay or bust when eating this ration.

42 YEARS A RESIDENT

Mrs. Mary Abbie Sumner wife of Mr. John S. Sumner of this city, died at her home 162 Charlesbank Road, last Thursday afternoon, after a short illness.

Mrs. Sumner was born in Dorchester in 1840 and was the daughter of the late Asa Robinson and Jane Pillsbury Robinson, who died two years ago, at the great age of 103 years. Of a family of six children Mrs. Sumner's was the first death. Before her marriage she was for seven years a successful teacher in the Boston schools. Since her marriage in 1869 she has made Newton her home. She is survived by her husband Mr. John S. Sumner and three children, Mr. Charles S. Sumner of Hamburg, Germany, Mrs. Arthur P. Fiske of Sharon, Mass. and Mrs. Harry A. Harwood of Newtonville, Mass. There are five grandchildren, three of whom are in Germany. Mrs. Sumner was a devoted wife and model mother finding so much happiness in her home that she could never be induced to join any club. Mrs. Sumner united with Dr. Godman's church in Dorchester over fifty years ago and later joined Eliot church by letter.

The funeral services last Sunday afternoon simple in character in keeping with her life were conducted by Rev. Wolcott Calkins, D. D., the former pastor of Eliot church, under whom she and her family came into membership. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful and interment was in the family lot at Mt. Hope.

CITY HALL NOTES.

At a special meeting of the aldermen held Friday evening these jurors were drawn for the Superior court, Charles D. Burnham of Maple park, Timothy C. Hickey of Lexington st., Louis G. Brockway of Grant ave. and Milo F. Hargreaves of Derby street.

Mr. Winfield S. Slocum, the city solicitor has been chosen vice president of the legislative committee of city and town solicitors.

The Finance committee of the board of aldermen has begun its consideration of the budget of 1912.

- LODGES.

The sewing circle of Boynton Lodge No. 20 U. O. of I. O. L. will hold a fair Tuesday Nov. 14th. Open at four P. M. Supper and entertainment. Wednesday Nov. 15th Fair from one P. M. till eight. Dancing from eight to twelve. Denison Hall, Newtonville.

TIE SCORE.

One of the surprises of the school football season was provided at Clifton Friday afternoon when the High School of Commerce team of Boston played Newton High team to a scoreless tie. The Boston team outplayed Newton with the exception of the last three minutes of play.

Most of the playing was inside of Newton's territory and the only time the home team seemed to hold was when Commerce threatened its goal line.

The Boston team caught Newton napping and if Coach Dickinson had not sent in his regulars at right guard and left halfback Commerce would have pushed the ball over for a touchdown. On the kickoff a Newton player tripped and the ball went to the visitors, who, worked it down to the 10-yard line, where a penalty for holding put them back 15 yards. Newton kicked out of danger.

In the second quarter several exchanges of punts gave Commerce the ball on Newton's 35-yard line. The ball was worked down to the 12-yard line and, with third down and the goal line to cross, Joe Ryan tried a forward pass to Costello, who was nailed on the two yard line as the period closed.

The visitors did not get any nearer than Newton's six-yard line in the third quarter, but in the final period it had the ball on the one-yard line when Newton recovered it on a fumble, saving a score.

With less than three minutes to play, Hyatt for Newton shot three successive forward passes, which carried the ball to Commerce's 35-yard line.

Whitney made another try and it went offside. The ball was returned and Whitney made another try and it went to the left of the posts over the canvas. Holding was detected and when the ball was about to be returned the whistle sounded for the close of the game.

HALLOWE'EN FIRE

The unoccupied mansion located on what is known as the "Old Haley Estate" on Kenrick street, Newton, was totally destroyed by fire late Tuesday night. The blaze was most spectacular and could be seen for miles. A large crowd of people attracted to the scene by the conflagration. Many of them were in costumes just returning from Halloween parties.

A telephone message to Engine 1 was the first notification of the fire received. The engine and hose-wagon were on their way to the fire when an alarm came in from box 82. The alarm came at 10:55. An alarm was also sent in to the Brighton department but as the fire was just over the Newton line they returned to their house.

The sparks coming from the burning structure were carried through the air by the breeze for nearly a mile. Had it not been raining the sparks would have undoubtedly set fire to houses in the vicinity.

When the department arrived at the scene the mansion was a mass of flame which was shooting high in the sky. Inside of 20 minutes the walls had fallen and it was impossible to save hardly a timber.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. It is thought to have been set by boys in the way of a Halloween joke. For the past few years the house had been unoccupied and boys were in the habit of meeting there to play games and amuse themselves by throwing stones through the windows.

ORGAN RECITAL.

Mr. John Hermann Loud's seventh annual series of ten free organ recitals in First Baptist church, Newton Centre, will be inaugurated next Monday evening by the following program:

- I Sonata in B flat minor Philipp Wolftrum
- a. Allegro
- b. Andante
- c. Choral and Fugue.
- II Evening Song in D Ed. C. Bairstow
- III Prelude and Fugue in A ... Bach
- IV Improvisation.
- V Great Fugue in D major Guilman

INTERCHANGE OF MILEAGE.

Another important step in the unification of the railroads of New England is announced in the new arrangement of the Boston & Albany Railroad, by which, on and after Nov. 15, Boston & Albany mileage books will be interchangeable with those of the New York New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the Central Railroad of New England. The Chatham branch of the New Haven and the electric line to Nantasket Beach are not included in this arrangement.

In addition to the above mentioned roads, Boston & Albany mileage books will, under this new arrangement, become good on the New York Central, the Rutland and the West Shore Railroads, while the mileage of the New York Central, Rutland, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, Buffalo & Susquehanna, Central Railroad of New Jersey and Philadelphia and Reading Railroads will become good on the Boston & Albany. The only exception to this rule will be the Twentieth Century Limited, on which train no mileage books of any sort are accepted.

POLITICAL NOTES.

From preliminary plans prepared by the recess committee on dividing the state into sixteen congressional districts, Congressman John W. Weeks of this city will not be seriously affected. The new districts call for a population averaging 210,401 or about a ten per cent increase over the apportionment of 1901. As now planned Congressman Weeks will have a district with a population of 210,959, and numbered fourteen instead of twelve. He will lose from the present district, the towns of Braintree, Holbrook, Weymouth, Randolph, Hyde Park, Canton and North Attleboro, and take on the towns of Sutton, Webster, Douglas, Uxbridge and Northbridge.

The fourteenth district will be composed of Sutton, Webster, Douglas, Uxbridge, Northbridge, Upton, Milford, Hopdale, Mendon and Blackstone in Worcester County. In Middlesex County it has Newton, Watertown, Ashland, Sherborn, Hopkinton and Holliston. In Norfolk County it includes Brookline, Bellingham, Medway, Millis, Medfield, Dover, Wellesley, Needham, Dedham, Westwood, Norwood, Walpole, Norfolk, Franklin, Wrentham, Foxboro, Sharon, Stoughton, Avon and Plainville.

NEWTON CLUB

Between 200 and 300 members and guests attended the Halloween Dance of Tuesday evening last. The house was appropriately decorated for the occasion and if the moon was not generally in evidence, outside the house, its counterpart inside added much to the attractive decorative scheme which received most favorable comments. The Entertainment Committee and the ladies who assisted in the work deserve and received much credit. The Matrons, Mrs. Charles E. Daniels, Mrs. Herbert K. Hallett and Mrs. Edgar S. Barker were attired in white costumes and the whole affair partook of the Halloween spirit. Bridge was enjoyed by those not caring to dance.

Bowling of Saturday last resulted in many "goats" changing hands. High 3 string prize went to Dr. C. H. Vee with 337 and Mr. Geo. F. Schrafft took high single at 129 for Boston Pins.

The November Bulletin announces a 40 Ball Bowling Contest for Saturday, 4th inst., to run the entire evening. This is a new feature likely to be of interest. On Election Night a "Round Up" for men will fill the house with members and guests from other local clubs. Returns will be received through the evening and the usual Newton Club hospitality be looked for.

There will be a Ladies' Bridge on afternoon of Nov. 8th and a Dance and Bridge on evening of Nov. 22nd.

Thanksgiving Day, 30th, will be "Open House" with ladies invited for the evening.

At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee several additions to membership were made. Other applications have since been posted. As was the understanding when the present organization was effected numerical strength is less of a consideration than the clubable qualifications of candidates. Needless to say admissions to membership must measure up to the Committee's standard. The good times at the house and absence of cliques proves this has been done.

CARD OF THANKS.

The family of the late G. P. Atkins desire to acknowledge the many expressions of sympathy and to express their gratitude for the beautiful flowers sent to the funeral services by his friends and business associates.

D. R.

A meeting of the Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R. was held on Tuesday, Oct. 31st at the residence of Mrs. Oliver M. Fisher, Newton. Mrs. Franklin E. Smith, the Regent recently elected by the Executive Board to fill vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Mabel L. Priest, was welcomed. Other changes in office are as follows: Miss Helen L. Wells corresponding secretary and Mrs. George Agry councillor.

After the usual business was transacted a most delightful program was given in charge of Mrs. Edward E. Hayward and consisted of violin solos, beautifully rendered by Mr. G. S. Goldstein of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Mrs. Hayward accompanist. Piano solos by Miss Pauline Mason of Brookline and vocal selection by Mrs. Flocke of Boston.

Rev. Harry Lutz read an original poem entitled "Patriotism" and Rev. Jas. C. Meyer of Natick gave a fine paper upon "The part played by the German Element during the Revolution." In closing the hymn "To Our Country" written by Rev. Harry Lutz was sung by all to the tune of America.

Mrs. Susan M. Plummer the State Regent D. R. was our honored guest among the many present and brought us pleasant words of greeting. Much credit is due the hostesses and Mrs. Fisher for a most enjoyable afternoon. The hostesses were as follows: Mrs. Clifton D. Black Mrs. Edw. E. Hayward, Mrs. Hugh Campbell, Mrs. Lew C. Hill, Miss Mabel B. Clark and Miss Anna Whiting.

TAKE TIME TO VOTE

Every voter in this city should plan to take time enough to vote at the state election next Tuesday. Voting precincts are established at the most convenient points and it is a fact that the business man can prepare and cast his ballot inside of five minutes of his way to the Boston train in the morning. Take plenty of time, however, say fifteen minutes extra to allow for possible congestion at the polling booth and one can surely spare fifteen minutes once a year to this important civic duty. Take the next later train if necessary or get up a little earlier in the morning and show some indications of public spirit.

PLAYGROUND NOTES.

On last Friday afternoon the Newton Centre High School freshman girls team lost a basketball game to the Waban team by a score of 15-14.

In the morning the Rustlers beat the Hunnewell team in a Rugby game by a score of 16-6; and the Hustlers and Auburndale played a tie game 0-0.

On next Saturday at 2.30 the Senior Soccer team will play at home against the Walworth F. C. of Malden.

NEWTONVILLE M. E. CHURCH.

In furtherance of the great Men and Religion Forward Movement this active organization has laid plans for aggressive work in all branches covered by the worldwide campaign now on for moral and spiritual uplift among men. At a recent dinner held at the Newton Club the men of the church discussed the objects of the movement and planned its extension in connection with other churches. Committees were formed, to be led by the gentlemen named. On Bible Study, Prof. Robert E. Bruce; Work among Boys, Calvert Crary; Missionary Work, home and foreign, William T. Rich; Evangelism, George W. Taylor; Social Service, Wesley E. Rich. The help of these Committees supporting the line of sermons mapped out by the pastor will, it is felt, put the church in the front rank with others active in the work.

The recent renovations of the church building make it well adapted to the present needs. It is the only denomination holding Sunday evening services at Newtonville. The attendance at these has been larger this fall than usually the case, drawn by the helpful sermons of Rev. Jas. W. Campbell and the excellent musical programs by the quartet and chorus under leadership of Prof. Geo. P. Maxim.

Friends of the church have commented most favorably on the new decorative scheme of the main auditorium and the new arrangement of the Sunday School room is a great improvement over the old.

The society feels that in Rev. Mr. Campbell they have a man imbued with the true evangelistic spirit as evidenced by the success attending his special meetings. These resulted in accessions to church membership and a closer fellowship gratifying to him and helpful to all. His sermons are short, extremely practical and few hear him without a sense of his earnestness in pointing out the way to that true life of brotherhood and service to which thinking men are trying so much attention.

For Sunday morning next his theme will be "The Passion for Friendship." Service at 10.30.

Evening Service is at 7.30 the subject being "Completing the Victory."

The Lauriat Company of Boston has just issued a very attractive fall catalogue of special bargains in new importations of standard English books bought by their representatives abroad during the past summer. A copy will be mailed to any one free on application. The company's handsome bookstore is now fully equipped for fall and winter business almost all of their specialties being now in stock as well as their usual selection of the best of the new publications English and American.

THE 1912 BUDGET

Mayor Hatfield has filed with the City Clerk his estimates of appropriations needed for the year 1912. The total is $1,270,19 as against $1,270,239.19 desired by the various departments, and $1,249,570.98 appropriated for the present year. The difference, however is larger than at first appears, as the 1912 figures show a decrease in the fixed charges for sinking funds and interest of $28,154.50 and a total increase of $20,616.21 indicating an increase in departmental expenses of $48,770.71 over 1911. The larger part of this increase will be found in the Street department where the mayor approves a total $113,300 or $25,900 more for highway work $20,000 being the increase for Maintenance of streets. The police department calls for $96,101, an increase of nearly $2000. The Fire department asks for $70,881.50 an advance of about $9500, of which $5500 is for another piece of motor fire apparatus. The Health department calls for $25,068 an increase of about $2000 of which $1500 is to provide a salary for the chairman of the board, who has served for 18 years without compensation. The Forestry department asks for $15,000 for parks and squares, an increase of $5000 over the present year, and is probably intended to cover the increased cost of the various playgrounds which have been established recently all over the city. The mayor approves salary increase of $300 for the City Auditor, $300 for the deputy collector of taxes, $100 for division foreman Street department, $200 for the Forest Commissioner, $300 for the Overseer of the Poor, and of three stenographers for small amounts.

Where Only Two Share a Line

"Yes, I thought it over pretty carefully and finally decided I'd have a two-party telephone."

"With only one other subscriber on the line, it is less apt to be 'busy' when I want to use it or when some one wants to talk to me. As I figure it out, my chances of being able to use the telephone, or to be called without 'a line busy' report, are just about eight times as good as when I had a four-party-line."

"'Divided ringing' will be a great comfort, too—no bell to sound except my own. I won't have to wonder whether it was 'ring four' or 'ring five', and be either breaking into other people's talk or missing calls."

"Between you and me, it will also disappoint the curious, should you happen to have a listener on the line, because she won't hear your bell and so know when you are being called. Better look into this."

A FRENCHMAN'S STORY

By NORMAN GRANGER

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

I have been often in Paris, and the last time I was there I went to a restaurant for my meals in a house that had recently been the dwelling of a wealthy man. The landlord spoke English, and when I asked him some questions about how he came to secure so fine a house for such a purpose into his reply he wove a story. There was nothing very novel in the substance. The interest lay rather in the telling by a man who spoke English indifferently.

"The house was occupied by M. Chateau, a rich gentleman, who had a very fine daughter, Mlle. Elise Chateau she was called. When she was a young man very poor church mouse. Mademoiselle told Gaston she married him in spite of her father, in spite of everybody. But M. Chateau he found out he had a daughter of poor young man, and he made arrangements for her to marry a rich man right off, very quick. He told M. Bourdon he had a daughter for son-in-law. M. Bourdon was a rich man, and he had to marry a rich woman. Marriage in France not like marriage in America. French girl get husband through her father."

"M. Chateau told M. Bourdon, 'I gift my daughter 100,000 francs. How much you gift?'"

"I gift 100,000 francs too. That make 200,000 francs. Your daughter had that to spend on fine clothes. That make her very happy."

"All right. You go ask mademoiselle to be your wife."

"M. Bourdon he go ask mademoiselle if she be his wife for 100,000 francs."

"Mlle. Chateau she say: 'Yes, I like to be your wife very much. But I like a glass of wine?' M. Bourdon drink glass wine with mademoiselle. Then he go away. The next matin he go to M. Chateau, very pale, and he say: 'M. Chateau, you had done me great honor to let me marry your daughter. Mademoiselle do me great honor to consent to marry me.'"

"And you do me great honor, too, monsieur."

"Yes, we all do each other great honor, but I think I no like get married just now. I not good enough for your daughter."

"What you mean, monsieur? Didn't you ask me for my daughter?"

"Yes, monsieur."

"And didn't you ask my daughter to be your wife?"

"Yes, monsieur."

"Then you mean to insult me, to insult my daughter? By gar, I break every bone in your body!"

"I not insult you; I not insult your daughter. I not like to die just yet. I like to live a little longer."

"What you mean?"

"I go ask mademoiselle if she be my wife. Mademoiselle she kind enough to say, 'You do me great honor, Mr. Bourdon.' And she make me happy to say she be my wife. But she make me unhappy another way. Mademoiselle ask me to have glass of wine. I ver' happy, ver' much honor, to drink the health of my fiancée. I like all in do glass down at one gulp. Then I go home."

"What's that in my stomach? Eat must be I drink in that glass of wine hot coals. I roll on de floor; I cry; I tell Gasconne go quick for the doctor. The doctor come, and he put pump down my throat and pump out do wine your honored daughter kind enough to gift me. Very fine girl Mlle. Chateau. I ver' much honored to be her man, but I think I remain bachelor little while longer."

"M. Chateau ver' glad to hush up these matters that his daughter gift a suit something hot in de wine. Maybe that be poison; maybe it be she put tobacco in de bottle. Anyway, M. Bourdon had enough of her. He tell her father to make his excuses to his daughter and say he remain bachelor little while longer."

"Then M. Chateau he shut his daughter up in the house and lock all the doors and close the windows so that Gaston Lefevre not get in or Mlle. Elise get out. But when two lovers make up their minds to love they ferret out to shut up so they didn't get out. One night robbers broke into the house, but they didn't steal anything except Mlle. Elise. One of those robbers was Gaston Lefevre."

"When M. Chateau knew that his daughter had gone off to marry that poor man he raved like madman. Then he go away by himself somewhere and put up paper on the house for rent. One day I come along and see the bill, and I go to the agent, and I rent the house for café."

"What wine will monsieur drink?"

"I certainly don't want the kind Mlle. Chateau gave her fiancé. You didn't take any of it off her father's hands with the house, did you?"

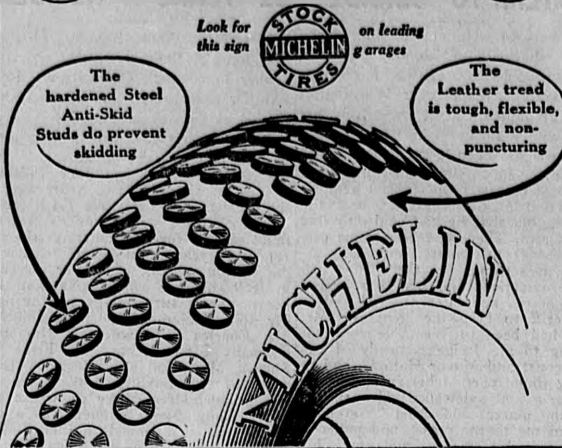

"No, monsieur, no! I assure monsieur that mademoiselle put pepper or something like that in de wine. I bring all my wine here."

I ordered what I fancied, and he went away, saying: "I must go now. As you Americans say, 'I have some fish to fry.'"

"Well," I said, "when you have fried your fish come back and tell me another love story. You needn't trouble yourself about the substance. All love stories are alike. You have a quaint way of telling yours. Then the politeness of you French people is delicious. We American men are deferential to women, but we don't carry our deference so far as to take off our hats to them when they pour hot stuff into us."

FORTY-FIVE STUDENTS TAKE PART.

The Faellen Piano School will present a unique program next Saturday afternoon in Huntington chambers Hall when forty-five students of various ages and degrees of advancement will participate. The solo players will be Elizabeth C. Forrest of East Boston, Mildred A. Colby of West Newton, Margaret Wyman of Cambridge and Mary Morton Washburn of West Somerville. A class of seventeen little children, who began their studies September 23d last will give an illustration of the Faellen system of instruction, showing their facility in transposing their pieces into different keys as requested by the audience. The remaining pupils will present ensemble numbers by various composers.

—Rev. W. T. Stackhouse, Secretary of the Baptist Laymen's Movement, delivered an address at the meeting of the men of the Baptist churches of Newton and Brookline held last night at the Newton Centre church.

—Members of the Delta-Gamma Club were entertained last Friday evening at a progressive dinner. The first course was served at the home of Miss Elmer Keith on Washington street, the second course at the home of Miss Margaret Clarke on Honeewell hill. Third course at the home of Miss Helen James on Park street. Fourth course at the home of Miss Marian Zinderstein of Park street. Twenty-six members and their friends were present and at the close of the dinner dancing was enjoyed until a late hour at the residence of Miss Barbara Wellington on Church street. Miss Marjorie Holmes presided at the piano.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

At the regular meeting of the school committee last week the resignation of Miss Mabel F. Lawton of the Mason school was received and Miss Ethel Fair transferred from the Bowen to the Mason school. Miss Mary C. Murphy was appointed a teacher in the Bowen school.

The Newton Savings Bank was authorized to receive deposits from the children in the public schools.

ROWE-HOWLETT.

Miss Marion Howlett, daughter of Mrs. Aledine Howlett of 69 Prince st., West Newton, was married Tuesday evening to Edward Bennett Rowe of Newark, Ohio, son of Walter L. Rowe of Gloucester, at the home of the bride by Rev. John Matteson, pastor of the Church of the Messiah of Auburn-dale.

The bride was attended by Miss Mabel Whitney, Miss Alice Atwood, Miss Carrie Leonard and Miss Amy Rowe as bridesmaids and the best man was Ralph Thomas.

The bride is a graduate of Wellesley College, where she belonged to several clubs. Following the ceremony there was a reception. The couple left on an extended wedding journey to their new home in Newark, Ohio.

MILLER-SNOW.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Snow of Woodbine street was the scene of a pretty home wedding Wednesday evening, when Miss Florence Isabel Snow became the bride of Mr. Roy Lee Miller of Auburn-dale. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. William C. Gordon pastor of the Congregational church in the presence of relatives of the bride and groom only. The bride was becomingly gowned in white crepe-de-chine and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Among the wedding presents was a check for a generous sum of money, the gift of Mr. C. F. Snow of Albany, N. Y., an uncle of the bride. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Miller will reside at No. 30 Woodbine street and will be at home to their friends after Dec. 1st.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Mr. Walter R. Furlough, the new Public Buildings Commissioner, began his new duties Wednesday morning. This office, hereafter will be open all day, instead of on special hours as heretofore.

The report of the National Board of Fire Underwriters on the Water and Fire departments of this city has been received and its recommendations will be published in the near future.

City Treasurer Newhall's office established a new record for tax receipts on Nov. 1st, when the day's cash amounted to $361,142.88 and the grand total to date of $861,535.13 as compared with a total of $821,691.17 on the same day in 1910. It should also be borne in mind that the tax warrant this year is $30,000 less than that of 1910, due to the lower tax rate.

BURTON-EATON.

Miss Helen Lancaster Eaton of Brunswick and Felix Arnold Burton of Newton Centre, were married at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Eaton of 17 Federal street, Brunswick, Maine Tuesday evening by Rev. John Hastings Quint, pastor of the First Parish Congregational Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton will reside at Helena, Mont. The bride is a graduate of Wheaton Seminary and last year took a special course at Simmons College. The bridegroom graduated from Bowdoin in 1907 and later from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

A little lad was found on the street crying very bitterly because his cart was broken. A kindly-disposed stranger endeavored to cheer the little fellow up by saying, "Never mind, my boy, your father can easily mend that." "No, he can't," sobbed the boy. "My father is a professor and doesn't know about anything."

How a "Working Governor" Works the People

THE CLAIMS

The Workingmen's Compensation Act.

The 54-hour bill for women and children.

Eight-hour day for State laborers.

Direct Primaries.

Economy in State Institutions.

THE TRUTH

Proposed by Republicans, framed by a Republican, passed by Republican votes.

Passed by Republicans in the face of Governor Foss's threat to veto it, signed only after threats of labor leaders.

Eight-hour day established by act signed by Gov. Guild.

First advocated by Wm. M. Olin, Republican Secretary of the Commonwealth, supported by Republican leaders, passed by Republican votes.

No reduction in appropriations for their support, because no extravagance could be found.

These are samples of the misrepresentations upon which he pleads for re-election. With them go the shameless untruths in the attack on Frothingham, such as the charge that he voted against free text books.

For honor, fairness and efficiency in the governorship vote for

Tremont Theatre—With the original cast and the New Amsterdam Theatre production of New York presenting "Madame Sherry" the merry musical play has settled down for a long and prosperous run which will not terminate for several weeks. Lina Aharbanel is the prima donna star and Messrs Woods, Frazee and Lederer have surrounded her with an expert cast of fun makers singers and dancers and have not let money stand in the way of giving Boston the best production of "Madame Sherry" that has been sent on tour. Seats are selling four weeks in advance and capacity business is looked for throughout the engagement. Eighty-five companies are now presenting "Madame Sherry" and wherever music is played there is heard the strains of "Every Little Movement" the motif song of the play.

Hollis Street Theatre—Monday evening will bring a new star to the Hollis in Jolly Frank McIntyre who will be presented at that playhouse for two weeks by Henry B. Harris in "Snobs", the satirical farce by George Bronson-Howard in which Mr. McIntyre has scored tremendously at the Hudson Theatre New York, coming to Boston direct from his successful engagement there. Frank McIntyre is no stranger to the playing contingent of the country for he has been a featured player for many years and has attained the rank of star through long and successful schooling. Now that he is to be seen as the star of his own company Mr. McIntyre will have a somewhat different role from any he has ever attempted but one that is more replete than ever with the fun making opportunities which he makes the most of. The play is in three acts and is handsomely mounted. Henry B. Harris has surrounded his new star with a splendid cast which includes Myrtle Tannehill, Helen Bond, Katherine Stewart, Eva McDold, Regan Hughton, Orlando Daly, John Cumberland, and a number of others.

The Sunday Evening Concerts at the Castle Square are providing the very best high class refined entertainment, and they are being largely patronized. The one to be given this coming Sunday will have on its program a list of musicians and other artists, and in addition 5000 feet of the very latest motion pictures will be shown. Seats are on sale at the box office throughout the week. The overture starts promptly at 8 o'clock, and the entertainment continues for two hours and a half.

An entirely new program of views is being given at Tremont Temple thus attracting many people who have already seen these Coronation pictures, and who are loud in their praises of them. The Crowning of the Prince of Wales, is one of the new scenes shown and among others is a stunning representation of the London Horse Show, one of the great events of the English social year. Processions and ceremonies are still shown with all their glittering color and array of men of all nations, and the entire entertainment gives a series of motion pictures such as never before exhibited. The entertainment is given every afternoon at 2.30 and every evening at 8.15.

"Voting machines or other mechanical devices for voting may be used at all elections under such regulations as may be prescribed by law; provided, however, that the right of secret voting shall be preserved."

Second Article of Amendment.

"The Legislature may by special acts for the purpose of laying out, widening or relocating highways or streets, authorize the taking in fee by the Commonwealth, or by a county, city or town of more land or property than is needed for the actual construction of such highway or street; provided, however, that the land and property authorized to be taken are specified in the act and are no more in extent than would be sufficient for suitable building lots on both sides of such highway or street; and after so much of the land or property has been appropriated for such highway or street as is needed therefor, may authorize the sale of the remainder for value with or without suitable restrictions."

Also for voting Yes or No upon the questions of acceptance of the provisions of the following Acts: Chapter 468, Acts of 1911, being "An Act to extend the provisions of the Civil Service Act to Chiefs of Police of certain cities and towns," and Chapter 634, Acts of 1911, being "An Act authorizing the counties of the Commonwealth to establish retirement systems for their employees."

All of the above officers and questions to be voted for on one ballot.

The polls will be opened at six o'clock in the forenoon and closed at thirty-two minutes past four o'clock in the afternoon, at the following named places:—

SHE COLLECTED THE ACCOUNT

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

When Reinhart was in business he sold a man named Merritt some goods that were never paid for. Reinhart sent a collector after him, and the man came back with a black eye. He sent another man, and he came back with a broken jaw. Reinhart found it impossible to get any more collectors after that, for he felt in honor bound to tell them that Merritt was a fighting man and sent every collector back with some damage instead of the amount due.

One day a young woman came into Reinhart's store and asked him if he had any bad debts to give her for collection. She was pretty, and a good natured smile continually played about her red lips, just like a humming bird flitting near a flower.

Suddenly a bright thought struck Reinhart. He would give this girl Merritt's debt to collect. He told her that there was an amount he would like to get in, but felt bound to inform her of the reception his men collectors had met and to warn her that she would be liable to receive some pretty rough treatment.

"Just the kind of man I like," she said, with the same delightful smile. "I have no use for these mild mannered men—ha, ha! But you don't think he'll really hurt me, do you?" Reinhart told her that any man who would hurt such a charming young woman would be a brute indeed and assured her that if she received any bodily injury from Merritt he (Reinhart) would have Merritt arrested and see that he was punished.

The amount of the bill was $185.57, with $38.42 for interest. Reinhart told the girl (Miss Anthon she called herself) that he would give her half the amount if she succeeded in collecting it all and 50 per cent of whatever amount she did collect. He made out a fresh bill and gave it to the collector, and she went away smiling.

The next day Miss Anthon went to see Merritt, with the same pleasant smile on her face, and succeeded in getting into his house without his knowing her errand. He received her kindly, but when she sprung the bill on him he told her that if she didn't leave instantly she would be ejected. She replied by sitting down in Merritt's study—he was a literary man—and removing her hat, let him see that she was going to stay till she chose to go. But she smiled on him that perpetual smile of hers, and the debtor, forgetting his debt, watched her, wondering where it came from. She didn't seem a bit afraid, paying no attention to his threat to have her put out. She rattled on about various things in a simple and childlike way, saying nothing more about the collection. She sat an hour, after which she arose and asked if Merritt would take up the matter if the interest were remitted. Since there was nothing very definite in this, Merritt said that if the interest were deducted he would surely consider putting the matter in shape for ultimate payment.

He chuckled when he closed the door on the collector and thought what an innocent, guileless girl she was. Surely Reinhart had resorted to a very stupid method of getting his account. But Merritt noticed that the girl had left her smile behind her. He was writing a story at the time of her entrance and attempted to continue it after her departure. It refused to be continued. It seemed to Merritt that his characters were laughing at him. He threw down his pen and, taking up his hat, started out to walk off this indisposition for work that had come upon him.

The next afternoon Miss Anthon called again on Mr. Merritt, and it seemed to the author that a fountain sparkling and making rainbows in the sun had come in with her. She began by saying something pleasant, and ran from that to something else pleasant, and then something else pleasant still, till it occurred to Merritt that she was like the girl in the fairy story who every time she spoke, dropped a pearl from her lips. She made herself at home as before, and Merritt made no threat of ejection. When she departed she told him that Reinhart was perfectly willing to throw off the interest from his bill, and she wished to know what Mr. Merritt thought of a compromise of the account at 50 cents on the dollar.

Merritt dismissed her, saying that he thought 50 cents on the dollar quite enough to pay under the circumstances, and Miss Anthon took her departure, again leaving her smile behind her. A fortnight passed and she had not called again. Merritt missed her. One day he met her on the street and asked her when she was coming to receive payment for the compromise amount of the Reinhart bill. She told him that Reinhart wanted the full amount of the bill, with the interest.

"Well, come in and talk it over," he said. The next day Merritt was revived by a call from the collector. It seemed that he had been living at the north pole in December and with her entrance he had been transferred to the land of the never settling sun.

To shorten a long story, Merritt agreed to pay the full amount of the account on installments. Miss Anthon called for the installments, giving a receipt and a smile for each. For the last installment she gave him a kiss and he gave her an engagement ring.

Voters of this city will be called upon next Tuesday to vote on two proposed amendments to the constitution of the state. The first will authorize the legislature to provide for voting by machine and it should receive the assent of every citizen. Maine has recently given us a striking lesson as to the possibilities of trouble with a written ballot. Not only is there the possible disagreement among the election officers as to the intent of the voter, when he is careless in marking a ballot, but there is always the possibility of the ballots being lost, defaced, or altered. Machine voting will remedy all these inherent defects of the written ballot, and will enable the voter not only to indicate his choice of candidates himself, but insure the fact that his vote will be counted as cast.
It should be borne in mind by the more conservative voters who may hesitate over the change as being too radical, that a YES vote does not absolutely require machine voting, it only authorizes the legislature to adopt that plan if it sees fit.

A second proposed amendment to the constitution will allow a municipality in laying out new highways, to take more than the actual land needed for the street and to sell the land so taken after the street improvement has been made. Such a law would have been of great value when this city videned Washington street, and is in line with work of this character abroad. It should be adopted.

In addition to the regular state and county officers to be chosen next Tuesday, two questions will be submitted to the voters of this city for approval or rejection. The most important is that extending the civil service law to the office of chief of police. Newton has had the true civil service spirit so long in its city offices that the question should not be long debated. In most cities the office of chief of police is the football of politics and while Newton has been remarkably free in this respect, it should heavily favor this bill. Chief Mitchell himself is strongly in favor of the bill, as it will ensure a tenure of office during good behavior. "a consummation devoutly to be wished" in every political office.

The second act will allow the County of Middlesex to establish a retirement system for its employees, and is in line with the growing sentiment of the country in this respect. A favorable ballot on this question is also advised.

A word ought also to be said in behalf of the reelection of Senator Henry C. Mulligan. In the event of the re-election of Mr. Frithingham as governor, it is most important that he should have behind him a republican majority in the Senate and House. There is but little doubt as to the re-election of the three republican representatives in this city, Messrs. Bothfeld, Ellis and White, having made a splendid record during the two years of service already given and the city will surely appreciate the added influence they will have on legislation at the coming session. The Senate, however, presents a different problem and the republican majority the last session was none too large for the good of the Commonwealth. Senator Mulligan has served three terms and should prove of great value to the state and district in the General Court of 1912, and Newton, having virtually dictated his re-nomination, should do his full share towards his re-election.

The voters of Massachusetts have their choice next Tuesday between Foss and Cushman, and Frithingham and Decency. There should be no doubt whatever as to the result.

I have been glad to find a growing sentiment in this city among Republicans who voted for Mr. Foss for governor last year as a "protest" against the Republican party, to return to the party which more nearly meets with their ideals of civic righteousness.
They have realized that Mr. Foss' extravagant claims and promises have not and cannot be fulfilled either by him personally or by the party of which he is the nominal head. They also realize that the Commonwealth is not benefited by a governor who endeavors to obtain temporary political advantage by traducing it and who uses its operative offices as a means to advance his own political welfare.

On the other hand, the Republican party presents a candidate, who has had wide and splendid experience in state affairs, a modest, but able man, one who is incapable of slurring the Commonwealth, but who will on the contrary, advocate its advantages, and defend its reputation to the last.

The time for filing nominations for the Republican ticket at the coming city election expires tomorrow afternoon, but there seems to be little interest taken in the matter. Mayor Hatfield will be unopposed for the mayoralty nomination and there will be aldermanic changes in Ward two where Aldermen Leonard and Avery retire, in Ward Three where Alderman Woods declines to run again, Ward Six, where a successor will be selected in place of President Jones, and in Ward Seven where Alderman Towle refuses to accept a re-nomination. For school committee there will be new names in place of Mr. Fred H. Tucker of Ward 1 and Hon. Henry E. Bothfeld of Ward 7, both of whom decline further service on the committee. In Ward 4, Mrs. Davidson will undoubtedly be renominated if she cares to serve again.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

"All roads lead to Rome." Thus it was in ancient times when Rome was the capital of all the world. We of the Western world have a capital, too. Why, then, do not all roads of the present day lead to Washington? Some of them do. The Club Editor's did the other day, only hers was the "Pennsylvania." It was not a club errand that brought her there, yet it was a big meeting. And after all, big meetings, be they of club women or what not, produce much the same effect upon those attending, at least when all are brought together with the same deep underlying principle. The inspiration of numbers counts for much in what ever we are trying to do.

Washington is the city beloved by all who visit it. It compares most favorably with other capital cities and here at least we have no need to apologize unless it be for our newness and our cleanliness.

But the Club Editor set out to speak of the Continental Hall and not the city and her space is nearly gone before she begins. This hall as is familiar to all was built by the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution in which to hold their Continental Congresses. The society is certainly to be congratulated in the result. A classic building of white marble, simple, dignified, and perfectly adapted to its purpose. It stands just south of the Corcoran Art Gallery facing the Executive Grounds where it adorns what promises to be a beautiful group. The convention hall itself is admirably arranged for seeing and hearing, the distance being comparatively short from platform to the rear and has galleries on three sides. The seating capacity can be enlarged on each side by opening doors from the library and the museum. It is as fine a convention hall as the Club Editor has seen and certainly Boston has nothing to compare with it. And this building was erected by women!

The C. I. S. C. will meet with Miss Macall, 3 Forest street, Newton Highlands on Monday Nov. 6, at 2.30.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands will meet with Mrs. Moulton of 1028 Walnut street on November 6.

On Monday evening The Newton Mothers' Club will entertain their friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Speare, 550 Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre. Mr. A. E. Dodd of the North Bennett Street Industrial School will be the speaker.

The Newtonville Woman's Guild will hold its first meeting of the season at the New Church parlors on Tuesday, Nov. 7. Dr. Leon Vincent will lecture upon "Anthony Trollope."

The Social Science Club will meet at Hunnewell Club on Wednesday, Nov. 8 at 10 A. M. "Modern Philanthropy" will be discussed for three meetings. The subject of the first paper will be "Scientific Methods of Co-operation."

On Nov. 9 the Newton Centre Woman's Club has a stereopticon lecture on "Chanticleer" by Rev. Henry E. Rose of Newark, N. J.

Those interested in Civil Service Reform are reminded of the Study Class which will meet at the Public Library, Boston, on Saturday morning, Nov. 4, at 10.30. Edwin A. Shaw of the Natick High School will be in charge.

The annual reception of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held at the home of Mrs. A. V. H. Clifford on Centre street, Newton, Friday October 27th.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Thos. as Elwell, president; Mrs. Alvin H. Clifford, Mrs. Arthur Hill, Mrs. Susie Diamond and Mrs. Fred Young. Ushers Mrs. Frederic Sargeant, Mrs. Maie M. Intosh, Mrs. George St. Amant, Mrs. Alice Smith and Miss Ethel Morgan.

The rooms were prettily decorated with pink chrysanthemums and the tables with large bunches of chrysanthemums and pink and white cosmos. Refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. Arthur B. Munroe chairman of the hospitality committee. Mrs. Walter Beadle, Mrs. Samuel Pray, Mrs. Ernest Shubert, Mrs. Samuel Fleming and Mrs. Everett Jones poured and were assisted in serving by Mrs. Sidney Sargent, Mrs. Noyers and Mrs. Charles Conant. Mrs. Harry Wells served frappe.

A large number of the club members were present, as well as friends from neighboring clubs, the Review Club of Auburndale; the Monday Club, the C. I. S. C. the Shakespeare Club, of Newton Highlands; the Social Science Club of Newton and the Polymnia Club being represented.

Miss Van Cleave's orchestra from the New England Conservatory of music furnished the music for the afternoon.

The regular meeting of the Review Club was held with Miss Margaret Haskell, Vista avenue Auburndale on Tuesday, October 31, thirty-three members and twentyone guests being present. Mrs. Miller was able to preside. The usual routine business was followed by a paper written by Mrs. Gordon, the subject being "Theatres, Actors and Playgoers of the 16th Century."

Mrs. Pelouhet read a paper which she had written on "Interludes. Early English Comedy and Tragedy."

A play called "The Weather" by John Heywood was ably presented by Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. Pelouhet, Mrs. Gordon, Miss Smith, Miss Pelouhet and Mrs. Almy. This quaint and amusing play and the simple costumes as interpreted by these members proved most entertaining and the papers very instructive.

A special meeting of the Waban Woman's Club was held Monday Oct. 30 at 3 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Andrews the president. Mrs. Bertrand E. Taylor addressed the members and developed a plan for unifying the charitable interests of Newton. The 1911-1912 season of the club begins officially Nov. 6. Mrs. H. W. Hayes of Woodard St. will be hostess at a Reception Musical, and Tea.

The Newton Centre Woman's Club opened its season on October 26 with a social meeting. Mrs. Henry G. Peaton reported the work of the "Drama League" and Mrs. H. H. Kendall, the "Playground League." There was vocal music by Mrs. Marie Kaula Stone and selections by the Cecilia Harp Trio. A reception to new members and tea followed. There was a large attendance and everything promises a successful year.

On Thursday morning of this week Mrs. Leila C. Pennek of Somerville gave the first of a series of five talks upon Current Events before the Club.

The first of November sees the Newton Highlands Monday Club well on its way for this industrious club starts in with the beginning of October. Egypt has been its course of study and the gateway, the land and the people have already been treated. On Monday last the excavations were considered and there was a review of "Egyptian Princesses."

The Social Science Club held its first meeting of the season at the Hunnewell Club on Wednesday morning. The first hour was given to the business of the club, Miss Grace Weston, the new president, was in the chair.

Among the reports submitted Mrs. C. R. Gleason, chairman of the Social Service committee, told of the summer work at Stearns Neighborhood House.

She said that it is going on satisfactorily under the new head worker. The attendance has averaged from 100 to 300 children. The playgrounds have been much used during the summer, swings being especially in demand, of which a larger number could have been used. Plans are already being made for the Christmas festivities and more money is greatly needed. Of the Girls' Club she said, the leader is Miss Mary Rock and at its first meeting held recently 27 were present. Some misunderstanding has arisen in regard to the summer work from the fact that the Stearns School grounds were used for the playground and thereby the City has received the credit, when in reality it was being conducted by the Stearns Neighborhood House with assistance from the Mothers' Club.

Mrs. L. S. Drake reported the work in the School Gardens. The hot and dry weather necessitated some of the gardens being planted four times, but notwithstanding these difficulties the interest has been well sustained.

The second hour of the morning was given to the presentation of Mrs. B. E. Taylor, chairman of the Social Service Committee of the Newton Federation of a plan for unifying the various philanthropic, charitable and social organizations of Newton, that better results may be obtained with less expenditure of money, time and strength. Bureau of Newton Activities has been suggested as a name. Mrs. George H. Wilkins, acting president of the Newton Federation, who was also present, emphasized the fact that this new arrangement was in no way to supersede the already organized charities, but would help to conserve human energy and human need. Questions and discussion closed the morning.

CONFERENCE OF PRESIDENTS.

On Saturday, October 28, by courtesy of the Mattapanamuck Club, of Boston, the presidents and two members of the Federated clubs of Massachusetts met for conference at the Hawes Unitarian Church at two o'clock. The subject for the conference was "The Ideal President, from the Viewpoint of the Club and from the Viewpoint of the Federation."

This was the first official appearance of the new president of the State Federation, Mrs. Henry C. Mulligan. If she had had any doubt of the loyalty of the members of the Federation, it must have been forever set at rest by the greeting which she received as she appeared upon the platform. After calling the meeting to order Mrs. Mulligan introduced Mrs. Littlefield president of the hostess club, who in her words of welcome gave a bit of the history of South Boston from the time it was in the hands of the British to the present day, when its only distinction is its Marine Park.

In her response Mrs. Mulligan referred to the fact that this was the first time she had presided over a State Federation meeting and that she did so with the utmost diffidence. She expressed faith in the effect of the conferences as ties which cement the clubs together in the work of the Federation broadening the vision of our duties, first to our homes and children, and then to the "down-trodden and desolate."

Owing to the fact that the Endowment Fund of the General Federation required immediate action by the clubs a portion of the session was given up to its consideration. Mrs. Elizabeth Denison of South Framingham, General Federation Secretary, explained the plan and purpose, showing it to be for the purpose of helping the great philanthropic and altruistic work of the General Federation. The effort at the Cincinnati Biennial to raise the dues having failed, it was planned to give every woman in the Federation an opportunity to prove her faith and loyalty by being a contributor to the Fund, be the gift large or small. It is not intended to take the money from the club treasury.

Mrs. Emmons Crocker, chairman of the Conservation in the General Federation said, "If you believe in the relation of the Federal Government to the States, then you must believe in the State Federations supporting the work of the General Federation. The large sum, $10,000, asked from Massachusetts is because this Federation is second in size only to New York. Mrs. Penny-packer, chairman of the Endowment Fund committee, had expressed her great faith in Massachusetts' ability and willingness and that what she did would be an institution to other Federations. Mrs. Crocker also stated that not only the chairman of every General Federation committee have to do all the work, but she has also to go deep into her pocket besides. Miss Georgie Bacon who received an ovation when she rose to speak, corroborated all that had been said and added that no woman of limited means could accept a chairmanship and thereby the Federation was deprived of the services of many capable, brilliant women. From her own experience as chairman for four years she showed how small a part of the work done could be done with the one hundred dollars allowed each committee. Many questions brought out that the most that could be done before the Autumn meeting of the Federation would be to ascertain what the clubs would do, and doubtless the time for collecting it would be extended.

Turning to the subject of the afternoon "The Ideal Club President" the discussion was very free and was closed only because the time limit was reached. Presidents and other officers from Newton, Lowell, Woburn, Dorchester, Milton and very many of the clubs were heard from and the consensus of opinion was, That a President must be diplomatic, keen in perception, wise, slow of judgment, familiar with constitution and by-laws, must not magnify her office, must keep in touch with the work of the Federation, must have abundance of time, and be sweet, tactful, true and womanly—in short, a perfect woman.

Mrs. G. W. Perkins brought a message from Mrs. Eva Perry Moore, president of the General Federation, executive of her enjoyment of her visit to Massachusetts and the annual meeting at New Bedford.

A message of congratulation was sent to Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker on her recovery from her recent illness. After a vote of thanks to the hostess club for its hospitality the meeting was adjourned.

The teachers of the Newton High School were entertained recently by the Faculty of the Newton Technical High School at an informal gathering in the school library. Refreshments were served by the girls of the H. T. Department, the coffee tables being in charge of Mrs. Enoch C. Adams and Mrs. Irving O. Palmer and Miss Evelyn Hammond had served frappe. The Library was tastefully decorated with Autumn foliage.

The Royal Commissioners on Education from Canada inspected the Newton Technical High School on Monday.

On Wednesday morning the girls met in the assembly hall and were given a talk by a representative of the Massachusetts General Hospital. On Wednesday a stereoscopic lecture was given to the commercials on filing.

There will be a candy sale Friday the tenth in the drill hall.

Tuesday, Somerville High and Newton High practiced together at the new recreation field in Somerville.

Two interclass football games will be held on Tuesday November 14th at Claffin field, 1912 vs 1913 and 1914 vs 1915.

An interclass cross country running meet is to be held. The trophy is a silver shield. There is no entrance fee and no limit to entries. This is open to everyone.

The Commercial Alumni will hold a meeting on Friday the seventeenth of November. They will discuss points of use to the pupils and give helpful hints as to what they have found necessary in their business life which might be used in the school.

A PLEASANT VISIT.

Nearly a hundred members and friends of the Massachusetts Press Association were guests last week of the United Shoe Machinery Company at their plant in Beverly. The party met at the Brunswick Hotel, Boston, in the morning and were taken to Beverly in fourteen automobiles furnished by the Vinal Motor Renting Co. of Boston, whose fine cars and careful chauffeurs added greatly to the pleasure of the trip. The route was thru Cambridge, Somerville, Middlesex Fells and Revere Beach Parkways, Lynn, Swampscott, and Salem and the fine club house erected by the Shoe Machinery Co. for its employees was reached about one o'clock. This clubhouse by the way, is one of the latest things in the way of social service on the part of large corporations. It includes fine reading rooms, a large hall for entertainments and dancing, billiard, pool and bowling and is equipped with showerbaths and toilet arrangements. The club membership is but one dollar a year and no officer of the Company is allowed to act in any capacity whatever in the clubhouse, the management being vested wholly in the hands of the employees.

A fine lunch was served in the dance hall, Mr. Louis A. Coolidge, secretary of the Company presiding and there was no speaking. The party were then escorted thru the immense plant of the Company the various processes being explained as the different departments were reached. The buildings are well lighted, fire proof and splendidly adapted for the work performed by the 5000 and more employees of the company. Possibly the greatest interest was shown in the forge room and foundry, where the work in hot metals was most fascinating.

Following the inspection of the factory, the remainder of the afternoon was devoted to an automobile ride down the North Shore as far as Manchester. The return trip to Boston was made under perfect conditions, with a glorious sunset to add to the days pleasure.

The annual meeting of the Claffin Guard Veteran Association will be held on Thursday evening Nov. 9th, the members being guests of the retiring president Mr. Lewis R. Spence. This will be the 17th anniversary of the Association and also observes the service rendered by the active company in 1872 at the Boston fire.

Waban

Vote for Frothingham and Decency
 Mr. W. R. Fisher of Pilgrim road was in New York on business for a few days this week.

Misses Janet and Fannie Rane of Beacon street were hostesses at a merry Halloween party of High School young people on Tuesday evening.

Several detectives in full disguise were recognized about Waban streets on Halloween prepared to prevent the tricks for which the young of the village in past years have gained some reputation but all was reported "quiet" along the Charles and no ice cream disappeared or blinds changed their location this year.

Next week Saturday evening the Waban Tennis Courts begins its social events with a "Farmer's Party" in Besse Hall, restricted to members of that popular organization. At this event the tennis trophies will be presented to the various winners and there will be prizes for the best, worst and funniest costumes, beside games, dancing and refreshments. Mr. G. M. Angier is in charge.

The winter social season will soon be in full swing being ushered in by the production of a two act comedy "The New Crusade" by a number of ladies of the Union Circle in Waban hall tonight and tomorrow night. Vocal selections by Mr. F. A. Simmons will be rendered this evening and the affair will end Saturday with an informal dance. The proceeds are to be turned in to the building fund.

Lower Falls

Vote for Frothingham and Decency
 Miss Baurly has closed her house and gone in town for the winter.

Mr. Charles Scott and family, who have been living on Washington street have moved into the house formerly occupied by E. J. Jordan on Grove street.

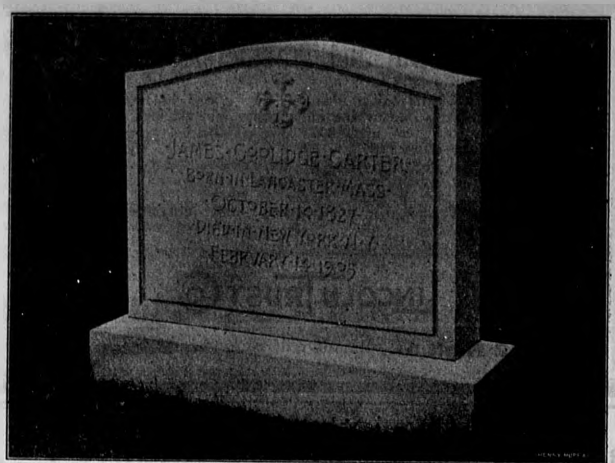

A meeting will be held in the school hall on Monday evening to form a girls social club. All past graduates of the school are asked to come and talk over plans for the winter.

A well attended Democratic Rally was held in the square on Monday evening. The speakers were Mr. J. S. Cannon, candidate for senator on last year's ticket and the candidates who are hoping for election this year as Representatives. They spoke from automobiles and seemed much pleased with the attendance and enthusiasm of their audience.

A new club to promote sports in this town was formed last Friday evening at a meeting attended by many of the young men of this section. The name of the organization is to be the Newton Lower Falls Athletic Association. The officers elected were: Alfred Murray, pres.; James Burns, vice-pres.; John O'Neil, fin. sec.; Roy Early, treas.; J. F. Murphy, J. F. O'Brien and Dr. L. J. Maskell, trustees. A baseball team will represent the club on the diamond next spring. A concert and dance are to be given later.

LODGES.

The Halloween dance held in Odd Fellows Hall, West Newton, on Tuesday evening under the auspices of Tennyson Rebekah Lodge was greatly enjoyed by the large number of young people present. The decorations and costumes made a scene under the brilliantly lighted dome that was one of the prettiest ever witnessed in that hall.

THE NEW IMPERIALISM.

The history of the world has been largely the story of the rise and fall of great empires. Babylonian, Assyrian, Persian, Greek, Roman, Spanish, Turkish, have risen, flourished and decayed giving place to others. The British, the German, the Russian, the Chinese empires are today dividing the world between them. They are struggling for expansion of trade and territory and too often by the old barbaric methods of war, intrigue and intimidation.

Meanwhile a new empire has been arising with a new spirit, new aims and ambitions, new methods of conquest, providing a new goal for human effort. This is the Empire of Christ or the Kingdom of God. It offers to mankind a new program: Freedom instead of oppression. Service instead of slavery. Peace instead of war. It proposes to abolish ignorance, crime, disease and poverty. It proposes to establish, in place of these ancient enemies of mankind, an universal reign of righteousness, peace and prosperity.

The New Method of Conquest.

Longfellow, the golden singer who dwelt by the Charles River, "and has made its margin dear" to all generations, describes the new method in immortal lines contained in his "Arsenal at Springfield." They should be placed in a conspicuous position in every church, school, city hall, store, office, factory and home in our land, and learned by every child. These lines are the watchword of the new imperialism, the Marsellaise which will awaken men to glory such as Caesar and Napoleon never knew, and lead to an universal empire which shall endure as long as the sun in heaven.

"Were half the power that fills the earth with terror
Were half the wealth bestowed on camps and courts Given to redeem the human mind from
There were no need of arsenals and forts."

The New Battle Cry.

That is the modern battle cry, the watch word of the new imperialism. We who believe in the universal empire of Christ, the empire of peace and love and service, say "O men to whom God has entrusted the power and wealth of the world, give us half as much for education and religion as you spend for war and we will show you results that will dim all the glories of human achievement hitherto. Give us half what you spend on battleships and armies and fortifications in a single year, and we will evangelize the whole world in this generation. We will send forth an army of preachers and teachers and doctors and nurses and organizers of industry, pioneers in the new world of endeavor which God has opened to us; an army which will accomplish more in a single generation for the advancement of human happiness than you have accomplished with your anti-war and discredited methods of war, and preparations for war in 6000 years.

The Answer.

What reply do we get to our offer? "You are dreamers. Who ever heard of such a thing? Why we spend a billion dollars a year on this war game of ours, 10 to 20 millions for a single dreadnought. Do you really mean what you say? Do you want us to give you half as much for foreign missions as we spend on our little war game, $500,000,000 for Missions? Why what would you do with so much money? You might as well spend it on a few thousands in converting those billion heathen. We will spend a billion dollars getting ready to play the big manly game of war, while you spend your pennies on your little plan for the conversion of the world."

The Value of a Missionary.

And yet a missionary has a cash value. He is worth more even as a police officer than a dreadnought. Gen. Sir Charles Warren, Governor of Natal says: "For the preservation of peace between the colonists and natives, one missionary is worth a battalion of soldiers." Besides he is cheaper. What then would be the value of a battalion of Missionaries? They would be worth more than all the armies of the world! This merely to preserve peace; and to preserve peace is only one of the duties of the missionary. To advance knowledge, civilization, health, wealth, happiness, love, truth, beauty, brotherly kindness, cooperation and efficiency, to achieve all these the missionary or battalion of missionaries would excel the soldiers in a still greater proportion. Soldiers have not been a marked success along these lines. Missionaries have.

$500,000,000 Too Much.

Very likely it is. That was Longfellow's estimate before the war game among Christian nations had become as expensive as it is today.

The strongest believers in foreign missions have never presumed to suggest that we spend $500,000,000, for the conversion of those billion heathen. But if we did that would be paying only 50 cents apiece for their education, much less than we spend for our own children. It costs $25 a year in the public school, $500 a year or more in college.

The Sum of the Matter.

We are today trying to educate one billion people by giving for the work one cent for each. Is that too much? Then let us not complain of the largeness of our appointment. Is it enough? Then let us give more and encourage our Mission Boards to ask for more. They need more, vastly more if they are to realize the dreams of the new imperialism and these dreams can be realized. If we must continue to spend a billion dollars a year getting ready for war let us never again say we can afford to spend an equal amount to preach and teach peace, love and cooperation.

10 Cents a Week.

There are 20 million members of our churches in North America 10¢ a week from each member would be one hundred million dollars a year for missions: enough to send forth an army of 0,000 American Missionaries and one million native missionaries such an army could and would evangelize the world in this generation. Who will give at least this minimum sum to see so glorious a result in our own lifetime? Will you?

BISHOP MALLALIEU MOURNED BY MANY

In the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church in Abundant Sunday morning there was a memorial service in honor of the late Bishop Willard F. Mallalieu for many years an attendant of this church.

The services opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. George H. Spencer, followed by the Scripture reading by Prof. Henry C. Sheldon of the School of Theology of Boston University. Rev. John Galbraith, pastor of the Newton Upper Falls Methodist Episcopal Church; Ex-Gov. John L. Bates and Rev. Dr. W. F. Warren made appreciative addresses. W. J. Spaulding rendered the solo, "Crossing the Bar," and the benediction was by Rev. Dr. C. E. Spaulding of Centenary M. E. Church.

There has been no man in Massachusetts in our generation who has exhibited more of the Puritan than has he. Patriarchal in his appearance, intensely earnest, and absolutely devoted to the advancement of his religion, he might justly have been called the Puritan Bishop of this era. Some did call him "the old-fashioned preacher." How much of him was due to ancestry we do not know but certain it is that we look in vain among the descendants of Pilgrim and Puritan and Huguenot

THE LATE BISHOP MALLALIEU.

Ex-Governor Bates spoke as follows: "When I remember something which I had, But which is gone, and I must do without, sometimes wonder how I can be glad. It makes me sigh to think on it,—but ye! My days will not be better days, should I forget." " * * * sorrows humanize our race: Tears are the showers that fertilize this world. And memory of things precious keeps the heart that once did hold them. They are poor Who, losing, have forgotten: they most poor Of all, who lose and wish they MIGHT forget. For life is one, and in its warp and woof There runs a thread of gold that glitters fair. And sometimes in the pattern shows most sweet Where there are sombre colors. It is true That we have wept. But O! this thread of gold, We would not have it tarnish; let us turn Oft and look back upon the wondrous web. And when it shineth sometimes we know. That memory is possession." FRIENDS, We have lost something. We are poorer, the world is poorer, unless memory keeps us in possession of that which we have lost. We would not forget! So we are here today to look back upon the wondrous web of life that our loved friend Bishop Mallalieu wove and to rejoice in the thread of gold that glitters so fair in its warp and woof. Thread of gold, did I say? Rather, threads of gold, for there are many, many of them, more indeed than we shall have time to examine in the brief hours of the morning.

I am honored by this invitation to speak for the laymen at this service. I prize the opportunity and yet I would that other and more eloquent lips might speak the words that my heart would utter had it the power. But I cannot speak what the heart prompts, for the heart is too warm with the smouldering flames of an old friendship that existed between the Bishop and myself, to tender in the recollection of the love that existed between the Bishop and my father and to which the Bishop so sympathetically gave witness when our home was under the great shadow. That ability to make friends and to hold them as with hooks of steel that could not be broken was one of the golden threads that shined resplendent as we turn back the wondrous web. He had many friends, not here and there only, but everywhere around this globe, for his feet had travelled in many countries and in them all he had drawn men to him by his generous nature. He was never too busy to be considerate of the feelings of the oppressed and the sorrowing.

It is easy to say that he was born in 1828 in the town of Sutton, Massachusetts, as biographers do, but that has little of significance to us. But when we learn that his father was a wool manufacturer in a small way and a descendant of Francis Mallalieu, the French Huguenot, who fled from France to England shortly after the Massacre of St. Bartholomew, and that he was also descended from Richard Davenport the Puritan, who was among the first setters at Salem in 1628, we learn something that interests us and we are not surprised at finding in him a ruggedness of character that was always characteristic of the Huguenots and the Puritans. There has been no man in Massachusetts in our generation who has exhibited more of the Puritan than has he. Patriarchal in his appearance, intensely earnest, and absolutely devoted to the advancement of his religion, he might justly have been called the Puritan Bishop of this era. Some did call him "the old-fashioned preacher." How much of him was due to ancestry we do not know but certain it is that we look in vain among the descendants of Pilgrim and Puritan and Huguenot has he. That was one secret of his power to raise money. Many and many a time did I receive an unexpected note from him, and always in his own handwriting showing his interest in something he was doing, suggesting something for a coming Board meeting, or giving his decided views pro and con, and quite as likely to be con as pro, on something that had been done. He had the faculty of keeping in touch. They retired him as Bishop, because he was getting old," they said. How much that decision disturbed my father as well as the Bishop, but down almost to the day when he left this world he continued one of the most active of men. He never retired from the fight. You might superannuate him but you could not send him to the rear, nor check his activities any more than you could check the rush of a Niagara. Everybody knew that and so when he was retired he at the same time was made Chairman of the Commission on aggressive 'Evangelism,' and in the next four years he led a campaign that resulted in the church receiving more additions to its membership than in any other four years of its history. Was he retired? No, he was preaching every Sunday, and in those four years he wrote over 16,000 letters in aid of the cause. He had a prolific pen not only as a letter writer, but also as a writer of helpful articles and evangelistic books. How he did so much it is hard to tell, but there can be no account in heaven charging him with waste of time. He was an aggressive Christian. An evangelist, who believed in the Bible as it is written, and a man of faith who never seemed to have a doubt. His conscience was always a clear guide and it would be impossible to conceive of his ever entertaining a thought of disloyalty to Methodism. He was intense in his religion, and that religion had only one object—the salvation of souls, but incidental to that and as a means to it he sought to overthrow all the hosts of evil and to encourage as allies the hosts of education. His antagonism to the liquor traffic and advocacy of temperance legislation was a work in which he never tired. He had no fear of man and hence made a successful, consistent and persistent fighter of all that he deemed evil. He was vehement in denunciation of what he conceived to be wrong, and his opposition went to the extreme. He knew how, therefore, to make enemies but the character of his enemies was a compliment to him. Yet uncompromising as was his virtue, he was one of the most amiable of men, and full of tact in the administration of his great office. Thousands of ministers heard from him the command go here or go there, and yet not one of all the thousands ever refused to accept his appointment. Whether the minister was disappointed or not he knew that the Bishop had done what in prayer-given wisdom he believed right. And so the warp and woof as we turn back the web has many a thread of gold that glitters as the noon day sun and all remind us as treasures in memory's storehouse. And this man, our friend, this sincere, mighty, tireless, aggressive Christian warrior advanced to the age of four score and three and yet was young and kept his place at the front of humanity's progress until suddenly and almost without warning the sunset fires burst forth in the horizon of his life and the time for his passing had come. But of that passing we will not speak but rather let that prophet John Bunyan speak for it if he wrote in the long ago: "After this it was noised abroad, that Mr. Valiant-for-truth was taken with a summons; and had this for a token that the summons was true. That his pitcher was broken at the fountain. When he understood it, he called for his friends, and told them of it. 'Then,' said he, 'I am going to my Father's; and though with great difficulty I am going hither, yet now I do not regret me of all the trouble I have been at to arrive where I am. My sword I give to him that shall succeed me in my pilgrimage, and my courage and skill to him that can gain it. My marks and scars I carry with me, to be a witness for me, that I have fought His battles who now will by my Rewarder.' Many accompanied him to the river side, into which as he went he said, 'Death, where is thy sting?' And as he went down deeper, he said, 'Grave where is thy victory?' So he passed over, and all the trumpets sounded for him on the other side."

ELECTION RETURNS ONLY FAIR MAJORITY FOR FROTHINGHAM

Notwithstanding the beautiful weather on Tuesday, the total vote cast was nearly a hundred less than last year, being 5577 as against 5665. Lieutenant Governor Frothingham received practically the same vote as was cast last year for Governor Draper, the total being 3373, or 14 less than Governor Draper had. Governor Foss fell off a trifle from his vote of last year, having 2015 as against 2073 in 1910. Mr. Frothingham's plurality is 1358, or 44 more than that of Governor Draper. Governor Foss received 1593 straight Democratic votes, 324 under the title of Democratic Progressive and 99 voters were so anxious to vote for him part of the city. It was also the first election held without the former deputy election officers, and the new plan is evidently a success. But one accident occurred during the day, when the ballot box for Precinct 2 of ward 3 was dropped off the wagon as it was being delivered at the polling booth and damaged so that it was necessary to obtain an emergency box from City Hall. Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock was an early voter in Precinct 2 of Ward 3 and left on the one o'clock train for Washington. The total vote of the city for the other officers was as follows:

Secretary, 32
Donahue, 1656
Evans, 70

that they made a cross under both designations. The other candidates for governor received the following votes: Carey 71, McGoff 5, Rand 30. 83 voters failed to vote at all for governor.

Mr. Luce received 3365 votes as against 3440 for Mr. Frothingham last year and Mr. Walsh had 1886, much better than that of Cassidy last year, 1770.

Senator Mulligan received the customary plurality in this city, 1739, Walsh running far behind Mr. Cannon, the candidate of last year who had 2343 while Walsh received 1693.

All three Republican candidates for representatives, Messrs. Bothfield, Ellis and White, were handsomely re-elected with majorities in the neighborhood of 2000 each. Mr. Ellis ran third in the list, undoubtedly due to the false impression given by Gov. Foss to the Ellis Milk Bill.

All four referendums on the ballots received large and favorable majorities that relating to the chief of police leading.

The Democratic vote held up remarkably well considering that that party did not have its customary workers at the polls and was without the use of teams and automobiles.

Returns were fairly prompt in reaching City Hall the two small precincts of Waban and Chestnut Hill being first and Auburndale as usual being the last, at 12:30 A. M.

This was the first election held under the direction of City Clerk Grant and was handled in a most efficient manner, no complaints being made from any

WALTHAM WON

The Newton High School eleven was defeated by the Waltham High School team on the Waltham Athletic Field last Saturday afternoon. The score was 2 to 0. A safety in the second period, made after Hyatt had started to retrieve an unsuccessful drop kick but was dropped by the Watch City players behind his own goal brought the victory to Waltham. Fully 8000 people witnessed the game over 3000 of them coming from Newton. The game was pronounced to be the fastest and cleanest played on the field this season. The field, much different from that of Clifton field, was wet and slippery causing the Newton players to slip and fall many times and much ground was lost on this account.

An accident in the second period handicapped Newton. Norman Clark, centre who had been playing star ball, sustained a slight injury by being kicked in the head, during a scrimmage and was removed from the field to the hospital. He recovered shortly after being taken there but was unable to resume the game.

The Newton followers were greatly pleased over the way the highly reputed "Big Ty" Cobb was handled. He was repeatedly dropped in his tracks when trying to advance the ball and during the last period he was tucked out by the fierce defensive playing of Brady who was matched against him. The Newton ends, Murphy and McNeil were constantly on the job and broke up nearly every play that came their way. After McAllister had been removed from left half he was replaced by Blue who finished the game in perfect style. On the line plunges he drove through like a catapult and gained ground on nearly every play. A beautifully executed forward pass, Hyatt to McNeil in the last period brought the spectators to their toes and nearly resulted in a touchdown for Newton. The ball was tossed over the heads of the players into the hands of McNeil who advanced it to Waltham's 20-yard line before he was downed.

The teams were evenly matched in the opening periods. Neither team were able to advance the ball and it was punted to their opponents. Throughout the first three periods the pigskin was passed from one team to the other until the final period when Newton came back strong and played circles around the home team. The game ended with the ball in the centre of the field.

Waltham tried a number of trick plays during the game but none of them were very successful. A man would fall back on a punt formation and instead of kicking the ball would pass it to another man who would circle in back of him. Newton resorted to straight football throughout the game and repeatedly went through Waltham's line for gains.

The whole Newton team deserves much credit in the way they handled the Waltham team. No individual played superior to the other but all come in for their share of the credit.

PAPERS FILED

Nomination papers for the Republican city primaries were filed with Chairman Arthur G. Hosmer and Secretary Howard Emerson of the Republican city committee at the Masonic Building, Newtonville, yesterday afternoon at five o'clock. Only one contest appears on the Republican ticket, and that is in Ward 2, where George F. James and Harry D. Cabot will fight for the ward alderman nomination. The complete ticket is as follows: For mayor, Hon. Charles E. Hatfield.

Aldermen at Large.
Ward 1, Arthur W. Blakemore.
Ward 2, Edward P. Hatch.
Ward 3, A. Stuart Pratt.
Ward 4, Franklin T. Miller.
Ward 5, Thomas I. Sullivan.
Ward 6, Charles B. Gordon.
Ward 7, Joseph B. Jamieson.

Ward Aldermen.
Ward 1, John W. Murphy.
Ward 2, Harry D. Cabot.
Ward 3, George F. James.
Ward 4, George M. Cox.
Ward 5, Frederick W. Jones.
Ward 6, Joseph H. Chadbourne.
Ward 7, Burton P. Gray.

School Committee.
Ward 1, Frederick W. Stone.
Ward 4, Adaline A. Davidson.
Ward 7, Mitchell Wing.

Aldermen Murphy and Cox who have been named by Republicans are Democrats.

Messrs. Hatch, Pratt, Gordon and Jamieson, for aldermen at large, Messrs. Cabot and James for ward aldermen and Messrs. Stone and Wing for school committee are new names for those offices. All others are renominations.

WEST NEWTON DAY NURSERY.

A successful fair was held last Saturday at the West Newton Day Nursery on Elm street under the direction of the ladies from the different churches in the village. The Unitarian church, Mrs. C. H. Ames, chairman, had charge of the fancy table, the Baptist church, Miss Barbour, chairman, had charge of the candy table, the Congregational church, Mrs. J. N. Lovell, chairman, had the children's table, and the Catholic church, Mrs. Tenney, chairman, had the domestic table. Articles made by the Boys club were also on sale. The dining room was in charge of a committee consisting of Mrs. G. A. Frost, Mrs. J. A. Neal, Mrs. C. I. Travelli, Mrs. Sumner Robinson, Mrs. C. H. Stacy and Miss Dora Allen. About $500 was cleared.

NEWTON HAS ACCIDENT.

The collier Newton, recently launched at the Fore River Works at Quincy ran into the temporary draw over the Fore River Tuesday on its trial trip down the bay and damaged the draw so badly that it could not be used for several days. No one was hurt.

DOHERTY FOR MAYOR.

At a meeting of the Democratic City Committee held last Sunday afternoon William J. Doherty consented to accept the nomination for mayor to oppose Mayor Charles E. Hatfield. The committee also considered plans for conducting a vigorous campaign. Mr. Doherty is well known in this city having served on the Board of Aldermen for a number of years where he was a member of several important committees.

REDUCED WATER RATES FINANCE COMMITTEE REPORTS IN FAVOR

The aldermen again distinguished themselves Monday evening, by holding another session, undisturbed by a committee recess. President Jones was in the chair and the absentees were Aldermen Bemis, Blakemore, Calkins and Leonard.

Hearings were held on petitions of the Telephone Company for poles in Walker st., of Reamie Boudrot to locate a gasoline engine, at Faxon st., and of the Newton Garage, Brook st., A. D. Wheeler, Grafton st. and C. F. Jones, Endicott st. to keep gasoline. These hearings and that on the roundabout the corner of St. James and Washington sts were unopposed.

Ex-Mayor Hutchinson, Hon. Seward W. Jones Mr. William M. Flanders and Supt. H. Wilson Ross appeared in favor of the petition of the Newton Cemetery Corporation to widen Walnut street to 70 feet between Homer and Beacon st. Mr. Hutchinson, president of the Cemetery trustees, stated that the Cemetery corporation owned nearly all the land necessary for the widening and would donate it to the city if the brook now running nearly parallel to Walnut street in their land was placed in a culvert under the newly widened street. Mr. Jones and Mr. Flanders, who are also trustees of the Cemetery favored the widening as a step towards the needed improvement of Walnut street. Protests were made by John Lane and Cornelius Lane, who objected to 20 feet being taken from their front land and who believed it was not fair for a non tax paying corporation to dictate to the city in this matter. Mr. Cornelius Lane said that the widening would make a dangerous corner at Beacon and Walnut street, where the building on the southerly side of Beacon street would project well into the street. Mr. O'Connell for John Linehan also protested saying that the present street was wide enough for present traffic. Mr. Ross stated that the Cemetery had paid taxes for 15 years on the land on the easterly side of the street and that the objectors had often asked him to favor buying their land by the Cemetery corporation. In reply to questions Mr. Ross said that the City Engineer had given him a rough estimate of from $10,000 to $12,000 for the work of widening the street, laying down a tarvia surface and building the culvert.

A letter in favor was read from ex-mayor A. R. Weed and the hearing was closed.

Mayor Hatfield sent in requests for transfers in the Street, Public Buildings and Police departments, a request from the Metropolitan Water Board for certain sewer construction and relative to lease from the New York Central railroad of land at Rowe street bridge for steps to Commonwealth avenue.

The report on the water and fire departments of the city made by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, was placed on file. The report of the Clerk of the Police Court relative to conviction of J. F. Payne holder of a sixth class liquor license and petition of the Aetna Mills for improvement of Bridge street were referred.

Petitions of Lizzie R. Fletcher for apportionment of sidewalk assessment on Charles st., of James A. Mills to move building from Park lane to Beacon st., of J. N. Marchant to keep and sell second hand articles, of Nich Toch and J. E. Mitchell for minors licenses, of the Edison Co. for attachments on Parsons st., of the Telephone Co. for attachments on Rockledge rd and Wolcott st., and of the Gas Light Co. to open Circuit ave and Elliot st were granted. Hearings on Dec. 4 were ordered on petitions of F. W. Stevens, Beacon st., W. H. Coolidge, Gray Cliff road, Thomas F. Dolan, Sargent st., and Dr. C. L. Pearson, Washington st to keep gasoline.

Petitions were also received from Alfred Farlow for laying out of Waban Hill road, Telephone Co. for attachments on Needham st., Alfred Katz for minors license, Antonio Valente, for street musician license, Timothy F. Keefe for junk license and Giovanni Fontecchio for wagon and liquor transportation permit.

The bonds of Alfred M. Russell as a constable was approved.

On recommendations of committees, no action was taken on the Mayors request for precinct voting for city primaries and for different hours for holding city primaries, no action was taken on petition of Walter Bathrick for abatement of street sprinkling assessment, leave to withdraw was granted on claim of Mary Cullen on account of personal injuries, $456.50 was appropriated for settlement of claim of Michael Hand, sewers were authorized in Meredith ave and Waldorf road, water mains ordered in Anawam road, East side parkway, Keyes st and Taft ave and in Hazelhurst road, $700 added to Charity Dept. City Home, $500 added to Street dept. Sidewalks, $1,425 added to Street dept. Ashes, $1500 ordered advanced to Charity dept. Poor out of City Home, $10,000 appropriated for crushing stone for 1912, the Edison Co. was granted pole locations on Central st., and Circuit ave., and attachments on Charlesbank road, St. James st., and Parsons st., the Telephone Co. was granted attachments on Clark st., Rockledge road, and Wolcott st. $50 was transferred in the City Messenger department for carriages for aldermen, the corner of St. James and Washington sts was ordered rounded, $10,250.43 was granted for city expenses for Nov., the Mayor was authorized to release certain land near union st to H. N. Sweet Tr., hearing on Nov. 20 was assigned on laying out of Brooks ave under the betterment act, the Mayor was requested to furnish the City Engineer with automobile service in connection with some other department and to consolidate the automobile service of all departments, and the Rules committee was requested to

The "Open Door" in Business

"No, I wouldn't advise a party-line telephone for you any more than I'd advise you to rent half your store and share your entrance with some other dealer.

"You're growing in business. You need your whole doorway.

"See that your telephone facilities are adequate, not only for present requirements, but future needs. Don't neglect this feature. There's going to be a tremendous development in selling by telephone, during the next few years, and the man who first attracts customers will have the best chance of holding them. Mark what I tell you about this and don't have your telephone door closed when any customer calls."

MAINE "DRY"

We print extracts from letter of Newton man who helped make it so. (Mr. Jarvis who was in Maine just before election saw that the prohibition forces were on the defensive and that the weak features of high and low license were being little touched upon. Hence he wrote this article to the Lewiston Journal the leading paper of the state, which printed it at the head of its editorial column just before Election day).

The writer lived for several years in Denver where low license prevailed. Denver then had a population of 105,000 and I was informed on apparently good authority that there was an average of one murder a day in the city nearly everyone of them caused directly by the use of liquor. One can get some idea of the amount of crime that prevailed from considering the condition that would exist in Maine with a population six times as great if there were here over two thousand murders a year. Our criminal courts in Boston under high license and with more charitable and correctional agencies per capita than any city in the United States, are over-crowded. There is a constant increase in drinking and a constant increase in crime due to drinking.

Intemperance, it may be said, is a great evil, but the problem before the people of Maine is how to deal with the liquor traffic. Shall it be strictly licensed or shall it be prohibited? Is it not better, it may be asked, to have a high license law even than there will be more drinking than to have kitchen and back shop barrooms and an evasion of the law. Because this law like every other law is evaded, is no just reason for its repeal. On the other hand if one will take the trouble to consult the records of the criminal division of the Boston municipal court, he will see that a large proportion of the cases after eliminating drunks, are those of illegal sales of liquor in kitchen barrooms and kindred places. You would very far from eliminate kitchen barrooms by enacting a high license law.

Place a high license law on the statutes and you legalize this great source of evil, this handmaiden of prostitution and white slavery. In Maine, the young girl is rarely invited to a restaurant or hotel where liquor is served. In every state in the union where the sale of liquor is licensed there are hundreds of more or less stylish French and Italian restaurants and hotels of the second and third class where young girls and their escorts go and where liquor is served with meals. It is from these places, seemingly not particularly harmful at first, that the great army of prostitution is recruited. These are licensed and semi-respectable under any high license law.

But how about our sons, leaving the protection of the home for the college and the university? Is it better for them to be protected by high license or prohibition? The writer graduated from a Maine college, and later graduated in the law from a university located in a town of about the same population where license prevailed. It was his experience and observation that there was not a fourth part of drinking among the young men at Bowdoin that there was among those at Ann Arbor.

Some one might say "All that you have said may be very good as to places where liquor is licensed, but my own town will never vote for license, and so a license law will not hurt us." The writer lives in a no-license city, a city noted the country over for its beauty and cleanliness. In adjoining Boston license prevails. In going home on the street cars, when the last saloon is reached before going over the line into our city, uniformly from one to a dozen men board the car more or less under the influence of liquor.

The writer had a chance some time ago to see how this same idea worked out in no-license Hyde Park. The nearest saloon was at Forest Hills. All Saturday evening the great saloons there were crowded and when finally the lights were turned out a maudlin crowd took the so-called "Drunk car" to Hyde Park. They were literally piled into it singing, cursing and fighting. No sober man unless compelled to would think of going on that car. The conductor or one of these cars said: "The conductors and motormen of these 'Drunk cars' almost take their lives in their hands when they run on them." If the prohibition amendment is repealed will not a large proportion of the no-license towns of Maine be within trolley distance of a license city or town?

Castle Square Theatre—As he promised when it was withdrawn at the height of its success, John Craig is to revive "The End of the Bridge" at the Castle Square. It will be remembered that it ran for no less than nine weeks and that it was even more popular at the close than at the beginning of its triumphant career. Therefore on Monday "The End of the Bridge," Florence Lincoln's play which was awarded $500 in Mr. Craig's first annual Harvard competition, will be given again at the Castle Square and prosperity may again be prophesied for it. It will be staged exactly as before.

Leave to withdraw was granted the H. S. Moody Land Co on its petition to build a bridge over Laundry brook at Jackson road, after Alderman Murphy had made an unsuccessful plea for favorable action. President Jones took the floor and said that the city was asked to make good some promises made by real estate salesmen of two years ago, in the face of strong protests by heavy tax payers in that vicinity.

The board adjourned at 9.25.

It is the same old story that must be told of the Corporation pictures at Tremont Temple. They remain because the public demands it, and they will continue during the coming week to interest two audiences afternoon and evening. The new scenes displayed and reproduced in the actual colors of life have met with immediate success, and it is extremely doubtful which may be said to attract the most attention and arouse the greatest applause. The crowning of the Prince of Wales the Richmond Horse Show, are all appreciated fully as much as the views presented in the ceremonies and processions in London pertaining to the Coronation itself. Mr. Farnsworth's lecture is still a feature of the entertainment.

Colonial Theatre—For a limited engagement beginning Monday November 13, Elsie Janis, Mr. Dillingham's youngest star will appear at the Colonial in "The Slim Princess." "The new musical comedy—for it is a musical comedy—in three acts, is entitled "The Slim Princess" and is taken from George Ade's ludicrously funny novella. Miss Janis was never seen to such advantage as in "The Slim Princess," which ran for nearly a year at Mr. Dillingham's Globe Theatre, New York. Miss Janis is supported by Mr. Joseph Cavert, one of the best known and most popular comedians now before the public. "The Slim Princess" will be given in Boston with every detail of the elaborate scenic production, which gained such well deserved favor during the long season at the Globe Theatre and company of 80 people. There will be a special matinee on Thanksgiving Day.

Tremont Theatre—The 4th week of Lina Abrahams in "Madame Sherry" at the Tremont Theatre has started off at the Tremont to the same crowded houses that have prevailed since the opening. Interest of the theatregoers instead of diminishing in this popular French vaudeville is on the increase and the "Every Little Movement" polka is being whistled and sung as if it were a new number instead of having been heard in Boston before the play opened. There are fully twenty other songs in the piece that are nearly as tuneful as the motif song of the play and each of the principals has at least one catchy number and in some instances two or three. And besides all this there is the Lederer "talking chorus," a group of nine pretty women, each of whom has a part in the development of the story. Their gowns in the opinion of the women folks are a delight to look upon.

B. F. Keith's Theatre—Ruth St. Denis, the world's greatest exponent of the terpsichorean art of the Hindus, comes to B. F. Keith's Theatre next week in a magnificent production of "The Mystic Dance of the Five Senses." East Indian dances as interpreted by Miss St. Denis do not represent the physical abandon so characteristic of the so-called "Oriental dances" common to the variety stage, but depend considerably upon pantomime. Her East Indian dances are a delight to the eye, while the music, arranged by Walter Merwowitz, and the burning of incense in the temple scene take still other senses into captivity. At B. F. Keith's Theatre Miss St. Denis will be supported by a company of twenty-five Chinese, while the scenic equipment showing the innermost sanctuary of a Hindu temple, requires two big baggage cars for its transportation. The bill surrounding this splendid attraction is not yet complete, but Harry Jolson, the blackface comedian, and the Temple Four will be included in it.

Mr. W. B. Clark, president of the Aetna Fire Insurance Co. of Hartford writes: "I duly received your favor of 3d inst. and in reply beg to advise you that I have used Geneva Lithia Water for a number of years with great success. I have frequently recommended it to my friends and have no hesitation in doing so."

POINTERS FOR THE MOTORIST.
 The Smaller Particles of Foreign Matter in an Envelope will Ruin the Inner Tube.

A motorist may find that an inner tube has been injured and perhaps ruined from no apparent cause. Upon examination small holes will be found in its surface, the only logical reason for their presence being apparently poor tube material. This, however, is seldom the cause, says the Michelin Tire man. The real trouble lies with the motorist. He has carelessly fitted the tube allowing small particles of mud and dirt to enter the envelope, the air pressure from within the tube and the external pressure having combined to grind the foreign matter into the tube.

When fitting a tire it is not enough to simply clean the envelope and tube. Care should be taken to admit no mud or sand during the operation. The tire levers should not be left lying on the ground as they will collect dirt which may find its way into the envelope.

Many subjects on the proper care of tires and tubes are instructively discussed in two books issued by the Michelin Tire Company of Milltown, New Jersey. Copies will be mailed free on request.

ENGINEERS REPORT

The report of the engineers of the National Board of Fire Underwriters on the fire situation in this city is a most comprehensive document. It concludes with the following general summary.

The General Summary is as follows: Estimated population 40,500. City mainly residential. Street grades moderate. In mercantile centers; some steep grades elsewhere. High winds of frequent occurrence and winter temperatures severe. Average number of fires high; losses moderate.

WATER SUPPLY.—Municipal ownership; organization and management good. Records complete. Supply from collecting conduits and wells; adequate for present needs; emergency connections to mains of Metropolitan system. Pumping capacity sufficient and equipment in good condition. Stations non-fireproof with only slight exposure; internal hazards moderate; fire protection inadequate. Reservoir at good elevation contains 2 days' supply. Consumption moderate. Pressures sufficient for direct hydrant streams in most localities and well maintained under fire draft. Main arteries well arranged and of adequate size; minor distributors largely in 6 or 8-inch, but poorly gridironed in most localities, with many dead ends. Mains generally in good condition. Gate valves widely spaced; in excellent condition. Hydrants in generally good condition, and of satisfactory size but too widely spaced except in mercantile districts.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.—Part full paid and part call men with permanent chief and assistant. Members appointed for indefinite terms. Chief competent but has too few assistants for his many duties. Appropriations fair. Two few permanent men. Distribution of apparatus only fair. Ladder service deficient. Engine capacity inadequate. Chemical service mainly satisfactory. Hose supply good; no 3-inch hose in use. Minor equipment mainly good. Drills of little value. Response to alarms and fire methods mainly satisfactory. Building inspections fair. Records well kept.

FIRE ALARM SYSTEM.—Automatic system, well maintained. Headquarters in non-fireproof building. Apparatus in good condition and boards will permit additional circuits which are badly needed, as many are at present overloaded. Many boxes are of unsatisfactory type; distribution mainly satisfactory. Underground circuit construction extensive and satisfactory; overhead lines of mainly iron wire; some on high tension circuit poles. Inspection and tests of boxes poor; other tests mainly satisfactory. Records fairly complete.

FIRE DEPARTMENT AUXILIARY.—Duties of fire marshal performed by a deputy chief of the State Police, assisted by local departments. Police department co-operating with fire department. Telephone service by one company through 3 exchanges; much used in sending in alarms. Powerful outside aid readily available.

SUMMARY.—Water supply adequate, especially with emergency connections to Metropolitan system, and available in sufficient quantities for fire protection in most localities. Fire department efficient but undermanned; service would be much improved by providing automobile apparatus. Fire alarm system poorly housed; well maintained, but approaching time when manual operation will be necessary.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT.—Laws few and of little value. Proposed code omits many matters of great importance. Structural conditions weak.

EXPLOSIVES AND INFLAMMABLES.—State District Police have ample authority over all explosives and inflammables, which are well controlled except gasoline and oils, for which no rules have been issued; conditions mainly good except for small users. Inspections for rubbish by the fire department are inadequate.

ELECTRICITY.—Laws give the fire chief supervision over all wiring, but make no further regulations. The National Electrical Code is enforced. New work is well installed, and old work is in fair to good condition. Overhead wires are being placed underground and overhead obstructions are few. No recent electrolytic troubles; no tests by city.

CONFLAGRATION HAZARD.—In the mercantile districts are small but compact groups of brick and frame buildings of moderate heights but with some large areas and will practically no protection to exposures; although serious group fires are probable, they should be confined to the block of origin. Manufacturing plants are mainly well provided with public and private fire protection. In the residential sections shingle roofs introduce the hazard of flying brands, but mainly only where buildings are compactly grouped.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

Henry H. Read has sold the estate situated No. 516 Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre, belonging to Mrs. R. L. D. Richards of Chicago. The purchaser Mr. Edwin A. Gordon of Newton Centre will make improvements and occupy. The estate consists of a frame dwelling house with 8000 square feet of land the whole assessed on a valuation of $7600 of which $1600 is on the land.

Through the office of William J. Cozens of Newton Highlands the upper apartment at 37 Lincoln street, Newton Highlands, has been rented to Arthur Williams of Dorchester, Mass., and 27 Champa ave. Newton Upper Falls to James H. Maloney of West Newton, Mass.

The Lauriat Company, Boston's well known booksellers, are aiding in the movement for early shopping this year by announcing many special offerings of books peculiarly adapted as gifts, which can be secured now, in anticipation of next month's wants, at prices to tempt buyers to come out early. Every bit of holiday buying that can be done this month is going to help lessen the rush and crush of the unusually short season between Thanksgiving and Christmas. Their store already has many counters all in readiness for holiday buyers. The display of children's books in particular, is very extensive and in every way attractive.

Readers of the Graphic have been aware that I have harped for several years on the fact that water rates in this city should be reduced, and I take pleasure in calling attention to the action of the aldermen this week in ordering an ordinance prepared on these lines. It is true that the reduction does not go as far as I believe it should,
but the new proposed rate is 30 cents a 1000 gallons instead of 35 cents and there is a slight reduction to persons using but one faucet. The new rates will affect the water income about $15,000., and still leave a large surplus in the treasury. They will probably take effect next March.

The trustees of the Newton Cemetery Corporation show commendable enterprise in asking the city to begin the much needed widening of Walnut street and offering the necessary land for that purpose for a distance of 1000 feet.
This work cannot be long delayed and here is an excellent opportunity to make a substantial beginning.

ton Republicans give point to the state

MR. JACKSON DEAD

Mr. Samuel M. Jackson, one of the best known residents of this city and a member of one of its oldest families, died last evening about eleven o'clock at the Newton Hospital. Mr. Jackson fractured his hip two weeks ago and was taken to the Hospital, where his age has handicapped his recovery.

Samuel Murdock Jackson, a principal assessor of Newton for many years was born at Newton Lower Falls March 7, 1823, his parents being Eph-raim and Beulah (Murdock) Jackson, both being members of some of the oldest families in the town.

He was educated in the schools of Newton and at first engaged in the meat business. He then commenced his present business as a farmer, and has resided at his present home on Jackson street, Newton Centre, for over fifty years.

Mr. Jackson was elected an assessor in 1874 and filled the office continuously until 1902. He has been a trustee of the Newton Savings Bank for nearly 25 years and a member of its board of investment.

Mr. Jackson was a member of the First Congregational Church of Newton Centre.

He married Miss Hannah Allen
Brackett, daughter of William and Ann Brackett and is survived by her.

Funeral services will be held at the First church Newton Centre tomorrow, Saturday at three o'clock.

Plymouth Theatre—"If you would dwell in the Land of Happiness," says the Sage, "go and see 'Pomander Walk.'" Great crowds of playgoers have been heeding his advice this week and the Plymouth Theatre in Eliot street, near Tremont street, Boston, is being packed at all performances. For the two hours and a half of this delightful comedy, there is nothing to cause a frown, a blush or a borsome moment. At the end, when the curtain rings down, it doesn't seem like an ordinary play at all, but as a kind of joyous holiday far, far off from the realm of your business and your cares. And probably not until you get home will you take the trouble to appraise and analyze the really fine work of the all-English cast which caused you thus to lose yourself in "Pomander Walk." In view of the universal appeal of Mr.
Parker's comedy not only to Bostonians but to New Englanders generally, Manager Fred Wright of the Plymouth Theatre is taking special pains to attend to the requirements of out-of-town patrons.

Registrar and Transfer Agent

Though not one of the oldest financial institutions in Boston, The Lincoln Trust Company is one of the most active and efficient. Its steady and consistent growth is one of the best indications of its soundness in every particular. The Company has recently added to its services that of acting as Registrar and Transfer Agent for corporations. It solicits especially the handling of comparatively small issues of stock. It also acts as Trustee for bond issues, and correspondence along this line is invited.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

It has been the Club Editor's privilege recently to hear the problems of modern education set forth from two diverse standpoints that of the social worker and that of the college president. The social worker was swinging the pendulum quite in the direction of vocational training while the college president—who by the way was Dr. W. H. P. Faunce of Brown—gently brought it back not to the opposite extreme but to more nearly to a happy medium. He said, "The vocation of educated men and women is to be worthy members of the social order, guides, leaders and helpers of humanity. The boy or girl needs chiefly not formal drill, not simply rehearsal of what he is to do later, but intellectual apprenticeship, contact with a larger personality, a broader sympathy, a keener insight, a sturdier character than his own." Dr. Faunce also pointed out certain tendencies of the modern home which are liable to undermine the character of American youth. He deplored especially its lack of routine which fixes habits in the child. "We must pluck the boy out of his home to train him for American citizenship. There rests upon the schools and colleges this problem with which they are beginning to grapple with dismay. They can do this only by the touch of life upon life and ideal upon ideal."

It was an address which mothers should hear and take home to themselves. The tendency for love of ease and pleasure will surely rob the children of something that can never be replaced. Here is a subject which the individual clubs may do well to consider and act upon. Consideration without action would be well nigh useless.

AUTUMN MEETING OF STATE FEDERATION.

Attention is called once more to the autumn meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs to be held at Haverhill, on Thursday, November 15, by invitation of the Hannah Dustin Club. The general subject of the day will be "Civics" with addresses by Dr. Frederick W. Perkins of Lynn, John Nolen of Cambridge and Dr. William DeWitt Hyde, President of Bowdoin College. Box luncheon, tea and coffee being served at a nominal price.

The members are reminded that there will be special cars on train leaving Boston at 8.55 A. M. and that special round trip tickets at $1.12 should be obtained from members of the Meetings committee on the train and not from the ticket office. The program promises to be of great interest and it is hoped that the attendance will be large.

NEWTON FEDERATION MEETING.

The Autumn meeting of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs will be held at the Technical High School, on Tuesday afternoon, November 14, at 2.30. Prof. F. W. C. Hersey of Harvard will speak on "Types of Modern Drama," with application to plays coming to Boston this season. The subject will prove of great practical value as an interpretation of a guide to the best that the modern drama offers to the intelligent playgoer. An informal reception and tea will follow the lecture.

In connection with this meeting there will be a sale of jellies, preserves, pickles, mince meat, etc., prepared by the pupils of the domestic science department of the Technical School under the direction of Mrs. Blanche C. Hyde head of the department.

At 10.30 on Tuesday November 14, Col. Homer B. Sprague will lecture before the Auburndale Review Club at the Congregational Church Chapel, Auburndale, on "Goldsmith's Foundations and something of the Superstructure."

See Woman Club Column for notice of Federation meeting.

On Wednesday morning the Social Science Club will continue its study of "Modern Philanthropy" with a paper on "The Sage Foundation."

At the regular meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday November 16 at 10 A. M. Captain Charles Brandon Booth will speak on "Prison Life and the Life After," it being an account of the great practical work of Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth presented by her son and associate.

The Newton Highlands Monday Club met with Mrs. Moulton of Walnut street on November 6th. The program proved most interesting, there being papers upon "Up the Nile," "Cairo," and "The Pyramids and the Sphinx." A lady dressed in Egyptian costume exhibited post cards illustrating Egyptian scenes.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Speare opened their home to the members of the Newton Mothers' Club and their guests last Monday evening. Mr. A. E. Dodd of the North Bennett Street Industrial School spoke upon "Some Phases of Social Work." Mr. Dodd by means of diagrams divided human society into three levels of which the upper is made up of persons who may be characterized by their ambitions, while the lowest includes those who are defective in some way and have to be aided by the State. The middle plane, he said, offers the real problem—a sort of dead level mass. It includes more than half of the population of any large city. In the North End there are some 38,000 population, the major portion of whom would come in this second class. They are for the most part Italians,—as the Jews have now moved to the West End,—and are facing the problem of adjustment to a new life.

Earlier methods of charity dealt with merely the alleviating of suffering, the effects, but did not go into its causes. Today social workers seek to study into the deep underlying causes and to remedy them. What the North Bennett Street School is doing is a mere drop in the bucket in comparison with what is needed to be done. The policy of the school has been to start such work as seemed to be of value in remedying conditions and keep at it until it has been shown to be a good investment for the City or other organization to carry on and then turn it over to some one else.

Mr. Dodd then proceeded to discuss the trend of education. In the educational system we have the elementary schools, the high school, the college and the university, the training headed toward preparing a boy, as he said, for the presidency. It has been found by statistics that about 80 per cent of the children stop going to school even before completing the elementary school course, at the first moment the law will allow them to. At this point a few get into something which carries them along a little, but the vast majority drop off and are lost sight of in the employments that lead to nothing. The first attempts on the part of the schools to remedy the defects in the system were the introduction of commercial courses in the high school, but even that did not provide for the larger number that dropped out before completing the elementary school course.

The addition of scientific, cultural and later of technical courses are steps in the right direction and yet something else is needed to prepare this large number for life. Of attempts that are being made at the present day to work out this problem he told something of the vocational schools where the pupils spend half the day at academic work and half at industrial. He referred his hearers to a recent report by Dr. F. E. Spaulding, which is attracting attention all over the country, so much so that portions of it have been reprinted by authorities at Washington. Mr. Dodd also cited the Independent Industrial School at Nonantum as one which is attempting to provide for this lack in the present school system.

To assist in raising the standards in this vast mass in the middle plane they need social influence as well as educational ones. These people of the North End live comfortably merely from the fact that they are satisfied with their conditions. It is quite as necessary that they be taught to raise their standards of consuming as to increase their power of producing. Here the social worker comes in and opens up a broader view and creates the desire for a little better standard of living and of action.

We must teach the child to fit into the place where he has got to live, but we also must remember that the social conditions are constantly changing and therefore this subject must be studied carefully. Some of this studying is being done at the North Bennett Street School which is in reality a sort of experimental station.

Mr. Dodd was listened to with great interest as was shown by the questions which brought out further points.

At the close refreshments were served by the hostess and a social hour enjoyed.

Dr. Leon Vincent spoke before the Newtonville Woman's Guild on Tuesday afternoon upon "Charles Dickens." He treated the author from an intimate point of view telling of his family and family life. Dickens' two visits to America were especially dwelt upon and his book entitled "American Notes." He quoted also from "Pickwick Papers." He said we do not go to Dickens for a picture of English life but for his wonderful delineation of character.

The Social Science Club met on Wednesday morning at the Hunnewell Club. Miss Miriam Drury presented the first paper in course on Modern Philanthropy entitled "Scientific Methods of Co-operation." She said one must be aware of the terrible waste involved in our civilization—waste of human energy, human happiness, and human life itself. Five great burdens rest heavily upon society—a whole, famine, pestilence, war, poverty, crime. Famine and pestilence may be dismissed as negligible in the United States. As to war, we all hope to see the day when war between civilized peoples shall be impossible; but poverty and crime we have only begun to attack.

We try to relieve poverty by charity; but it is a rather new idea that poverty can be abolished.

Miss Drury compared organized and unorganized charities, and pointed out the steps to be taken in organized relief work to promote the best results. Organized charity has led in the fight against tuberculosis, and it was responsible for the fresh air classes in school.

It also demands the abolition of child labor.

In order that our charity organizations may do their best work they need to have the support and sympathy of public opinion, and this can only be accomplished by education. Social improvement is very costly, but it has been stated that such expenditure is in the nature of an investment rather than an extravagance.

Discussion and questions closed the morning.

The West Newton Women's Educational Club held its first meeting of the season this Friday afternoon in Players' Small Hall. Prof. E. Charlton Black lectured upon "Robert Louis Stevenson." The subject was most appropriate it being the sixty-first anniversary of his birth. Music and a social hour followed. The club is preparing for a bazaar to be held on December 5 and 6 under the direction of Mrs. Fred H. Young and it hopes for the friendly patronage of the other Newton clubs.

The C. L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. Darin Cobb, 1137 Boylston St., on Monday Nov. 13 at 2.30.

On Monday afternoon the Waban Women's Club commenced its interesting calendar of meetings giving an informal reception in the home of Mrs. Herbert S. Hayes, Woodland street. Mrs. Helen S. Andrews the president, Mrs. Isabel M. Parker vice president and several new members were in the receiving line. After the presidents address a musical program which included a violin solo by Mrs. Piser "Gnomemarch" by Fabian Rehfeld, rendered in a most acceptable manner, a group of songs by Miss Florence Fisher including "The Little Dutch Garden," "Her Rose" and "The Nightingale." Miss Fisher's voice is sweetly adaptable to songs of this character and gave much pleasure. Two monologues "The Tea Room" and "The North Station" charmingly read by Mrs. Belle Temple Priest, followed by a second group of songs by Miss Fisher "My Laddie" and "A Birthday."

Nov. 20 Mrs. Richard C. Cabot will lecture on the subject "What Punishment Helps Child Character," Mrs. Harry G. Cloyes of Windsor road, hostess.

On Tuesday, Nov. 14 at 10.30 A. M. Col. Homer B. Sprague will lecture before the Auburndale Review Club, in the Congregational chapel. The subject of the lecture is "Goldsmith's Foundation and Something of the Superstructure." Col. Sprague is well known in this vicinity as a scholar who is absolutely familiar with his subject and is an eloquent and most entertaining lecturer.

The next meeting of the Ladies Home Circle will be held on Thursday, Nov. 16, at 2 P. M. in G. A. R. hall, Newtonville. A fine entertainment will be given.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands will meet with Miss Warren of 117 Winchester street, Newton Highlands, on Monday November 13.

READ FUND LECTURES.

The Read Fund Trustees announce in another column a course of lectures to be held in the hall of the Bigelow School. The course this year should prove unusually interesting to teachers, pupils and the general public, as the lecturers are experts in their particular subjects. The Trustees consider themselves fortunate in securing as the last lecturer in the course, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Chief Chemist of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Dr. Wiley is so well known all over the country that the people of Newton are especially privileged to have a chance to hear him upon his most important subject. Full particulars regarding the lectures are to be found in our advertising columns.

BIENNIAL BAZAAR.

The seventh Biennial Bazaar of the Y. P. R. U. which is being held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week at Hotel Vendome is attracting large numbers from the Newtons. There will be a musical entertainment each evening by the Hereford Club of the Arlington street church and Saturday afternoon a Punch and Judy show for the children. Lunch, which is in charge of associations from the three Newton Unitarian churches will be served Friday and Saturday from 12 to 2. At the afternoon tea, Friday, from 3 to 5, Mrs. Harry Lutz will pour. The coffee and chocolate were donated by Mr. Howard North of Newton, manager of the Oriental Tea Company. The chrysanthemums for decoration in the lunch rooms were furnished by Mrs. Alvin R. Bailey of Richardson street. A special feature of the fair is the Pacific Coast table containing articles sent direct by the various Young People's Unions of the Pacific coast and which is under the direction of Miss Emma R. Ross of Los Angeles, California.

POOR LIGHTING

To the Editor—
The people of Newton are very patient else it seems to me there would be violent protest, if not indeed a riot, concerning the wretched manner in which the streets are lighted. There was a time when Centre Street at least was well lighted, but now the feeble struggling lights (?) seen on that street would be laughable were it not for the danger. Why, the streets of almost any country town are much better lighted than are our streets. No wonder that the Newton & Watertown Gas Co since it was absorbed, pays handsome dividends. What will the people do about it? Should the present utterly inadequate service be accepted another year?

INDIGNANT CITIZEN.
Newton, November 15.

THE OLDEN TIMES.

Before the members of the Junior Parish of the West Newton Unitarian Church and their friends last Sunday evening Miss Lucy Allen of the Allen School for Girls of West Newton read a very interesting paper on West Newton of 50 years ago. The historical data taken from the memoirs of Miss Allen's father, one of the greatest benefactors of this city, and a pioneer in the founding of schools. It was well read and the large audience were appreciative.

The paper touched on West Newton during the years of 1848-1850. Miss Allen said in part: "At that time West Newton was but a village and schools and public buildings were few. On the corner of Chestnut and Highland sts. then lived Horace Mann who was the founder of the first Normal school for women in the state of Massachusetts. He was on the Board of Education and was the principal factor in planning the school system of the state. The money used for the building of the school was received from Josiah Quincy who at that time lived in Lexington. Cyrus Pierce then considered the greatest educator of the country was the head of the school.

In West Newton then lived Nathaniel Hawthorne and it was while living here that he wrote the book, "The Blithedale Romance." Another resident was Elizabeth Peabody the pioneer of kindergarten work in Boston. At the corner of Chestnut and Fuller streets lived Lydia Maria Fuller another famous writer who created much comment at that time by her criticisms of the book "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

It was during that period also that the Allen School was formed, pupils coming from all over the country. The school has the distinction of having the first Japanese, Porto Rican or Cuban pupils in the country. Also lived here William Parker the greatest engineer of his time. He was the founder of the Boston & Albany railroad and many other large railroads now in operation.

"It was such people as these interested in the advancement of all charitable and educational institutions banded together in true progressive spirit who made this municipality the so called 'Garden City.'"

HIGH WIND.

Very little damage was done by the storm in this city Sunday night. Two trees were blown down on Cabot street and electric light poles were blown down on California street and Pleasant street. Several wires were blown down cutting off the lights for some time. In the midst of the storm an alarm was sounded from box 314, causing some little excitement in that section. On the arrival of the fire department no sign of a fire could be located. The alarm was rung in by some small boys, who made their escape.

WINS BOTH GAMES

On Volkman Field, Allston, Saturday afternoon, Newton High defeated Brookline High, 3 to 0, in the opening game of the Triangular League series, winning on a field goal.

Brookline High had two good opportunities to cross Newton's goal line in the second and third periods when it worked the ball to its opponent's five-yard line, Newton held like a stone-wall and three attempts Brookline made to score met with setbacks and the ball was lost on downs.

Newton displayed better football than it has in any game since it played Somerville High to a 2 to 2 tie. The backs worked together in unison, the Brookline ends found it difficult to catch them.

It is a rather peculiar coincidence that Wilmot Whitney, the Newton High full-back, should again be responsible for a Brookline defeat. It was his field goal from the 33-yard line beat Brookline yesterday and in the baseball series last June his two-bagger to centre opened the way to a Newton victory.

Haven Mason and Jack Kellner played unusually good football for Brookline and it was due to their hard work that the team got within scoring range of their opponents goal line on several occasions.

With about five minutes left to play in the final period, Gleason, who took Johnson's place at left end, attempted a difficult field goal from the 35-yard line which went to the right of the uprights.

The Newton High School football team defeated the Worcester High School eleven, 6 to 0, on Clafin Field Wednesday afternoon. Without exception it was the poorest exhibition of the season by the Newton High team which played well only in streaks.

Worcester High, on the other hand, played its best game of the season, and would have played Newton High to a no-score, if it had it put up the defense in the first period that it did later. It was in this opening quarter that Newton worked the ball down to the 5-yard line on straight football, from where it took three rushes to get Kenneth Tucker over the goal line for the touch down.

After that Worcester High held like a stone wall, and Newton could not make much distance against the visitors. The visiting team lost much ground because of penalties for illegal use of arms and holding.

Newton played clean football, although it was penalized to the extent of 40 yards. Brady, Roquemore, Murphy, MacNeill, Whitney and Wilbur did some great defensive playing for Newton and shut off one or two chances that Worcester had to score.

READ FUND LECTURE.

The first lecture in the Read Fund course for the present season was held in Bigelow school hall on Tuesday evening with a large attendance. Mr. Ernest Harold Baynes gave an interesting talk on "Our Wild Animal Neighbors" illustrated with many beautiful views. Mr. Baynes told many personal experiences with wild animals and birds and the results of his studies of wild mice, the taming of squirrels, foxes and raccoons and stories of black bears and deer.

The next lecture will be given on Tuesday night with Mr. F. Eugene Farnsworth relating the "Wonders of the Panama Canal."

LAY EGGS NOW.

ARCHERY CONTEST

An archery tournament was held at the Newton Center range Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Eastern Archery Association of the United States.

In the morning the York tournament was contested, 100 arrows being shot from 72 yards, 80 arrows from 48 yards and 60 arrows from 24 yards. Wallace Bryant was high man with 97 hits and a score of 443. J. P. Bryant was second.

In the afternoon the American tournament was held, 60 arrows being shot at 50 yards and 40 arrows at 30 yards. The winner was G. P. Bryant with 88 hits and a score of 464. Wallace Bryant was a close second, his score being the same but his hits were 86 in number.

The National round for women who had never participated in a contest before, 48 arrows being shot at 30 yards and 24 arrows at 50 yards, was won by Miss Helen Hutchinson of the Wellesley College archery team with 65 hits and a score of 323. The other college students in the round were Miss G. Balabanoff, Miss Mildred Knowlton, Miss Frances Bogert and Miss H. Davis.

During the contests the bow of J. Demura, a student of Harvard, aroused much interest. It was made in Japan more than 100 years ago.

WILL LAY CORNER STONE.

Next Sunday afternoon will be an eventful one to the members of the Union Church Society of Waban when the corner stone of the new church for which they have worked untiringly will be laid. For a number of years they have labored for this new edifice and the completion of this structure will see their efforts well rewarded. Since December 1904, the members of this parish have attended services in Waban Hall.

The new church is located on Beacon street on what is known as the old W. C. Strong estate. The superstructure which is now partly completed is of hollow stone covered with cement. The building and tower is to be of native stone.

Because of a hilly slope the basement will be laid above the ground. The interior will be heated by steam and lighted by electricity. The total cost is estimated at $22,500 and will be paid for by the parishioners. The tower will be located the ladies' parlor and the basement contains nine individual class rooms and a kindergarten class room and there will be a large room for the pastor and a separate room for the choir.

The auditorium will be capable of seating 270 people and provisions have been made for a future allery which will seat 70 more persons.

The church was organized on January 11th of this year and on September 27 the ground was broken. The contract calls for completion on the first of May and on the Sunday following the first services will be held.

A large number of invitations have been extended to the pastors of the churches and their parishioners in this vicinity and a large attendance is expected at the exercises to be held at 3.15 next Sunday afternoon. Addresses will be made by Rev. Andrew W. Archibald of Newton Centre, and Rev. Joseph B. Seabury of Wellesley Hills. There will be Scripture reading by Rev. George A. Hall of Brookline, prayer by Rev. Henry Hyde of Melrose and the contents of the corner stone box will be announced by Deacon Frank L. Miller.

Small Brother: "Are you going to marry Sister Ruth?" Caller: "Why—I really don't know, you know?" Small Brother: "That's what I thought. Well, you are!"—Life.

BAZAAR

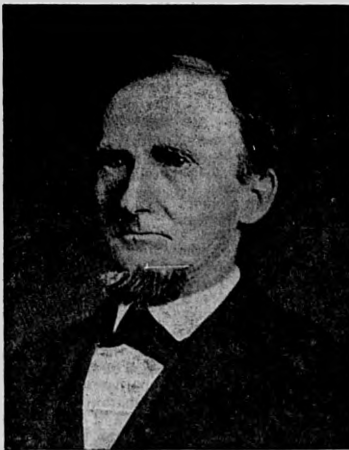

The ladies of the West Newton Women's Educational Club will convert Players Small Hall into a perfect bazaar on the fifth and sixth of December. Behind the beautifully decorated booths will be the bright faces and pretty gowns of the women who are making such great preparations for this bazaar. They will be abundantly able to present their wares in such a manner as to make one desirous of buying. Donations for the Club House Fund of money and articles of much value and great beauty have been received from the leading business houses of Boston and they will make a wonderful showing at the bazaar, and this alone will compensate any woman who will come and see them, even though she may not desire to buy. On the afternoon of the first a prize will be awarded for the best book in the state of Massachusetts. Ladies from the clubs who have sent their book will be anxious to be present to see if luck favors them and if not to congratulate the winning club. A musical program will be given from four to five o'clock. A turkey supper will be served at five o'clock. On the afternoon of the sixth, tea will be served, and we sincerely hope to complete the sale of all remaining articles. In the evening an informal dance will be given so old and young alike can join in a delightful evening. Will the ladies of the Newton remember these dates, and in the true spirit of reciprocity come and help us and help themselves in buying their Xmas gifts. Half the proceeds will be applied to the Club House fund. Articles may be sent to the hall on December the fourth addressed to Mrs. Fred Ballou Young, Chairman of Club Bazaar.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER.

A dinner complimentary to Mayor Charles E. Hatfield of Newton chairman of the Republican State Committee was given for about 20 well-known Republicans by Councilor Walter S. Glidden at the Algonquin Club Boston Wednesday evening.

Lieut. Gov.-elect Robert Luce, the other successful candidates on the State ticket, Hon. Joseph Walker and several others associated with Chairman Hatfield in the recent campaign were among those present. The esteem in which Mr. Hatfield is held was emphasized in informal speeches, as was the gratitude of the Republican party for the disinterested sacrifices that he has made.

Tony Pastor of New York wrote to the Geneva Lithia Water company as follows: "By advice of a friend, I have used your Geneva (Lithia) Mineral Water, and I have experienced from its use very beneficial results. It is a pleasant table water, sparkling and refreshing, and induces most refreshing slumber when taken at night."

MRS. ANNE TAAFFE DEAD.

Mrs. Anne Taffee the wife of Mr. John Taffee died early Sunday morning at her home on Thornton place, Newton, after an illness of several weeks. Mrs. Taffee was a native of Co. Louth, Ireland, but has been a resident of Newton and West Newton for nearly forty years. She is survived by her husband, and two daughters, the Misses Elizabeth F. and Mary A. L. Taffee of this city.

High mass was celebrated at the Church of Our Lady on Tuesday morning, Rev. Fr. Kelly, celebrant. The pall bearers were Messrs Patrick and Lawrence Shields, John Dunn and James Campbell of South Boston, and John Bannon and James Dungan of West Newton and the interment was at Calvary Cemetery, Roslindale.

Tremont Theatre—What is probably the most expensive musical comedy cast ever gathered together in the support of a star is appearing with Lina Aharanell in "Madame Sherry" which is in its fifth successful week at the Tremont Theatre, Boston. The present organization was gotten together and the production was built especially by Messrs. Woods, Frazee and Lederer for long runs and only a few of the larger cities will be able to see it. So that Boston and its environs are fortunate in securing for their entertainment absolutely the best cast that could be had for the purpose. And in the cast are a number of pronounced Boston favorites who have earned the right to be regarded as stars. Lina Aharanell, the prima donna star of "Madame Sherry" was trained in the rigid German school of grand opera, light opera and serious drama. Two years of exacting study in the school of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York preceded her entrance into the lighter forms of opera. Her first appearance in Boston was when Henry W. Savage brought her to the Tremont Theatre to play the role of Sonia, the worldly-wise sophisticated woman of the world in the original "Merry Widow" company.

MR. JACKSON BURIED

The funeral of the late Samuel M. Jackson was held last Saturday afternoon at the First Church and was largely attended by his many friends throughout the city. Rev. Edward M. Noyes, D. D. pastor of the church officiated and the church quartet rendered several selections. The pall bearers were Messrs Charles T. Pulsifer, Howard B. Coffin, William H. Lincoln, Samuel Ward, Francis Murdoch, Albert H. Roffe, Charles F. Rogers and William F. Harbach. The interment was in the Newton Cemetery.

ANIMAL RESCUE LEAGUE.

The recently received notices of the Annual Fair of Animal Rescue League remind us that Christmas shopping is imminent. No more charming gifts can be purchased anywhere than are always found at this Fair, and no worthier object can claim our attention than the rescue of deserted, starving and tortured creatures, which cannot speak for themselves. The Fair will be held on Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 4 and 5, from 10 A. M. to 6 P. M. at Copley Hall, Clarendon street and affords an excellent opportunity to buy gifts both lavish and simple. There is no charge of admission to this Fair, which is well known as one of those which does not "hold-up" its patrons in the name of charity. Residents of the Newtons who besides visiting the Fair as possible purchasers wish to make contributions of money or fancy articles, may send them to the ladies of the committee whose names are given below, Mr. Theodore Plimpton, 131 Summer street, Newton Centre, Miss Isabelle Young, 71 Lake street, Newton Centre, Mrs. Geo. A. Pierce, Centre street, Newton Centre, Mrs. Frank M. Sheldon, 32 Farlow road, Newton, Mrs. E. M. Bacall, 3 Forest street, Newton Highlands, Mrs. H. S. Chase, 61 Temple street, West Newton, Miss M. R. L. Sharpe, 74 Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, Chairman.

THE ELMENDORF LECTURES.

When Dwight Elmendorf opens his series of travel talks at Symphony Hall on Friday evening, November 17, he will conduct his hearers to that traveler's paradise, "The Riviera." After a visit to Nice, Cannes, Monte Carlo, Mentone and San Remo, the picturesque rugged shore of the Mediterranean is followed to Genoa, the city of curious contrasts, and thence on to Porto Fino with its marvelous views of mountains and sea. The subjects to follow will be "The Italian Lakes," "Florence and Venice" (in one lecture), "Rome and the Art Treasures of the Vatican," and "Naples, with its beautiful Environs—Amalfi, Sorrento and Capri." In Italy Mr. Elmendorf finds a subject after his own heart, and no country has ever had a more interesting or enthusiastic illustration.

The lectures will be given on five successive Friday evenings, beginning November 17, and on five successive Saturday afternoons, beginning November 18.

—HOSPITAL SUNDAY, NOV. 26.

LODGES.

Newton Lodge 110 Knights of Pythias will hold an open meeting with a Smoke Talk and Entertainment on Tuesday evening Nov. 28th. They have engaged two fine speakers in Dr. Richard H. York of New England Lodge and P. G. C. E. M. Harris of St. Owen Lodge of Cambridge. The public is cordially invited particularly the young men and an enjoyable and instructive evening is promised. The affair will be held in Odd Fellows hall, Washington street, West Newton, at 8 P. M.

—HOSPITAL SUNDAY, NOV. 26.

—Letter carrier F. A. Nichols of Beacon street is on his annual vacation.

—Mrs. C. A. Elmer and little daughter of Windsor road returned home on Wednesday from a fortnight's visit in Baltimore.

—Mr. Harold Hayes of Woodward street went on Monday to the Annapolis Preparatory School in Maryland for the winter.

—Before giving your order for magazines and periodicals for next year, just let us give you a figure. We can save you money. Telephone Graphic Office North 77 for quotations.

—The Waban Tennis Courts ushered in its winter social season most auspiciously last Saturday evening when a "Farmers Party" was held under the direction of Mr. G. M. Angier.

A large number of club members were in attendance and many of the costumes both excellent and amusing. Mr. C. C. Blaney easily won first honor for costuming with Mr. Herbert W. Hayes second choice while Mr. L. B. Cardell displayed the most amusing rig. Mrs. W. H. Parker and Mrs. T. H. Piser were the winners among the ladies. The prizes were appropriately farming and household utensils. Several games were played, the winners receiving similar rewards, and finally the tennis trophies for the closing season were presented. Dancing and refreshments ended a merry evening.

TEACHERS MEET.

The Newton Teachers Association held its fall meeting Wednesday evening at the Technical High school. An attractive collation was enjoyed followed by an enjoyable entertainment. The program included a ballad by the teachers of the Bigelow school, piano solos by Miss Grace K. Adams, a medley by the Technical High school band, a reading by Miss Elma Benson, a song by Miss E. Agnes Wallace, a model school by the teachers of the Emerson school, an illustration of book titles by teachers of the Peirce school, an address by Mr. Charles S. Thomas of the High school, and singing by Mr. J. B. Heberd, Mr. W. F. Hall with violin obligato by Miss Mary P. Davidson.

Mark Twain Heeded the Voice.

Mark Twain was quite at his best as an after dinner speaker at the banquet given in his honor some years ago by the members of the Authors' club. Incidentally he told his amused listeners the story of his first lapse from the paths of honesty. He was very young at the time, he explained, and the day was an exceedingly hot one. As he walked down the street of the village in which he was living he saw a cart loaded with melons of most attractive appearance.

"It is with regret I mention," Mark Twain went on, with a humorous twinkle in his eyes, "that I was tempted and I fell. I grabbed the most likely looking melon of the lot and hurriedly made my way to the back of the woods. I gouged a huge slice out of it and bit it. No sooner had I done so when something within me convinced me that I had done wrong. A voice seemed to say, 'Mark, get up and take that melon right back to where you got it from.' It was about the greenest melon I had ever tasted. I went back to the cart and carefully replaced it and took a ripe one in its place."—Boston Traveler.

Curious Old Legend.

Here is a curious legend of Cologne. Once upon a time there was a burgomaster of the town whose wife died and was buried. In the evening thieves, seeking to take jewels from the dead, opened the coffin. Now it happened that the woman was not dead, but in a trance, and when the thieves broke into her burial place she awoke and went to her home. There she called a servant, who ran in fear to his master and told him what had happened. The scared burgomaster replied to this, "I would sooner believe that my horses were looking out of the top floor window than believe that such a thing could be." Scarcely had the words left his mouth than he heard horses galloping up the stairs. In memory of this and of the return of his wife he had two horses' heads in stone set in a top floor window of his house, where they remain to this day.

A Real Patriot.

"Let's see," said the lawyer who had met an out of town acquaintance on a street car, according to the New Orleans Picayune, "doesn't your town soon hold an election?"

"And I suppose you take a lively interest in it?"

"Well, not too lively—not as lively as I used to."

"Interest falling off, eh? Didn't you run for mayor two or three years ago?"

"I have run for mayor of my town seven successive times, sir."

"And been—been?"

"Been defeated every time, sir."

"Then you probably won't run again?"

"That's uncertain. I am going to inquire around and find if I am really the man they want. If I am, then I'll take the candidacy; if not, then I will try to defeat the man they do want."

The Line of Life.

The line of life curves from the side of the hand between the thumb and forefinger around the base of the thumb to the center of the wrist joint. According to chiromancy (the pretended art of judging the character and foretelling the fortune of a person from the aspect of the hand), if this line in the left palm is regular and deeply colored it predicts a long and happy life; tortuous, colorless, feebly marked and broken it announces ill health and short life; narrow, but long and well colored, it indicates wisdom and ingenuity; broad and pale it is a sign of folly; deep and unequally colored it denotes malice.—New York Telegram.

Coronation Graft.

The practice of running the fountains and conduits with wine on coronation day was abandoned after the reign of Queen Elizabeth, but another old custom was observed up to the coronation of George IV. After the king and the company had departed from the banquet in Westminster hall the doors were thrown open, and the people rushed in and cleared the tables of everything—victuals, cloths, plates, dishes, etc., all vanished in a few minutes. And, as Sir Walter Scott tells us, the nobility were not above taking away the saltcellars and spoons.

An Office Cushion.

If those of you who have a husband or brother or sister working in an office will go to the trouble of making a flat cushion for the chair of the worker you will find that it saves the trousers or skirt from getting "shiny" and also helps to retain the garment in form.—Good Housekeeping.

Speaking Truth.

Speaking truth is like writing fair and comes only by practice. It is less a matter of will than of habit, and I doubt if any occasion can be trivial which permits the practice and formation of such a habit.—Ruskin.

Time to Go.

"Pa, is a vessel a boat?"
"E—yes—you may call it that."
"Well, what kind of a boat is a blood vessel?"
"It's a lifeboat. Now run away to bed."—Boston Transcript.

Not Fast.

"I understand," says the father, "that you have been going with a very fast set."
"Fast nothing!" retorts the son. "Why, not one of them has a four cylinder car!"—Judge.

The essential thing is not knowledge, but character.—Le Conte.

A Bride and Her Dowry.

The first colonial mint was established in 1612, but it worked only in brass. Forty years later Massachusetts engaged upon the business of coining money.

The Pine Tree shilling is not only a part of the history, but of the romance of the colonies as well. The officers of the mint, or perhaps it would be better to say the mill, from which it was issued were John Hull and Robert Saunderson. They coined for the colony, but exacted a toll for their work, just as the man who ground grain for his neighbors was wont to do. Their profits were said to be enormous, and more than once it was suggested that a new arrangement should be made. They were satisfied, however, to keep at it in the old way.

After John Hull's daughter had been married to Samuel Sewall the old mint master invited all the wedding guests to one of the rooms of his house, where he instructed his daughter to get on to an improvised platform at the end of a pair of steelyards. In a tub at the other side the old man poured Pine Tree shillings until the scales balanced. "There, Sam," he said, "take her and her dowry. It's not every bride that's worth her weight in silver."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Soft Capped Projectiles.

Many persons know that certain armor piercing shells have soft metal caps on the point, with the result of greater effectiveness over those not so provided, but the way in which the cap acts is not generally well understood. A needle may be driven into a board with a hammer when it is thrust through a cork, whereas it would break off unsupported. Many have thought that the soft cap supports the hard point of the projectile in the same way. A British authority who has given much study to the mutual action of the projectile and armor states that a shell frequently fails because of the fact that a very small piece of the point is forced back into the mass, thus splitting it. A larger piece is then similarly forced back, and so on. The main advantage of the soft cap, in the opinion of this authority, is to prevent such splitting.—Harper's Weekly.

Praise For the Sardine.

It is encouraging in these days, when everything nice is condemned by scientific faddists as nasty, to have the high authority of the London Lancet in support of the popular theory that the sardine is of great dietetic value. The sardine is good, the Lancet tells us, because, for one thing, it encourages the consumption of oil, which tends to avoid "many ills, and especially those associated with wasting diseases and gouty dispositions." This consumption of sardine oil, it adds, "prevents the overloading of the tissues with nitrogenous waste products, and a digestible fat favors nutrition considerably. The sardine supplies also an excellent proportion (25 per cent) of nitrogenous material, and so it becomes a real and economical food. In addition to this, the sardine has appetizing qualities, and where appetite serves digestion follows."

When Scotland Had a Navy.

It was James IV, who first created in effective navy for Scotland, exhausting all available timber for ship-building, so that he had to ask France and Denmark for more, and of the sixteen large and ten small ships he owned his special pride was the largest then existing. To build this Dreadnought of her day all the woods of Fife were laid waste. She cost £30,000, an enormous value in those times; had a crew of 300 sailors, 120 gunners and 1,000 marines, with "more great ordnance in her than the French king ever had to the siege of any town," as James himself boasted.—Westminster Gazette.

The First Phenix.

Legend tells us that the first phenix was born in the garden of Eden and laid its nest in a great red rose, the first rose that ever bloomed. When he angel drove Adam and Eve out of paradise a spark of fire fell from the angel's fiery sword and burned up the phenix and his nest. Out of the ashes sprang a glorious bird, which also lived 500 years before mysteriously burning itself, at every recurrence of which a new phenix is said to arise.

EVERY YEAR

We sell many chairs for Christmas gifts. It may surprise you when we say that after this week we cannot promise to have orders filled in time for December 25th delivery.

Why?

Because every bit of furniture we handle comes to us "in the white". We do all the finishing in our own shops. In this way, we not only get the best possible finish, but we have a chance to thoroughly inspect the wood and workmanship,—there is no possible chance for covering up defects. If you want a chair of any sort, come to us. We will give you a better price than you can get in Boston for the same thing, and our own personal guarantee.

CORNERED

By C. WELLINGTON BLISS

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Antoine Chabeller, private in the One Hundred and Forty-seventh regiment of the line, to the manner born, twenty years of age, defender of France from the Germans, who were marching over the borders, at the battle of Gravelotte, received two wounds, one in the leg and one in the arm. The wounds were made with bullets, which were cut out by the surgeon. They were shown to the wounded men, who asked for them, and they were given to him.

Then a brilliant idea struck the young soldier. Being a good deal of a butterfly in the matter of his loves, before marching from Paris he had tearfully bid adieu to two young ladies, each one of whom had wept on his shoulder. "I will send Lucile one of these bullets," he said, "and Clochette the other, a very pretty compliment, the bullets having wounded me on the field of battle. I can see nothing dishonorable in the matter since if either takes it as a proposal of marriage it will be her own fault."

So he wrote a letter to Lucile, telling her that he was sending her the bullet with which he had been wounded in the late battle, and wrote a duplicate to Clochette. When he next saw these young ladies the second empire had fallen and the republic was restored. Antoine lived in one of the swell quarters of Paris, on a street midway between his two charmers. They had fled from the commune, but when tranquillity was restored had returned and again settled in their homes. The war had cost France much of its best blood, and Lucile, one of the young ladies who possessed "the bullet with which Antoine had been wounded," having lost an uncle, had fallen heir to a large fortune.

Antoine, like most young men of social rank, having heard of this accession of wealth, not averse to marrying a fortune, congratulated himself on having favored the heiress with the bullet that had wounded him, but felt ill at ease for fear the other "bullet with which he had been wounded" would ruin him. His first meeting with Lucile was very tender. She did not weep tears of joy on his shoulder at his return, but there were various reasons for this. In the first place, France was a great sufferer; in the second, mademoiselle was now a prize in the matrimonial market and could not be expected to give herself away as readily as before. These were the reasons Antoine gave himself for a want of demonstrativeness on the girl's part such as she had shown at his departure for the war.

It was some time after his return that he called upon Clochette, who possessed the other bullet with which he had been wounded. She received him with the same demonstrations of affection as before, permitting him to embrace her, though Antoine thought that there was not the same genuine feeling she had shown before. She was much interested to know where he had been struck, and Antoine turned up his trousers and showed her a scar in the calf of his leg. The wound in his arm he was keeping for Lucile.

There was one weak spot in this little farce for its hero. The two young ladies were acquainted. Antoine felt hopeful that the one would not learn of the other's souvenir since high bred ladies were not likely to tell one another of their love affairs. However, he was in a hurry to wed Lucile, for once married there might be half a dozen bullet souvenirs in the hands of as many young ladies and no great harm done. Lucile put him off on the plea that she was not assured of his love for her, but declared that once convinced she would yield.

One day when Antoine called on Lucile he was concerned to find Clochette there drinking English afternoon tea. Clochette was surprised to see him, but the three drank tea together very sociably. Antoine was called upon to give some account of his war service, and both girls naturally manifested an interest in his wound. Finally Lucile said:

"M. Chabeller, show mademoiselle the place in your arm where you were wounded."

The bomb was about to burst. Nevertheless Antoine was a man of courage. He did not flinch.

"In the leg, you mean," said Clochette.

"He told me it was in the arm; indeed, he showed me the scar."

"I think I should know," said the other, "since I possess the bullet that wounded him."

"Indeed," rejoined Lucile, with hauteur, "I supposed I possessed that bullet. Is it not so, monsieur?"

"It is."

"And do not I possess the bullet that wounded you?" asked Clochette, with uplift.

Antoine saw that it was all up with him. He surrendered, but to neither.

"Young ladies," he said, "I sent one of you a bullet that wounded me in the arm, the other one that wounded me in the leg. I sent a third bullet to another girl."

"Where did that one strike you?" asked Clochette.

"In the heart."

Both girls burst into a laugh. Lucile finally forgave him, and he is now making ducks and drakes of her fortune. Nevertheless his wife is not fond of having him tell the story, which he does whenever he entertains a select party of intimate friends.

POLITICAL NOTES.

A largely attended meeting in the interest of William J. Doherty, candidate for Mayor against Charles E. Hatfield, was held Saturday evening in Mague Hall, West Newton. The speakers were Mr. Doherty, Alderman John W. Murphy, Ex-Alderman William P. Sweeney and Thomas J. Lyons, Daniel O'Connell, chairman of the Democratic City Committee and William H. Thomas. A subscription fund was started and arrangements were made to make a vigorous campaign for Mr. Doherty.

Senator Mulligan has filed a statement that his election cost him $28245. Representative White states that he spent $25 for automobiles and Representative Bothfield certifies that he expended nothing.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Democratic nominations for the coming city primaries have been filed at the City Clerk's office as follows: For mayor, William J. Doherty, alderman at large, Ward 5, Thomas J. Sullivan, ward aldermen, John W. Murphy, ward 1, Howard A. O'Grady, ward 2, George M. Cox, ward 3, Thomas J. Lyons, ward 4, Thomas H. King, ward 5.

It is interesting to note that the Assessors have found 787 automobiles in this city this year with a value of $1,037,700.

Mr. Edwin O. Childs, just elected Register of Deeds for the Southern District of Middlesex County for another term of five years has filed a certificate that the election cost him $212.50.

MISS SHIRLEY DEAD.

Miss Catherine L. Shirley passed away at her home 195 Church street, Newton, on Sunday morning Nov. 12th. Services were held in the Channing Church Chapel last Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Harry Lutz of Channing Church and Rev. B. F. McDaniel of Barnard Memorial Chapel officiating. Interment was in Codman Cemetery Dorchester.

Miss Shirley was a teacher in the Barnard Memorial for 53 years resigning three years ago on account of advancing age. She was an old resident of Newton and had made her home for the past five years at 195 Church street. She was in many respects a remarkable woman but quiet and unassuming. She was much beloved by all her pupils and she will be greatly missed by her many friends.

CITY HALL NOTES.

A special meeting of the aldermen was held last evening to declare the results of the recent state election and to sign the returns.

HUNNEWELL CLUB.

The first entertainment of the season was given Wednesday in the assembly hall, when the Hayden Trio and Mr. Charles R. Taggart entertained, furnished a most enjoyable program. There was a large attendance.

This afternoon the first ladies' whist matinee will be held.

UNITARIAN CLUB.

A largely attended meeting of the Unitarian Club of Newton was held in the parish house of the West Newton Unitarian church last evening. President Clarke was in the chair and a dinner was served at 6.15. At eight o'clock in the lecture room, Congressman John W. Weeks gave an interesting talk on the Work of the National Monetary Commission of which he is a member. An abstract of the address will be given in our next issue.

Gentlemen who give careful thought to their personal appearance and who, just about this season, are considering the ordering of new clothes, with all that this duty involves, may be glad to learn that Brodell, the tailor, is now in new and well-equipped chambers at 319 Washington street, directly opposite Milk street. Those who appreciate the best class of tailoring and a high grade line of materials, correctly fashioned at reasonable prices, may find it to their advantage to see what Mr. Brodell is offering at this time.

Imported from afar.
They hammered it and rolled it,
And when they went away,
They said they had a pavement
That would last for many a day.
But they came with picks and spade it.
To lay a water-main;
And in time they called the workmen
And in time they put it back again.
To run a railway cable
They took it up once more;
And, later, put it back again,
Just where it was before.

They took it up for conduits
To run the telephone;
And then they put it back again,
As hard as any stone.
They took it up for wires
To feed the electric light,
And then they put it back again,
Which was no more than right.
Oh, the pavement's full of furrows:
There are patches everywhere:
You'd like to ride upon it,
But it's seldom that you dare.
It's a very handsome pavement,
A credit to the town;
They're always digging of it up,
Or putting of it down.
—Exchange.

TRUE SYMPATHY.

The thin man darted across the platform: "Will you hold the train a moment for my wife, conductor?" he gasped. "She is just crossing the street."
"Can't do it!" snorted the conductor, as he raised his hand to signal the engine.
"But, conductor, she's going away to stay six months!" cried the thin man. "If she doesn't go now, she may change her mind."
"I'll hold it," replied the conductor.

located at the corner of Centre and Pleasant Streets in Newton Centre, 1700 ft. from Commonwealth Avenue, has been an attractive source of interest and education in modern housekeeping for hundreds and hundreds of people during the past year.

SINCE the House was opened in Newton Centre on May 24 last, over Five Thousand Persons have visited it and registered. Every one of these visitors has been loud in his or her exclamations of delight and surprise to find that there are so many things that can be done in the Electric Way that they did not know about before.

THIS House is a delightfully complete, up-to-date place; it is a portable house of ample proportions; and, while we commonly think of the portable house as of temporary construction, and as not lending itself readily to artistic treatment, we must not make that mistake in connection with this beautiful place. The House of Edison Light is thoroughly well built; the provisions for electric service have been installed with an eye to economy of construction and convenience of access within the House. The hangings, decorative treatments and furnishings are of the very best—it is a home that anyone can delight in. It is worth seeing simply as an illustration of the skill of the decorators and furnishers' artistic science.

ON one side of the House may be seen the garage, in which is kept a beautiful electric pleasure automobile. The garage is, of course, lighted by electricity, and every convenience for use in giving personal care to the maintenance of the car, that can be, is operated by electricity. There are the buffers, the motors, the polishers, the lathes, etc., etc., so that the care, especially in view of the fact that Electric Vehicles are so easily and cheaply maintained, can be given in the shortest time and without inconvenience.

THE House of Edison Light is open every business day from 2 P.M. until 10 P.M., and every person who can possibly reach it is invited to enter and be entertained and enjoy a pleasant time.

THE House of Edison Light can be reached easily by the electric car lines from Needham and other surrounding cities and towns, from all of which transfers can be secured to the Commonwealth Avenue lines. The House is especially convenient of access for automobile parties through Commonwealth Avenue or Beacon Street and other Boulevards; and those wishing to reach the House by the suburban railway lines can do so easily by the trains on the Brookline-Newton Centre branch of the circuit.

DON'T forget everyone is welcome every business day between 2 P.M. and 10 P.M. The most competent demonstrators in the country will gladly prove the efficiency of the Electric Home.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

It is a matter of regret that the Club Editor cannot include in her column this week an account of the autumn meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation held at Haverhill yesterday. It will be just as good reading next week and all those who did not attend should acquaint themselves with what the Federation is doing. The general topic "Civics" which was the theme of the day, is one in which the clubs from the beginning have interested themselves. Certain new phases were presented yesterday. The subject of "City Planning" has not been considered before and was shown to be a term that has been widely misinterpreted. It does not mean merely a "city beautiful" but a planning in which utility and beauty are inseparable, and should be applied not alone to the big cities, but to small towns and villages as well, where a big and lasting service may be rendered. A new phase of activity open to women's clubs was suggested by Dr. Perkins in his admirable address, namely, that of teaching the English language and American ideals to the foreign women who have flocked to our shores. Such meetings point the way, may the clubs be not slow in following it.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM CONFERENCE

The Civil Service Reform department of the Massachusetts State Federation will hold a conference at Colonial Hall, Merrimack and Palmer streets, Lowell, on Wednesday, Nov. 22, at 2.15 P. M.

Mrs. Imogen B. Oakley, chairman of the Civil Service Reform department of the General Federation, will speak of "The Need of Civil Service Reform." Time will be allowed for discussion and a social hour with the Middlesex Women's Club, the hostess of the afternoon.

The clubs are urged to send delegates. Train leaves North Station at 1 P. M.

The Newton Highlands Monday Club will meet with Mrs. Drown of 32 Lake wood road on Nov. 20. On Thursday, Nov. 23rd at 10 A. M. the club will visit the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, under the direction of a docent.

At 2.30 on Monday, Nov. 20, the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands will meet with Mrs. Emery Clark of Allerton road.

Judge Harvey H. Baker of the Boston Juvenile Court, will address the Newtonville Woman's Guild at its meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 21, at 2.45. Tea will be served. There will also be the annual exhibition of the Needlework Guild.

The subject of the paper to be given at the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning will be "Noted Philanthropists: Jane Addams, Tolstoi."

On Thursday, Nov. 23, at 2.30, at the regular monthly meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club, Rev. Samuel MacChord Crothers, D. D. will give his new lecture entitled "American Temperament."

The usual meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club will be omitted on Nov. 24th.

Mr. Edward H. Cutler announces a course of three morning lectures to be given on successive Mondays beginning on November 27.

The Newton Centre Woman's Club had a treat at its meeting on Nov. 9 in the lecture by Rev. Henry R. Rose, D. D., on "Chanticleer." His presentation of the play was wonderfully interesting and his pictures which Maud Adams posed for especially for him were very lovely. Dr. Rose considers the play by all means Rostrand's masterpiece and one which no one can afford to miss seeing.

At the business session of the Auburn Review Club on Tuesday morning a subscription to the General Federation Endowment Fund was made and routine business transacted. After which Mrs. Nelson Freeman rendered piano selections. Col. Homer B. Sprague the speaker of the morning, gave the club and their guests a comprehensive and instructive lecture on "Goldsmith." Col. Sprague is thoroughly familiar with this "sweet souled" writer, whom he characterized as "The foremost author of a very literary age," the one who wrote the "best known domestic novel" and innumerable essays, histories, poems, ballads and letters as well.

The speaker traced Goldsmith's career, his failures and successes, his school life, the almost insurmountable difficulties in his way as he studied law, theology, medicine, pedagogy, and then told of his wanderings and adventures, and how all this made him the author he was, a master of literary style.

At the meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club last week action was taken on the death of one of its members, Mrs. Samuel Waters. The program for the afternoon consisted of a piano solo by Miss Evangeline Thatcher and a lecture upon "Robert Louis Stevenson" by Prof. E. Charlton Black.

By way of introduction Prof. Black alluded to the fact that his first talk outside of college halls was given before this club nineteen or twenty years ago in the early days when Mrs. E. N. L. Walton was the president.

His talk upon Stevenson was truly a lecture lesson as he termed it. He pictured the calm serenity of Stevenson's life, his absolute good nature and poise, the gentleness and cheerfulness, which he practised in his life in spite of the severe physical pain he suffered from childhood to the grave, and which were the keynotes of his philosophy. Prof. Black likened him to the other great Scottish writers, Carlyle and Burns and to the great reformer, John Knox, all of whom stood for the value of the individual: "Not what I do, not what I have, but what I am," being the keynote of their teaching. The lecture was not only instructive but inspiring, giving, as it did, a deeper and more sympathetic insight into his character and works.

After the lecture an informal reception was held during which tea was served under the direction of Mrs. Arthur B. Munroe, chairman of the hospitality committee. Mrs. Harry S. Wells and Mrs. Samuel Pray poured and were assisted by Mrs. Edward Dexter, Mrs. Charles Conant, Mrs. W. J. Furber, Mrs. Walter A. Beadle and Mrs. Wilfred Clark.

On Nov. 13 the Newton Highlands Monday Club continued its study of Egypt with a paper on "Beni-Hassan." There were also readings descriptive of the Temples of Eana and Edfu and the city of Luxor, and giving some account of the customs of the people and a description of the Egyptian marriage.

The Parliamentary Law Club met with Mrs. W. D. Tripp on Tuesday, Nov. 14th. The club has added new members and with Mrs. Sherman for teacher is in a prosperous condition. After a practice lesson the business of the club was transacted with Mrs. J. I. Wingate the president, in the chair.

The Social Science Club held their regular meeting at the Hunnewell Club on Wednesday morning. A report of the Newton Federation meeting was given by Mrs. W. W. McIntyre. The phase of Modern Philanthropy considered was "Work of the Sage Foundation" the subject being treated by Mrs. George Angier. No complete report of the activities of the Sage Foundation has yet been published. Russell Sage, who amassed the vast wealth from which this Foundation was established came into the world in 1816, somewhat of a burden to a sorely tried family. His father, Eliza Sage, was just moving his home from Connecticut during the hard times following the war of 1812. He was bound for the Western Reserve, but upon the advent of Russell, they settled in Oneida, New York. At the age of fifteen Russell was apprenticed to his brother to work in his grocery store for $4.00 a month and "keep." Even at this early age he made shrewd bargains on his own account and at the end of his apprenticeship he was able to form a partnership with another brother. In a year or more he bought his brother's interest and became his own master.

During the temperance activity in Troy in 1839 his store was under disapproval because of the sale of rum. Young Sage sold the store at a profit. Soon he purchased another and entered into partnership with John P. Bates. In three years Mr. Bates discovered his share of the profits to be $75,000 and retired to live upon his competence. Thereafter Mr. Sage eliminated partnerships from his career.

In great measure this remarkable man owed his vast wealth to his frugality, industry, and to his keen insight. In the forties he became interested in politics and later he was associated with Jay Gould in the control of railroads.

In 1869 Mr. Sage married for his second wife, Margaret Olivia Slocum, who has since shown such wisdom in distributing her husband's vast wealth. In 1906 Mr. Sage died. For the most part he was considered a penurious man, but he had a very clear philosophy of life—to make money. He possessed no vices, no extravagances, but lived a plain, simple life, not undertaking to distribute his wealth himself, but leaving it practically all to Mrs. Sage to dispose of.

After mentioning a number of the great educational funds and philanthropic foundations Mrs. Angier stated that the boards of trustees which control them are selected partly from professional and partly from financial circles and in no case do they receive the slightest recompense for their services.

The definite lines of policy of the Sage Foundation are the improvement of social and living conditions in the United States, the plan being not to undertake work now being done by other agencies. It will not undertake to relieve individual or family need, its function being rather to eradicate the causes of poverty, and ignorance. The sphere of higher education will not be within its scope.

When Mrs. Sage gave $10,000,000 to create the Foundation there was great stir in many quarters. It has been the policy from the beginning to stand behind activities already established.

One-third of the great future has already been spent for public benefactions during the past three years, and a new chapter is being written in modern philanthropy. Among the movements which it has financed are: the anti-tuberculosis campaign, movements for public recreation, placing of children in institutions, medical inspection of schools, and many others.

While there may be little to admire in a man whose life work has been the amassing of great wealth yet might it not be that Mr. Sage was chosen to hoard his wealth until the years were ripe for its great accomplishments? Questions and general discussion followed.

AUTUMN MEETING OF THE NEWTON FEDERATION.

The Newton Federation of Women's Clubs held its autumn meeting on Tuesday Nov. 14, at the Technical High School, Mrs. George H. Wilkins presiding.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mr. F. W. C. Hersey of Harvard College, his subject "Various Types of the Modern Drama." Among many interesting points made by the lecturer were the following:

When we go to the theatre the "dear theatre" of Alice Sit by the Fire and all lovers of the drama, we go to see a story told, and that story, covering a period of several years, weeks, one day or evening, has to be compressed into a space of two or two and one half hours and still keep the interest from lagging, so the dramatist has a very difficult task before him. He must make the story carry over the footlights by every possible means, and by theatrical moments when the emotion of the instant must be emphasized by some unexpected bit of color. A good example of such skillful handling is the ending of the first act of Salvation Nell. At the moment when Nell, the scrubwoman of the saloon, torn between the emotions aroused by the Salvation Army woman who is trying to save her, and the evil woman who is hoping to drag her into depths of sin, goes towards the door on the arm of the lassie, the Salvation Army band passes at the back of the stage, a triumphant song of faith pouring from trumpets with the beating of drums, and the curtain falls upon an audience swayed to its feet by tremendous religious enthusiasm.

In the Elizabethan era the stage was a so-called "platform" stage, built out into the auditorium; thus the actor, surrounded by his audience on three sides, had little or nothing in the way of scenery or stage illusion to help him and had to convey all by his speech; hence the long descriptive speeches and the oratorical display. Today we have the "picture" stage with every accessory known to science and to the artistic temperament. Thus in The Return of Peter Grimm we find the original staircase and the fire place of a genuine old Pennsylvania Dutch house, bought and dismantled by Mr. Belasco. A bundle of trees outside a back-stage window is done up in burlap and labeled with the botanical names, the very cup on the mantel is marked with the name of the supposed owner of the house; all this detail is not known by the audience, but serves to strengthen the atmosphere of reality for the actor himself.

We find the soliloquy and the "aside" obsolete, and the olden insult of the back turned to the audience brought to insignificance.

A change, too, is found in classification. In other days we had the tragedy, that conflict of man with fate, with its ever fatal conclusion; the comedy, for example the School for Scandal, with the characters the impelling force; the farce—with the plot overshadowing the characters; and last, the good old melodrama with its live heroine, its detestable villain, virtue rewarded, and evil denounced.

Instead of these we now have no genuine tragedy, the comedy, to be sure but no longer the comedy of manners where wisdom and wit never stiffen into serious drama, or lighten into robust farce (see Lady Windemere's Fan and The Liars for modern examples) but the comedy of love, manners giving way to the sentimental drama. Instead of melodrama (except at the Grand Opera House) we have the problem play which deals with the sex question, or, in a wider sense, the thesis play which considers general truths by specific examples. In fact we now demand unity in time, place, and action; the development of one idea or one character. Plays to be successful must stimulate curiosity, develop gnawing anxiety, and bring final satisfaction.

Playwrights considered by Mr. Hersey were Pinero—who "at his best shows life at its worst"—with The Profligate, The Second Mrs. Tangueray, The Notorious Mrs. Ellsmith, Iris, and Mid-Channel; these showing the influence of Ibsen; Brieux, the French writer, his published plays prefaced by Bernard Shaw, well worth the reading; and Shaw, himself, the dramatist of ideas, the man with a definite purpose but whose plays show reason rather than passion or feeling.

Then, too, is Augustus Thomas, who in his latest plays deals with such problems as race prejudice, mental suggestion and the dual standards of sexes; and Barrie, impressing all by his charm, enduring old emotions with new tenderness, making us love life and in love with love.

Among problem plays of wide scope Mr. Hersey mentioned The Third Degree with the police problem, The Fourth Estate, dealing with the newspaper, The Nigger, race prejudice, Strife, with the theme of labor and capital and Justice which has already influenced England to reform its prison administration.

Closely allied to these are The Chorus Lady, the Sales Girl, etc. Of plays with oriental ideas, now coming before the public, were instanced The Arab, The Garden of Allah and Kismet. A word was given to the Irish drama and some time to the Allegorical, religious, and symbolic plays. Everyman, The Servant in the House, The Passing of the Third Floor Back, Mary Magdalen and the modern morality play Everywoman; also Peter Pan, the Blue Bird and Chanticleer. Mr. Hersey read speeches from Chanticleer and regretted that time could not be given to a further consideration of the last mentioned plays.

Miss Upham of Newtonville, accompanied by Mrs. Albert Carter, sang an aria from the "Marriage of Figaro" and a beautiful little song called "In a Garden."

A social hour followed under the charge of Mrs. Luther Woodward, chairman of the Social Committee assisted by Mrs. L. S. Drake, Mrs. G. L. Miller, Mrs. A. P. Felton, chairman of Federation Committees, and the efficient members of the Social Committee.

A sale of jellies, preserves, mince meat etc., was held at the same time by girls of the Domestic Science Department of the high school under the charge of Mrs. L. S. Hyde.

Recent accidents to members of the High School football team together with the many reports of injuries received in this game by lads in other cities, has caused considerable discussion in this city as to the wisdom of our school authorities permitting this so called sport among our boys. The lads who attend the High school are too immature to indulge in a game where brute strength is the first requisite, and where they are liable to receive injuries which would maintain them for life. In addition the game excites all the primitive passions, the determination to "kill" an opponent, or a concerted effort to injure the best man on the other team. No wonder that the crowds who flock to see these exhibitions manifest signs of rowdiness both on the field and on the way home.
I personally witnessed six or eight young girls about fifteen years of age, returning from a football game and on alighting from a car at Nonantum Square, gave their school yell, every rod or so, all thru the principal streets.
I question very much whether their parents approved of the exhibition made by the girls, but it was but the natural outcome of attending a football game.

There is also a question in the minds of many as to the legal rights of the school committee to expend the public money in employing a coach for the athletic sports, managed by an outside organization, the Newton High School Athletic Association, even if the matter is covered up by classifying the coach as a "teacher." Taxpayers and parents have a mutual interest in this matter and should enter a strong protest to the school committee against the continuation of football as a "school" sport in this city.

Our correspondent in another column who protests against the street lighting in this city and insinuates that the local Gas Co. has a reason for its "handsome dividends" should transfer most of his indignation to the city fathers, whose appropriations for street lighting have not been nearly sufficient for the needs of this city for many years.
Newton needs at least $25,000 additional money for street lighting before its many miles of streets will be sufficiently illuminated.

The city primaries will be held next Tuesday but as there is no real opposition to the candidates for nomination for either party the vote will probably be lighter than usual.

THEATRES.

Colonial Theatre—It is perhaps because Miss Janis is so fascinatingly young that she has such a tremendous following among the college boys and girls of her own age, but her following doesn't end there, as was demonstrated by the circumstance that the audience at the Colonial Theatre last Monday night when she opened her annual engagement presenting for the first time in Boston the new musical comedy "The Slim Princess" looked like a first night at the Boston Opera House in the distinction of the audience which filled every seat of the beautiful theatre on Boylston street.
The measure of Miss Janis's success in "The Slim Princess" was promptly attested in the extension of her engagement to December 16th. The houses for the nights of the Harvard-Dartmouth football game and Harvard-Yale football game and Thanksgiving are already sold out so it behooves out of town people who want to see the clever little comedienne and her excellent company in Charles Dillingham's elaborate production to get busy with the box office of the Colonial Theatre without undue delay.

8 HOUR LAW VIOLATED.

Mr. Albert T. Stuart of the T. Stuart and Sons Corporation was fined $25 each on four separate counts in the Dedham District Court on Wednesday.

The specific charge was the employment of an engineer by the defendant for more than eight hours a day at the construction of a covered well for the city of Newton in Needham near Kenrick's Bridge, running over the Charles River. As the city of Newton has adopted the act, any work being done for the city comes under the provisions of the law.

Following a complaint of the American Federation of Labor to the State Police, Inspector Joseph F. Cobb, with State officers Harry Atkinson and Edward Ryan, were sent to investigate
They kept close watch on Sept. 30,
Oct. 3, Oct. 10 and Oct. 14, the result of which was told in court today.

Frederick W. Mansfield, counsel for the American Federation of Labor, appeared to support the complaint.

The State officers stated that on the four days specified they secreted themselves in the bushes adjacent to the reservoir. Carrying their lunches with them, they remained hidden from 6 in the morning until 6 in the evening.
They told the court that engineer Johnson, on each of these dates, worked more than eight hours, putting in from nine to nearly 10 hours of work.

The defense was made on the ground that it was a case of extraordinary emergency, in that it was necessary, because of the sandy soil, to push the work.

Judge Grover found that the work was not of extraordinary emergency under the meaning of the law and imposed a fine of $25 on each of the four counts.

PROBATE COURT.

To all persons interested in the estate of Gamaliel P. Atkins late of Newton, in said County of Middlesex, deceased.

WHEREAS Willard L. Sampson as he is administrator with the will annexed of said deceased has presented to said Court his petition praying that he may be authorized to continue the business of said deceased for the benefit of his estate.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the twentieth day of November, A. D. 1911, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by publishing the same once, two days before said Court, in the Newton Graphic a newspaper published in Newton.

Witness, Charles J. McIntire, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this sixteenth day of November, 1911, year one thousand nine hundred and eleven.

W. E. ROGERS, Register.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

Pursuant to and in execution of the powers of sale contained in a certain mortgage of real estate given by John T. Langford to Ellen F. Healey, dated October 16th, 1905, and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 3192, page 493, there will be sold for the purpose of foreclosing said mortgage for breach of the conditions thereof, at public auction on or near the premises herein described, on Monday the 11th day of December, 1911, at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular, the premises conveyed by said mortgage and bounded and described in said mortgage deed as follows:

All that parcel of land with the buildings thereon situated on the Northern side of Walnut Park in Newton County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Mass according to E. Woodward's Plan, dated June 1, 1873, and duly recorded and bounded as follows:—Southerly by said Park, one hundred forty-eight and one half (148 1/2) feet; Easterly by land now or late of one John F. French, one hundred and eighty nine (189) feet and ten (10) inches; Northerly by land now or formerly of one J. S. Potter, one hundred forty-eight (148) and one half feet and Westerly by Walnut Park Avenue, one hundred and ninety-three (193) feet. Containing twenty eight thousand four hundred and eighteen (28,418) square feet of land. Subject to provisions and restrictions of record so far as the same may be in force and also to unpaid taxes or liens. If any there be. $500 will be required at time and place of sale, balance in ten days thereafter.

ELLEN F. HEALEY, Mortgagee.

Week after week goes by, and still the Coronation pictures remain at Tremont Temple, assured of the constant appreciation of the public. In addition to the processions and ceremonies portrayed by the Kinemacolor motion picture process, there are other features of no less interest, and the entire entertainment has a widespread educational value that is being taken advantage of. The special Saturday morning performances, at 10 o'clock, for schoolchildren, parents and teachers are now a regular feature of special attraction and value to the younger portion of the community. Each Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, Dr. Roland Dwight Grant displays some of his own special views, in addition to the regular program. Performances are given twice a day every day in the week.

For Wedding and Anniversary Gifts, a selection of a beautiful Gas or Electric Table or Floor Lamp, as shown by McKenney & Waterbury Co., 181 Franklin St., corner Congress. The largest display of these goods in the world may be seen all lighted, to show effects in detail.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Mr. Jacob M. Clinton of New York and the Rev. James L. Barton D. D., are to be the speakers at the first Sunday meeting held in the new association building.

Dr. Barton needs no introduction to the Newton citizens.

Mr. Jacob L. Clinton was born in 1877. After some practical business experience, he entered the University of Indiana from which institution he received the following degrees: Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Laws and Master of Arts. In 1900 he won the Law Scholarship prize at Indiana University on the thesis "The Legal Status of Our New Possessions." In college, his superior ability as a manager called him into the service of athletics and other college organizations including the Young Men's Christian Association, of which he was president.

He volunteered for the foreign field in 1903 and was called to fall to the foreign staff of the International Committee. From January to June, 1904, he served as secretary of Central Branch, Buffalo.

His first foreign post was Kankow, China, from which position he was called to Tokyo five years ago when the migration of thousands of Chinese and Korean students to that Imperial capital began. He has directed with consummate ability the social, educational and religious program among them, an enterprise to which the leading missions of China and Korea have loaned their workers—both foreign and native.

Dr. Arthur Smith, perhaps the most eminent missionary of the American Board in China, has stated that the undertaking which Mr. Clinton is leading means more for the Christianization of China than any other opportunity before the Christian church.

Both men and women are invited to attend this meeting.

Ladies' Auxiliary.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will hold their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday the 22nd of November. The Rev. Laurens MacLure, D. D. will be the speaker. Ladies of the city are invited to be present.

Plans are now being made for a Food Sale which is to be held in the new Association building on Saturday, November 25th, at 2.30 P. M. The ladies will have food of all kinds for sale included candy.

D. A. R.

The Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R. of Newton were pleasantly entertained at the Newton Club, on Monday, November 13. The hostesses, Mrs. Edward Almy, Mrs. John Avery, Mrs. W. R. Arnold and Mrs. Frederick W. Bakeman, were assisted in receiving by the Regent, Mrs. Charles D. Meserve. A piano selection, Liebestraum, by Liszt, was finely rendered by Miss Alma Suren.

The paper of the afternoon was given by Mr. Edward J. Cox of Newton. His subject, "The Battle of Bunker Hill," was clearly treated, and aided, by maps, his listeners were able to more fully comprehend this world-famous event.

A social hour followed during which tea was served by daughters of members.

THEATRES.

Park Theatre.—Deep down in your heart of hearts, whether you be old or young, you enjoy a well-told fairy tale. I confess I do, at any rate. In the dull humdrum of every-day life, with its manifold cares and perplexities it is indeed refreshing to revel in the delights of dreams that come true. Well, I have just been to see "Get-Rich-Quick-Wallingford," now in its eighth week of record-breaking patronage at the Park Theatre, Boston. Considered as a comedy, "Wallingford" is a classic, but as a modern fairy story for grown-ups—which is the classification I prefer—it is a veritable masterpiece, and to me the most delightful entertainment I have ever enjoyed. I found it to be just what my doctor ordered as a sure cure for that melancholy feeling, I fairly laughed myself black in the face, yet all the while the glorious enchantment held me spellbound in gripping wonderment at the dream—the dream we have all had of some day acquiring get-rich-quick wealth—the dream that came true for J. Rufus Wallingford and all the lucky "boobs of Battlesburg." Never have I seen such a perfectly balanced cast as that provided by Messrs. Cohan & Harris. The company is a large one, and all in all, I think "Wallingford" is beyond peradventure the best thing I have seen this season, and I can only say, you will miss a rare treat if you don't see it.

MARIE DASCOMBE.

Castle Square Theatre.—On its revival at the Castle Square, "The End of the Bridge" lacks nothing of the immediate popularity that was its reward last spring. Therefore Mr. Craig announces its second week, beginning Monday, with the same cast and every feature that contributed to its first success. "The End of the Bridge" is now a play of national reputation, and Boston should be proud of having given it to the world. As will be remembered, it won the first John Craig Harvard prize, and it achieved a run of no less than nine weeks at the Castle Square last spring, breaking all records at that house. And the acting contributes no small share to this triumph. Mr. Craig's Dr. Garret has been proclaimed far and wide as a masterly impersonation of a real physician, and Miss Young as the wife, George Haswell as Felix Marriott and Henrietta McDannel as Peter share in his success. Miss McDannel, indeed, by her acting of the little boy make "The End of the Bridge" a play in which the children, as well as their elders, can take the keenest delight.

—At the meeting of the entertainment committee of the New Church Society, held last week, it was decided that it would be more convenient for all concerned, if "Everybody's Night" were held on Friday evening instead of on Wednesday; hereafter it will be on Friday evening of each week that the church parlors will be open to the church people and their friends.

—The receipts from the fair in aid of the parish house fund of St. John's Church, held last week in Denison Hall, will amount to between four and five hundred dollars. To this amount is added the generous and welcome gift from Mrs. Edward Palmer Hatch of $1,000. A check for that amount was handed the rector on the last day of the fair, with the request that it be used toward the parish house fund. Since the receipt of that gift, the community has met with an unexpected loss in the death of Mrs. Hatch, and the gift has become a memorial of her, and of her loyal and devoted interest in the welfare of St. John's Parish since the earliest days of its existence.

REDUCE WATER RATES

The Finance committee of the aldermen have recommended a new schedule of water rates to take effect next March. The price is reduced from 35 cents per 1000 gallons to 30 cents and faucet rates are lowered from $6 to $5 per year. There will be no change in the minimum rate of $10. The new schedule will affect the water income about $15,000. Another welcome change is that making the price 22 1/2 cents per 100 cubic feet, instead of 1000 gallons. Water meters use cubic feet and this change will make it easy for the average householder to figure his own water consumption. Heretofore it has been necessary to reduce the cubic feet to gallons before arriving at the cost.

Other important salts beside Lithia in Geneva water are the sulphates of magnesium and sodium, known in more common vernacular as Epsom and Glauber salts. These give quite a laxative effect, while the sulphate of sodium acting upon the liver, offers a sovereign remedy for torpidity and biliousness.

SCIENCE OF SALVATION

The lecture on Christian Science given at Temple Hall, Newtonville, last Monday evening was well attended. The lecturer, Prof. Hermann S. Hering, C. S. B., found an appreciative audience and his talk proved to be of more than usual interest and power. Prof. Hering said in part:

In considering the subject of "Christian Science: the Science of Salvation," it is well to have a mutual understanding as to the meaning of the terms. Science means exact, systematized, and demonstrable knowledge of facts, laws and causes while according to Smith's Bible Dictionary salvation means "deliverance from temporal evils and earthly destruction," in other words, deliverance from evil—from sin, disease and death. Hence "The Science of Salvation" means, in substance that demonstrable knowledge which affords deliverance from all evil.

St. Paul admonishes us to work out our own salvation. This Scriptural command means far more than the common belief that salvation is assured by simply having belief or faith in Jesus as the Son of God. Such saving faith is vitally necessary, but it is only the beginning of our salvation—its spiritual basis.

Then must follow the working out of our deliverance from evil on this basis; our actual separation from sin, from the bondage of this world, from limitation, failure, disease, death.

In working out our salvation we must first see that salvation or deliverance from evil is a mental process, takes place in mind; that it is a transformation through Mind and is both ethical and philosophical.

The Bible declares that "to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." Christian Science teaches that matter and material existence are phenomena of the mortal, material, finite mind, a concept of existence obtained through the physical senses, a misapprehension of reality held by human consciousness when uninstructed by Science, an appearance instead of an actuality. It is simply an imitation or counterfeit obtained from a finite, dimensional, mortal basis.

Now it is not the appearance but only the original that has power, intelligence and substance. The manifestation of growth, action or being as matter is but a material concept of spiritual facts.

The objects, action and power expressed in a "moving picture" are not in the picture and we do not associate them with the picture, but with the original which the picture reproduces. Similarly, life, growth, action, power, substance, law, et cetera, are not in matter, physical existence or the material consciousness; but in divine Mind, the only cause and Principle of being, and should be so thought of.

When we recognize God as the only Mind, the only cause, Truth as reflected in consciousness and existence is harmonious. When we believe causation to be material or in mortal mind, we put our trust and dependence in a shadow, a false belief, and existence, so called, is discordant, liable to disease, disaster, death. In order to work out our salvation we therefore need to understand causation.

The ordinary human concept of mind is that which thinks, feels or wills, the intellect, or the activity of the ray matter called brain. Christian Science reveals the fact that Mind is divine Principle, the infinite Life, Truth, Love, omnipotent, omniscient, omnipresent, the all-inclusive, eternal, unchanging, all-wise being, the only cause and creator.

Christian Science makes it clear that material existence is not the manifestation of this divine Mind, but the phenomenon of the counterfeit, called mortal mind.

It is this false concept of existence that does all the wrong thinking; that believes in sin, disease and death; that claims there is life and intelligence in matter.

The difference between the method of healing, through mental suggestion, or hypnotism, and that of the divine Mind, the Christ healing, must be clearly seen.

When the effort is made to heal by suggestion, the operator endeavors by means of mental manipulation to make the patient believe that he is not sick. He attempts to change the belief, but the cause of disease remains and in time manifests itself even in worse forms. The patient is no better off, he has not risen in the scale of being, he has no more manhood, or moral courage, and does not know any more about God and His Christ than before.

The true Christian Scientist reflects the divine Mind, stands on the basis of God, man and the universe as Spirit and spiritual, as Love and its manifestation, as Mind and its ideas—perfect and harmonious. Hence he understands the unreality of matter and evil and knows that man is not sick but that the patient is simply suffering from a false mesmeric belief. From that standpoint he proceeds to correct the errors of belief with the Truth of being and thus establishes harmony on a spiritual, scientific basis.

It is not to be wondered at, indeed it is inevitable, that Christian Scientists should love Mrs. Eddy for having brought to the world this Science of Salvation, the true knowledge of God and man, the spiritual understanding of the Holy Scriptures which enables them to know themselves and to demonstrate that "saving faith" which alone leads to heaven.

Mrs. Eddy did not simply state her discovery to the world; she first demonstrated it and then offered it as a demonstrable Science for all mankind to profit by. This Science overcomes evil, by giving a true knowledge of God and His Christ; it enables all humanity to work out their own salvation and reach that pure consciousness, which Jesus called the "kingdom of heaven."

THEATRES.

Plymouth Theatre.—"Have you seen 'Pomander Walk'?" is the question that is being asked by those who have witnessed this delightful and exquisite comedy, now running at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston. Beginning next Monday the play will enter upon the fourth week of its engagement at Boston's newest and most modern playhouse. That it has established itself in the hearts of the theatre-goers as one of the most delightful and charming plays that Boston has seen in a long time, is evidenced by the crowded houses at every performance. It is well for you not to miss this captivating comedy.

"Pomander Walk" is not a comedy of the slam-lang rapid-fire variety, but one of the most delicate fibre. It is as sweet and refreshing as a whiff of newly mown hay. From the rise of the curtain until the close of the performance you dwell in the land of happiness. The management has set aside Thursday, November 23, as "Parker Night," in honor of the playwright's ancestors. The occasion will be marked by the presence of Mr. Parker, who will deliver a short address.

B. F. Keith's Theatre.—One of the strongest vaudeville bills of the year is announced for next week at B. F. Keith's Theatre, headed by Harry Von Tilzer and Taylor Granville's "The Hold Up." The spectacular feature of the week will be supplied by Taylor Granville's great drama of railroad life in the Southwest, entitled "The Hold Up." This production is one of the big things of the year in vaudeville. Only three players appear in the piece, but no less than thirty stage hands are required to manipulate the great effects. Other big features will be Edmund Hayes & Co., in "The Piano Mover"; Howard's Ponies; Those French Girls; Kauffman Brothers; Grace Freeman; and others.

Bijou Theatre.—Because of the fact that the children of today seldom have the opportunity of hearing old songs of many lands, which have been placed by popular modern rag-time and illustrated songs, the Bijou is presenting a series of folk songs and dances with appropriate settings and costume. These numbers were produced under the direction of Josephine Clement, using talent regularly employed by the Bijou and were given trial performances during the summer. Their reception and commendation by the public has led us to believe that they will be welcomed by our patrons who were absent at that time and unable to enjoy these old-time memories. Special attention is called to the value of these numbers for school children. On Saturday A. M. the balcony of the theatre will be reserved for the exclusive use of children and those accompanying them. A matron will be in charge to care for those unattended.

"BEN-HUR" AT THE BOSTON THEATRE

Boston Theatre.—With the use of every device known to modern stagecraft to produce a picture in the line of which has never before been seen in this country, "Ben-Hur" is on its way to scoring the greatest success at the Boston Theatre that has yet been known in that historic playhouse. Painters stage artisans and costumers have accomplished wonders in this line before but it has been the unanimous verdict of the thousands who have seen Klav & Erlanger's new and greater production during the past two weeks that the high-water mark has been reached and that it will be many years before a spectacle even approaching it in grandeur will ever be seen again. The chariot race has been so improved that it is wonderfully realistic and it is hard to imagine that the 20 horses in 5 quadruple spans rushing madly on the stage are not in truth engaged in a neck to neck race in the Antioch arena, and that the shouts from the multitudes are not in reality those of the mingled Romans, Jews and Egyptians cheering their respective champions on to victory. The music of Edward Stillman Kelley is rendered by a specially engaged orchestra. The company which is appearing in this great spectacle is of particular note and has been pronounced the best that has ever appeared in any previous presentations of the great drama.

Need a Receiving Line?

"A receiving line? Why, that's an additional telephone at about half price. It was this way: I had reached the point where my regular telephone couldn't take care of all the calls for my number. When I found I was losing all the trade, I decided that it was time to do something. I told the telephone people I didn't want to go to the expense of another full service telephone if I could avoid it, and they suggested a telephone for incoming calls only.

"It works to perfection. I list the receiving line in my book and hold my regular telephone for outward calls and for the overflow of incoming calls that cannot be cared for on the receiving line.

"Costs me $3 a month and is just as good for my use as a like giving inward and outward service."

MR. BLAISDELL DEAD.

Mr. James C. Blaisdell died early Saturday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Walter B. Wolcott of Church at Newton after an illness of about two years. He was born in Lebanon, Maine, February 17th, 1837. He married March 10th, 1859 Miss Emily A. Brackett who died July 11th of this present year.

Mr. Blaisdell resided for many years in Berwick, Me., where he was engaged in the business of farming and in coal and wood. He has lived in Newton for the past seven years. He was a veteran of the civil war, a member of Littlefield Post of Somersworth, N. H. and of Echo Lodge I. O. O. F. of Berwick, Maine.

He is survived by a son Mr. J. William Blaisdell and one daughter Mrs. W. B. Wolcott.

The service held at his home Sunday afternoon was conducted by the Rev. H. Grant Person, pastor of the Eliot Congregational church. Services were also held Monday afternoon at the G. A. R. Memorial Hall in Somersworth, N. H. and the local bodies of the Grand Army and Odd Fellows of which Mr. Blaisdell was a member performed their burial services, assisted by a male quartet. Interment was in the family lot in Evergreen Cemetery, Berwick, Maine.

The House of Edison Light Front View
On Centre Street, Newton Centre

located at the corner of Centre and Pleasant Streets in Newton Centre, 1700 ft. from Commonwealth Avenue, has been an attractive source of interest and education in modern housekeeping for hundreds and hundreds of people during the past year.

SINCE the House was opened in Newton Centre on May 24 last, over Five Thousand Persons have visited it and registered. Every one of these visitors has been loud in his or her exclamations of delight and surprise to find that there are so many things that can be done in the Electric Way that they did not know about before.

THIS House is a delightfully complete, up-to-date place; it is a portable house of ample proportions; and, while we commonly think of the portable house as of temporary construction, and as not lending itself readily to artistic treatment, we must not make that mistake in connection with this beautiful place. The House of Edison Light is thoroughly well built; the provisions for electric service have been installed with an eye to economy of construction and convenience of access within the House. The hangings, decorative treatments and furnishings are of the very best—it is a home that anyone can delight in. It is worth seeing simply as an illustration of the skill of the decorators and furnishers' artistic science.

ON one side of the House may be seen the garage, in which is kept a beautiful electric pleasure automobile. The garage is, of course, lighted by electricity, and every convenience for use in giving personal care to the maintenance of the car, that can be, is operated by electricity. There are the buffers, the motors, the polishers, the lathes, etc., etc., so that the care, especially in view of the fact that Electric Vehicles are so easily and cheaply maintained, can be given in the shortest time and without inconvenience.

THE House of Edison Light is open every business day from 2 P.M. until 10 P.M., and every person who can possibly reach it is invited to enter and be entertained and enjoy a pleasant time.

THE House of Edison Light can be reached easily by the electric car lines from Needham and other surrounding cities and towns, from all of which transfers can be secured to the Commonwealth Avenue lines. The House is especially convenient of access for automobile parties through Commonwealth Avenue or Beacon Street and other Boulevards; and those wishing to reach the House by the suburban railway lines can do so easily by the trains on the Brookline-Newton Centre branch of the circuit.

DON'T forget everyone is welcome every business day between 2 P.M. and 10 P.M. The most competent demonstrators in the country will gladly prove the efficiency of the Electric Home.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Thanksgiving Day is drawing near. And with it comes abundant cheer; For gathered round the festive board, Are just a few, sometimes a horde. No matter what the changes are, Some gather home from near and far; And many a tale may then be told. That will some mystery unfold. To make Thanksgiving Day complete, There must be many things to eat; And one essential, live or die, Must surely be a nice Mince pie. A hot mince pie with nice ice-cream, Is surely something to esteem; And Morse & Bliss can both supply, If you these requisites will buy.

INTERESTING SESSION

The board of aldermen at its regular meeting Monday night passed without effort the annual appropriation order for 1912 carrying a total of nearly a million and a quarter of dollars, and then spent considerable time and eloquence (?) on orders of $500 and $200 each. The passage of the budget as it is called was probably due to the care given its many items by the Finance committee and which had been carefully reviewed by the committee of the whole last week. Only one change was made as reported by the committee of the whole, and that increased the salary of the city clerk from $1700 to $1900. Orders allowing the clerk of committees $500 for extra services and the City Engineer $200 for services in connection with the building ordinances were passed after considerable debate, the first by a vote of 16 to 2, Aldermen Cox and Higgins voting in opposition, and the latter by a vote of 10 to 6, with Alderman Higgins excused from voting. Alderman Cox asked to be excused from voting on this matter also but permission was refused and the alderman promptly left the chamber while the vote was being taken. Mr. Cox thought it a bit "early for Christmas" and his speech against the order was received with considerable merriment.

Possibly the most important matter outside of the budget was the request of the trustees of the Newton Free Library for an enlargement of the present library building and an estimate of about $40000 by Mr. Lewis H. Bacon for the improvement.

President Jones was in the chair and only Aldermen Bemis, Leonard and Williamson were absent. The hearings on petitions of the Telephone Co for pole on Bourne st., Central st., Dudley road and Vinc st., and of the Edison Co for poles on Columbus st., Hillside road, Grafton st. and for underground in Surrey road and Claremont st were unopposed. Mrs. F. S. Marshman spoke for Mr. C. E. Currier in opposition to Edison poles on St. James st and Mr. Currier filed a written remonstrance at the time he petitioned for the widening of the street.

Alderman Higgins spoke in favor of laying out of Brooks ave under the betterment act and Mr. E. J. Cox favored action also.

The mayor sent in communications from Mr. Currier relative to St. James st from the Forest Commissioner for transfer of $150 to Parks and squares and from the Library trustees as to enlarging buildings.

The selectmen of Needham agreed to the matter of repairs of Kenrick bridge and petitions were also received from the Edison Co for attachments on Hillside road and Sumner st. from the Telephone Co for attachments on Pennsylvania ave., Woodward st and Arlington st and from B. A. Ham for a sewer in Boylston st.

Hearings were assigned on petitions to keep gasoline from H. E. Barker, Park st. and J. E. Mitchell, Commonwealth ave.

On recommendations of committees proposed ordinances revising water rates and changing the fiscal year of the water department were passed to be enrolled, transfers authorized in appropriations for the Buildings, Police and Street departments, a sewer order constructed in Woodward st., attachments granted the Edison Co on Needham st and the Telephone Co on Walker st., licenses granted Reamic Boudrot to locate a gasoline engine on Faxon st., to the Newton Garage, Brook st. A. D. Wheeler, Bowen st and Chas. F. Jones, Endicott st to keep gasoline, Giovanni Fonticchio for a wagon license, leave to withdraw given licenses of Alfred Matz, as a minor, Antonio Valente, as street musician, and Giovanni Fonticchio, liquor transportation permit, and on petition for laying out of Waban hill road. The Public Works committee recommended various sewers as requested by the Metropolitan Water board, and hearings were assigned on Dec. 4 on them. This committee also reported no action necessary on proposed lease of land at Commonwealth ave and Bow st.

The report of the Finance committee, leave to withdraw on petition of city laborers for 25 cents a day increase with a recommendation that the Mayor endeavor to provide the men with more permanent employment was opposed by Alderman Murphy who offered a substitute practically granting the petition after Jan. 1st. In presenting his substitute Mr. Murphy said he commended the committee for the time and consideration given the matter, but he was positive that the wages now received by the unskilled laborer will not purchase the necessities of life. We are proud of our streets, our sewers and our parks, but we pay the men who maintain this standard less than the wages paid by a majority of the cities of the state. The plan of the committee to more continuous work is not practicable as the bulk of this outdoor work must necessarily be done during the summer months, and it is unreasonable for this board to ask a man to exist on but $480 per year. Mr. Murphy felt confident that the tax payers of the city would favor the increase.

Alderman Blakemore said that the main reason of the petition was the alleged high cost of living, and yet the laborers have already received an increase of 29 per cent since 1900. He quoted figures to show that a Boston laborer, whose estate he had recently settled had left substantial bank balances. The committee, Mr. Blakemore maintained had to consider the market price of labor as well as the market price of materials. He believed that the rates of wages in other cities paying $2.25 were largely the result of political conditions. There was also an ample supply of applicants for city work and the eight hour law was also a factor in the matter. Alderman Cox raised a point of order when Mr. Blakemore mentioned the eight hour law but was overruled by the chair. Mr. Blakemore went on to say that the city had an efficient force of laborers and he believed an increase of wages would eventually compel the city to adopt the contract system. He declared that there was no reasonable ground save sympathy in granting the petition and that the true remedy was more work, more appropriations and a larger annual wage.

Alderman Cox wanted the laborers

—The Men's Club met Tuesday evening at the Universalist parish house; supper was served at 6.30 after which his honor Mayor Charles E. Hatfield gave a lecture illustrated by many fine stereoscopic views.

—Lieutenant and Mrs. Chester Kessler who are now at Newport, R. I. and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Atwood of Providence will be guests over the Thanksgiving holiday of Hon. and Mrs. John A. Fenno of Walnut street.

—Rev. John Goddard conducted the Ladies Bible Class of the New Church society, Monday afternoon in the church parlors. The spiritual study of the story of Abraham was continued, with Nos. 1425-55 of the Arcana Coelestia as a basis.

—Hon. Homer B. Hulbert, diplomat and traveler formerly in the service of the Emperor of Korea, delivered a most valuable, informing and interesting address before the Claffin club at their meeting last week in the Methodist church.

—The Young Peoples' League of the Newtonville New Church Society held a meeting last Sunday evening at the residence of Dr. H. P. Bellows, Putnam street, West Newton. "Self Love" and "Love towards the Neighbor" were the subjects for the evening.

—The public garage which H. W. Orr is building at 861 Washington street will be completed on or about January 1st and will be one of the largest and best appointed garages in the city, being built of brick and cement with truss roof and floors, steam heated and fire proof, and measures 45 x 80.

—The Woman's League of the New Church Society is making arrangements for a series of Travel Talks to be given for the benefit of the "National Church" in Washington, D. C. Mr. John Daholl will be the speaker at the first special meeting which will be held Sunday evening Dec. 3rd.

—The men of St. John's parish held a successful meeting Wednesday last week at the residence of Mr. C. F. Avery. It was proposed to arrange an informal organization for future meetings and Mr. Avery, Mr. Macomber and Mr. Starkweather were appointed a committee by the rector, Rev. Richard T. Loring.

—The first rehearsal of the children's choir of the Methodist church under the leadership of Miss Leslie Kyle will be held in the vestry next Monday afternoon at the close of the public school hour. All children under seventeen years of age are invited to attend and get started on the Christmas program.

—There was a large attendance at the ministers' annual reception held last Friday evening in the parlors of the New Church Society on Highland avenue. Rev. and Mrs. John Goddard were assisted in receiving by Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Lawrence Gould. A pleasing musical program consisting of four groups of songs was finely rendered by Miss Elizabeth Upham and Miss Alice Sampson. An impromptu charade formed an interesting feature of the evening's entertainment after which a collation was served.

Ellen Cooney; secretary, Mary Thompson.

A lady living in a fashionable quarter has a bit of statuary bearing the inscription "Kismet." The housemaid was dusting the room the other day when the mistress appeared. "Shure, mum, what's the manin' of the writin' on the bottom of this?" asked the maid referring to the inscription on the statue. "Kismet means fate," replied the mistress. Bridget was limping painfully when out with her sweetheart not long afterward, and he asked, "What's the matter, Bridget?" "Faith," was the answer, "I have the most terrible corns on me Kismet!"—Tid Bits.

—The Waban Women's Club met on Monday at the residence of Mrs. H. G. Cloyes on Montclair road and listened to a most entertaining and instructive lecture by Mrs. Richard Cabot of Boston whose subject was "Punishments best fitted to form child character."

—On Wednesday and Thursday afternoons a beautiful exhibition of the highest type of modern photography and studies in color was held at the home of Mrs. Hermine Turner on Windsor road, the former being the work of Mrs. Turner the latter of Mrs. Beatrice Ruyt.

—A well attended meeting under the auspices of the Women's Guild was held in the Church of the Good Shepherd on Tuesday afternoon which included several out of town delegates. Dr. Tucker spoke of the foreign mission situation. A reception and tea at the home of the Rev. James C. Sharpe followed.

—Waban took another step forward in its self improvement and the Union Church Society passed another milestone in its progress on Sunday afternoon, when the corner stone of the new building which is being erected as an outcome of seven years earnest efforts was laid. More than 400 interested members and friends of the society gathered to take part in the simple but impressive service which was conducted by the pastor the Rev. Dr. Archibald of Newton Centre. The contract calls for a completion of the building by May first of next year and the total cost will approximate $22500. The plans show a handsome cement structure with square stone tower.

—The Beacon Club of Waban met Wednesday at the home of Mr. Joseph F. Breck, 1589 Beacon street, for the second meeting of the season. President Louis W. Arnold introduced the speaker of the evening, Hon. Louis A. Coolidge, Ex-Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Treasurer of the United Shoe Machinery Co. and sometime President of the Gridiron Club, and there followed some very interesting "Personal Reminiscences of a Washington Correspondent." There was a large attendance of members and guests including many recent additions to the Waban colony. This season bids fair to be the most successful in the Beacon Club's history of a dozen years, with a record membership and an interesting and varied program.

It is a matter of regret to many persons that the aldermen have not seen fit to recommend an increase of 25 cents per day in the wages of the city laborers. The reasons advanced by the committee for refusing the advance are grounded from a business standpoint, and will appeal to business men but there is not a humanitarian aspect to the matter which should have had some consideration. While many persons take considerable stock in the assertion that a municipal government can be run strictly on business principles, in actual practice, this has been found to be almost impossible. Too many outside elements enter into the matter to allow it to be adjusted by a hard and fast rule of this kind. The state recognizes this element by its provisions for pensions of various forms, in the demand that the poor and the insane shall be provided for in a decent manner and in many other humane ways. And in its treatment of its laborers the city should also consider certain facts on the lines already indicated by the state. It is said that the average city laborer in Newton receives an income of but $450 a year, or less than $10 per week, and on this sum he is expected to live, raise his family and keep out of debt. The Street Commissioner is authorized by the statement that Newton has as efficient a corps of laborers as exists in the state; that it is the result of constant weeding out of the less desirable men, leaving an experienced body of laborers fit for the regular routine work of the city. This experience should be recognized and at least a living wage paid for such service.
The suggestion advanced by the committee that more permanent work be given the men, who would thereby receive a larger annual income, is more theoretical than practicable. The bulk of the work on which common labor is employed must necessarily be done during the summer months. The work which can be done during the winter is not only limited in scope, but is also limited as to the number of men who can be employed, and as a matter of fact has always been given to the more experienced men who already receive at least $2.25 per day. In only one way can the common laborer in this city receive the larger income which is actually needed and that is by granting the proposed increase in his wages per day.

One of the Thanksgiving Thoughts contributed to this paper last week, urged every one to "live in Newton" not merely sleep here and wonder if the average man really grasped the meaning of the phrase "live in Newton." It means an active interest in the affairs of our city government—it means more than a passive attendance or acquiescence in one of the various churches—it stands for participation in neighborhood affairs—it means a support of the local newspapers, who endeavor to advocate the best interests of the city at all times—and it means financial support according to one's means of the local philanthropic institutions, the Newton Hospital, the Pomroy Home, the Day Nurseries and similar organizations. If every man would endeavor to really "live in Newton" what a community we would have and what results might be accomplished for the good of humanity.

The result of the city primaries this week had been anticipated but the campaign may now be said to be on in earnest, altho at present there seems to be but little interest. Mayor Hatfield will be opposed for a second term by ex-alderman William T. Doherty and none of Mr. Hatfield's friends need take the result as granted as Mr. Doherty is a popular man, has a wide acquaintance throughout the city and will poll the solid Democratic vote. The danger from a Republican standpoint is solely from the neglect of the citizens to vote. Every vote will be needed on election day and it is none too early to get to work.

Boston Transcript

Saturday, Nov. 25, 1911

Hospital Sunday has become such a permanent fixture in the life of our city that it seems sufficient to simply inform everyone that next Sunday will be the eventful day. Just to remind ourselves however it is well to hear in mind what a useful institution the Hospital has proved itself to be in this community, to ask ourselves what we would do if no such organization was at our service,—and then to pledge ourselves to a substantial contribution for its support. In another column the trustees enumerate the reasons for asking for contributions and to which careful consideration should be given by every resident of Newton.

One of the items in the budget of 1912 recently passed by the aldermen will, I am sure, be heartily approved by all taxpayers and citizens. I refer to the increase of $18,000 in the appropriation for maintenance of streets, with a total of $78,000. This sum will enable the Street Commissioner to repair several thoroughfares which are now in wretched condition. The department really needs a much larger sum than $78,000 for this purpose, but our city fathers are to be congratulated on making a beginning in this important and necessary work.

It is interesting to note that the ordinance revising and reducing the water rates to be paid next year in this city was passed on Monday evening by the Aldermen without a dissenting voice or vote. This unanimity must be gratifying to the large body of water consumers who will in consequence save about 14 per cent on their water bills hereafter.

READ FUND LECTURE.

Bigelow school hall was crowded to the doors Tuesday evening at the second lecture this season in the Read Fund Course, when Mr. F. Eugene Farnsworth gave an interesting talk on the Canal Zone, illustrated with some fine lantern slides.

The next lecture will take place next Tuesday evening when Mr. A. B. Tripp will give an exhibition of Wireless Telegraphy.

RECEPTION.

One of the first large social events of the season was the reception given by Mrs. Albert Bartlett Cram last Monday afternoon from 4 to 6 at her residence on Ward street. A representative gathering of society numbering about three hundred, was present from Boston Brookline and the Newtons. The parlors which were artistically decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums presented an unusually beautiful picture, the color scheme being yellow.
Mrs. Cram was assisted by twelve of the young society matrons; those presiding at the table were Mrs. J.
Rollin Stuart, Mrs. Ernest F. Russ,
Mrs. S. Hardy Mitchell and Mrs. S.
Harmon Curtis. The other ladies assisting were Mrs. David P. Cummings, Mrs. Frederick H. Baird, Mrs. Elmer
W. Nutting, Mrs. Frank M. Sheldon,
Mrs. Willis G. Bancroft, Mrs. Willis
G. Parmelee, Mrs. George A. Burdett,
Mrs. John E. Smith and Miss Grace Darling. A very pleasing feature of the occasion was a harp trio which played during the reception.

HUNNEWELL CLUB.

There was a largely attended bridge whist matinee last Friday, the prizes being awarded to Mrs. Ridgely, Mrs.
Ferris, Mrs. Claffin, Mrs. Wilcox and Mrs. Hubbard.

NEW RECORD.

A new record for loading coal was established Wednesday when the steamer Newton loaded her initial cargo at Baltimore in just four hours and 50 minutes. The work of loading was watched by mine officials and some of the officers of the New England Coal & Coke Company. It is believed to be a world's record.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

There are often side happenings in connection with Federation meetings that are quite as interesting or amusing as anything that is properly a part of the program, and these are duly appreciated by those possessing a sense of humor. The lone man in work-a-day clothes who by mistake strayed into one of the special cars bound for Haverhill last week, must have felt very uncomfortable even though he did not notice it. Another lone man, who on the return trip boarded the special car was not slow to show his embarrassment for he made his escape as quickly as may be amidst the audible smiles of the club women. Where his emotions akin to that of the woman who enters the smoking car unwittingly?

In the course of his address Dr. Perkins was contrasting the life of the immigrant men and children with that of the women. "The women," he said, "stay at home." But the speaker was not slower than his audience of five or six hundred women, who had not stayed at home, to appreciate the humor of the situation.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. W. T. Logan at Forest street on Nov. 27 at 2.30.

The Monday Club omits its meeting next week on account of Thanksgiving.

Mr. Edward H. Cutler gives the first of his course of lectures next Monday morning at the residence of Mrs. Calvin B. Prescott, 764 Centre street, at eleven o'clock on "Aristophanes and the Greek Comedy."

The Parliamentary Law Club will meet with Mrs. W. D. Tripp of Boyd street on Tuesday, Nov. 28, at 10.30.

On Tuesday morning, Nov. 28, the Auburndale Review club will meet with Miss Harriette Hunt of Woodbine street. Mrs. B. E. Taylor of Newton Centre will speak upon the combining of the philanthropic organizations of the city. The play of "Edward II" will be read.

There will be no meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. met on Monday last with Mrs. Emory W. Clark at her home on Allerton road. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. W. Scott Richards, the program comprising "The Hague," "Scheveningen" and "The Peace Conference." Mrs. Richards' fine paper gave a brief but interesting description of the Hague and its picturesque suburb, Scheveningen, including the fine public buildings of the former. The Hague is not only a beautiful and interesting city in itself, but it is famous because of having for so long occupied the position of European arbitration. Mrs. Richards gave a concise and accurate account of the Hague Peace Conference. In view of the attitude of our own President with regard to arbitration, this paper was most timely and its information much appreciated.

At the meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club last week the work of Maud Ballington Booth for discharged prisoners was graphically presented by her son. The talk was illustrated by the recital of many touching instances.

The Annual Meeting of the Newton Woman's Exchange was held on Nov. 13 at 10 A. M. the following officers were elected for the year 1917-1918. President—Mrs. John T. Lodge. Vice Presidents—Mrs. Wm. T. Lucas, Miss Maud Henry, Mrs. Ed. T. Fearing. Treasurer—Mrs. Alice N. Silsbee. Secretary—Mrs. Wm. T. Coppins. Directors—Mrs. James F. Bothfield, Mrs. E. P. Tuttle, Mrs. Harry M. Taylor, Miss Rose Loring, Mrs. F. A. Day, Mrs. W. H. Plant, Miss Whiting of Newton; Mrs. J. A. Paton, Mrs. J. L. Richards, Mrs. Alfred Vose of Newtonville; Mrs. A. Stuart Pratt, Mrs. Henry Whitmore; W. Newton; Mrs. H. P. Converse, Auburndale; Mrs. John Meehan, Watertown.

At the meeting of the Newton Highlands Monday Club the study of Egypt was concluded with papers upon the land of Phileas and Assuan. The engineering difficulties were spoken of and a description of the great dams given. The club has found Egypt a most interesting country and it is with a feeling of regret that it leaves the subject. The afternoon's program was enriched by two piano solos by Mrs. Wallace.

Mrs. Harry G. Cloyes of Windsor road, opened her home for Monday's meeting of the Waban Women's Club when Mrs. Richard C. Cabot lectured on the subject "What Punishment helps build Character." Mrs. Cabot divided types of punishment into three classes, the first for revenge, the second for protection, the third for reform. In speaking of obnoxiousity it was described as the negative side of a good trait leading to independent inventive judicious blindness and deafness in dealing with children and urged the keeping of small faults, small, instead of treating the little things as crimes. Punishment she said is only a substitute and an admission of failure. Responsibility will bring reform. In closing Mrs. Cabot quoted Phillips Brooks "He who helps a child helps humanity in general."

Rev. Samuel MacChord Crothers, D. D., of Cambridge lectured before the Newton Centre Woman's Club on "American Temperament." The lecture was as refreshing as all Dr. Crothers writings, a defense and appreciation of American optimism. He started out with the boastfulness of the early settlers and traced down through the period of "our monopoly of self-appreciation." What he called "our Fourth of July period" from 1812 to the sobering time of the Civil War. To this time belonged the American of character with his "Jack Horner attitude and his great Louisianian and Californian pluck," Sam Slick being suggested as belonging to this type.

Dickens seeing us at this time did not understand, as did Mark Twain, that colossal self-appreciation nor comprehend the fundamental fact that America has been and still was a land of pioneers. William James expressed the American outlook when he said "The essential thing is not what is, but what is going to be."

"It is the manifestness of destiny forced upon him by the bigness of the country and its opportunities that justifies the American Optimism. The true American always stands for bigness, not only physical, but also for moral and spiritual bigness, for plenty of philosophy and higher life. And it is the true American Uncle Sam is trying to make out of the remnants and odd materials continually shipped to him and already on hand. But give him time."

A short business meeting preceded the lecture at which a report of the State Federation meeting at Haverhill was given by Mrs. Ordway.

On Tuesday afternoon Judge Harvey H. Baker of Boston spoke before the Newtonville Woman's Guild on "The Work of the Juvenile Court of Boston". Judge Baker emphasized particularly the need of preventive measures and expressed the opinion that thereby the need of a juvenile court will be dispensed with. His work is mainly with the children of immigrants, who have got into trouble often times through their parents' not understanding the language. He cited a number of interesting cases. Tea was served by the charitable committee of which Mrs. C. R. Lynde is chairman. In connection with this meeting there was the annual exhibition of garments made by the Needlework Guild. An unusually large number were shown and they will be distributed among the various organized charities of the city.

The club is proposing to hold a course of four lectures beginning in January by Prof. Hersey of Harvard upon "The Structure of the Drama", if there is a sufficient demand for tickets. They will be open to non-members as well as members of the Guild.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning, the subject of "Modern Philanthropy" was considered for a third time, Mrs. C. B. Gleason giving an admirable paper on the work of "Tolstoi and Jane Addams."

After defining the word Philanthropy as meaning "One who loves mankind and works for the good of others", she said Tolstoi was a Russian nobleman, born Aug. 26, 1828. At an early age he was entrusted to the care of relatives for his upbringing, and one who had a large influence upon his life, taught him the beauty of loving and the joy of a quiet, simple life.

Later, however, his youth and early manhood were spent in the follies and dissipation pursued by the young men of his class. Often in the midst of his excesses he weariied of it all. The poverty and suffering which he continually saw haunted him, and made him dissatisfied with his life.

He entered the Russian Army and these learned to hate war.

Later, he became a literary man, and much interested in the peasant classes. He freed the serfs on his own estate, and established schools which were successful until the government became suspicious when he abandoned the enterprise.

He was married in 1862, and settled on his estate, and for 15 years he led a somewhat quiet life in the midst of a growing family of 13 children.

The countess, his wife, wished to establish a city home, that the children might have the advantages of society but he preferred to live in the country with the peasants.

His friends looked with good natured incredulity upon his attempts at bettering the condition of the poor, and often neglected to send him the aid they had promised.

Very often he was disappointed in his search for worthy poor, finding those whom money would not help, and his conclusion was that only complete reorganization would effect reform.

His search of the scriptures with his renunciation of all the luxuries and most of the comforts of life, at last brought the peace he had so vainly sought.

Colonies who wished to practice his theories sprang up all over Russia endangering social welfare by rejecting all form of government.

Toward the close of his long, turbulent, unhappy life, the great philanthropist became estranged from his family, and he secretly departed from his home, dying shortly after amidst sad surroundings.

Undoubtedly the great thinker did much to relieve the oppressed and improve the condition of the peasantry among whom he lived, but now his theories seem visionary and impractical.

Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, the bright exponent of philanthropy in the new west, was born in 1860. As a child and young woman, scenes of poverty and suffering always appealed to her.

After her graduation from Rockford Seminary her health compelled her to give up the study of medicine which she hoped to pursue, and her attention was turned to the establishment of a home in the midst of the misery and unhappiness of Chicago.

She, and a friend in full sympathy with her in her great undertaking, took possession in Sept. 1889, and began her wonderful work of planning kindergartens, sewing schools, of nursing the sick and of burying the dead; of providing a home centre for the development of higher living.

The home has grown with the years, and has an attendance of thousands. All nationalities are represented.

In 1873 she was attracted by Tolstoi's idea of sharing the poverty of the people, and she went to Russia to see the famous teacher, to study his methods and to determine if his way brought peace of mind and heart. His idea of living and laboring as the people about her did, seemed impracticable and impossible of fulfillment and she returned to carry on her great work as seemed most feasible.

The speaker drew a sharp contrast between the old world theorist and the new world practitioner. The paper was followed by questions and discussion closed the morning.

Mrs. William A. Knowlton is opening her home this Friday afternoon to the members of the Auburndale Review Club and their daughters to meet Mrs. Henry Coolidge Mulligan, president of the State Federation.

The West Newton Women's Educational Club is indebted to the efforts of Mrs. Fred B. Young for an enjoyable outing on Tuesday, when they visited Hood's Laboratory.

The club is making extensive preparations for the Bazaar to be held on

THEATRES.

Tremont Theatre—The last week but one of the tuncful "Madame Sherry" at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, finds this melodious French vaudeville as popular as the opening week and did not other contracts interfere to prevent it, Lina Abrahams, the prima donna star, and the expert cast of fun-makers surrounding her, might stay in Boston indefinitely. As it is, however, the company will be able to enjoy a real old fashioned New England turkey dinner Thanksgiving day but it will come at an hour when such things ordinarily are past and gone. During the Boston engagement Madame Abrahams has but added to the favorable opinion theatregoers have already held of her. The portrayal of the venture into a world other than the four corners of a convent has gained in finesse and charm with each performance and the cast surrounding the prima donna has also brought an added charm to the entertainments.

Castle Square Theatre—The merry humors of farce will have their turn at the Castle Square next week. "Before and After" is the title of the play, and its plot of "Before and After" involves a physician who thinks he has discovered a remedy for the worst kind of grouching, and trying it on a fellow doctor, he finds that it works to perfection. "Before and After" comes to the Castle Square for the first time on Monday and it promises to repeat the great success of other plays of its kind. The cast will be carefully chosen by Mr. Craig to bring out all the humors of the play and the capabilities of the players. It will have a run of only one week.

The Sunday evening concert at the Castle Square will have a number of interesting special features in addition to the display of motion pictures. It should be noted that these Castle Square concerts are different from the usual entertainment of that sort. They are given in every particular and they give the choicest acts obtainable for a pleasing and popular program in which people of all ages may take enjoyment. The box office opens for the sale of seats Sunday evening at 6 o'clock and the overture begins at 8.

The many specialties that have helped to make the Lauriat Company's book store famous the Country over, are also an aid in making it particularly attractive at this season of the year as it places to pick out holiday gifts. Especially is this true if you accept of their invitation to come in now, while the stock is fresh, the assortment practically unbroken and the service of a kind that can hardly be hoped for in the last days of holiday shopping.

41 SUMMER ST. NEWTON

N. H. S.

On Cabot Park Monday afternoon, the Newton High School field hockey team and the alumni played a no-score game in a very interesting match. Between the halves the sophomores and freshmen had a contest which was won by the sophomores, 5 to 0.

The Brookline High sophomores defeated the Newton High sophomores, 33 to 0, at Brookline Saturday before a large crowd.

The semi-annual meeting of the Newton High School Commercial Alumni Association was held last Friday evening in the Technical High School. The following committee was appointed to make arrangements for the annual dance to be held early in January: Frank Lewis, James F. McInerney, Miss Kathleen Nolan, Miss Frances Whalen, Leroy Hurd, Miss May Foley, Miss Rita Nagle, Lawrence M. Barry, Miss Christine Cannon and Fred Hubbard. Thomas Burns, president of the association, presided. Following the meeting there was dancing.

The second game of the Triangular League football series was played on Claflin Field Friday afternoon when the Cambridge Latin and Brookline High School teams both failed to score. The field was in bad condition and the players found it difficult to hold their feet. The N. H. S. football team play the Cambridge Latin this afternoon on Claflin Field in a championship game of the Triangular League.

Arrangements have been made with the Brookline and Somerville High Schools for the formation of a triangular debating league, and the first debates of the series will be held in February. Two teams from the society will be formed, one to meet each opponent on the same night. Faculty supervisors have been appointed for the boys and girls debating societies, and these are now fully under way for the season.

—On Thursday the sixteenth some of the members of the Technical High heard an interesting talk on "The Necessity of an Education" by the president of Colby College.

A new system is to be introduced in the Technical High by which the individual responsibility, accuracy, personal ity, resourcefulness and scholarship of every pupil ever having graduated from that school can be judged. This is to be used for the employers' benefit. If possible another record will also be kept of the average wages per week paid to the graduates of the school for the first four years after graduation.

Bishop Lawrence addressed the Classical High School members Wednesday morning on "The Worth of Reserve Power."

The first meeting of the Girls' Glee Club was held in the assembly hall on Tuesday Mr. Walton will take charge of this club during the coming year.

A Wireless Club has been organized in the Technical High under the direction of Mr. Varnum. A well equipped wireless has been installed in one of the laboratories.

Members of the Senior Class have started a petition to arouse enthusiasm over the German Club in the Classical High.

The girls' tennis tournament is now down to the final match. Miss A. Alchin '12 and Miss M. Robbins '12 will play the finals for the school championship.

The Girls' Debating Club will hold its first regular meeting in the Assembly Hall at 1.40 on Monday Nov. 27.

Mayor Hatfield gave a short lecture to the Classical and Scientific divisions in American History Thursday morning in Room 18. His talk was on current events.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The Women's Auxiliary will have a food sale Saturday afternoon at 2.30. Food, candy and fancy articles will be on sale. The sale will be held in the Ladies' Parlor.

Intermediate Department.

The fourth regular Saturday Night Social will be held in the Boys' Rooms.

The program will consist of music, readings, refreshments and a fireside sing.

These evenings are proving popular among the fellows. Last week nearly 60 fellows were in to hear Captain Ryan tell of the Custer Massacre.

MONETARY REFORM

At a meeting of the Unitarian Club of Newton held last week in the West Newton Unitarian church, Congressman Weeks spoke on the Work of the National Monetary Commission, saying in part:

The subject which I am going to discuss is pretty technical and I am rather surprised to see so many here, especially the ladies. A colored preacher once said in announcing his text, "I am going to make this so clear that even the women folks will understand it." Knowing the men and women here as I do I am going to try to make this as clear as possible.

Mr. Clarke has correctly stated the situation regarding the first two banks. I have frequently thought that if the second national bank had been re-organized and made to fit conditions, that we would by this time have a central organization which would answer the purpose. In other words, we would not be now at least 50 years behind other first-class powers of the world.

We have had panics and when we have them every business man feels the effects. In normal times our banking systems pretty well answer our necessities, except they prevent to any extent the expansion of business and foreign trade. We have about $1,000,000,000 in gold $550,000,000 in silver, $346,000,000 in greenbacks and $718,000,000 in national bank notes at the present time. The silver and greenbacks are limited by law. Gold is limited to the amount of bullion brought to the mints. The only elasticity is the National Bank note and now there is no elasticity in that. As many bonds are held by trust it is easily seen that we are pretty near the limit of our bond circulation. It is an indication of the growth of the country. There is outstanding at least $100,000,000 more than we had at the end of the panic of 1907. Therefore, if we are going to meet our expanding needs we must provide some other circulation. When the panic of 1907 was at its crisis or soon after the crisis had passed, Congress met in December. Everybody was thinking about the distress of the country and all minds were turned to some remedy. The Banking and Currency Committee of the House and Senate were appointed and we spent six months trying to draft a bill which would fit conditions and which would be satisfactory to the men of the country. This Committee at the time was known as the 16 to 1 Committee, there being fifteen members, and when one member made a suggestion, the other 16 were sure to be opposed to it. We found we could not reach any fundamental solution of the problem but we reported to Congress the Aldrich-Vreeland Bill prepared by Representative Vreeland of the House and Senator Aldrich of the Senate.

While it is safe to say that it is not a scientific bill its provisions are such that the banks of Boston could provide the whole of New England with sufficient currency during the life of a panic. Having that amount of money available would be sufficient to keep the industries of New England going and would avoid that form of the panic which is the most distressing. Panics very largely occur on account of the location of the reserves. Reserve bank like Boston and others in the central reserve system, the cities of New York, Chicago and St. Louis, account very largely for the panics, especially New York, because of the large stock market there. This is one feature which is especially bad in our system at present and that is that all New York banks pay 2 per cent for reserve money. The result is that if we have certificates in banks here, they send them over to New York where they can get the 2 per cent. The New York banks must make some use of them in order to be able to pay the 2 per cent and they loan it out to Tom, Dick and Harry so that they will not lose the interest. That also encourages speculation. When the business in the country declines, the banks commence to draw on the reserve and a panic is sure to follow. Another fault of our present system is that there is jealousy among banks; they are in active opposition to each other. They don't want to give away their business and they don't want to have known any weakness which they might have. The result is that when we approach these panic conditions, they do not respond. For that reason they wait until the conditions become so acute they are forced to come together so that the money may be available and without exposing their various weaknesses.

One of the provisions of the Aldrich-Vreeland Bill was the providing for a Monetary Commission, to consist of 9 members of the house and 9 members of the Senate. It has been criticised that financial experts should have composed the Committee, or at least part of the members should be financial experts. There were good reasons why this was not done. If 18 men can agree on a certain report and bring it before Congress, it goes a tremendous way toward securing its passage. Every man in Congress who has any standing must necessarily have friends or followers. If a report comes from a Committee which I don't know anything about, I go to a member of that Committee and ask him what it means and he may vote on what he says. It is impossible to follow and know everything that is going on. If this report should be made by financial experts they would not have that influence. Therefore in order to get the legislation we believed the Committee should be made up of members of the House and Senate. Since the Commission started in its work it has devoted a large amount of time to the study of our National Bank plan as it is, and the financial methods of foreign countries. I am safe in saying that no fundamental question has had any more thorough consideration by any Commission than has this subject. We have had as a leader one of the greatest legislators, Senator Aldrich.

Having completed their study the Commission decided that the Chairman should get together the ideas in the form of a plan, submit the plan to the Commission and then to the country in the form of a recommendation, and after hearings adopt it as a definite result. It not only contains the recommendations of the Chairman but also those of the members of the Commission.

sion who pretty nearly agree as to how the changes shall be made. I doubt if any such plan was ever submitted to the public and met with such approval as this. It meets with the approval of all men who gave any special financial knowledge and who have examined it. It provides for a National Reserve Association to be composed of the Government or National Banks. The reserve bank is to have $300,000,000 capital to be subscribed for by the various banks in proportion to the amount of bonds they hold. In order to continue as members of the Association, these banks must retain the stock subscribed for. It is not transferable to anybody. It has been said that you cannot keep it out of Wall Street or politics, but we have arranged a system of selecting the directors which will make this impossible. We fail to see how by our system it is possible for politics or any association to get 3-4 control and are open to any suggestion which will make it more effective. It is the purpose to get the whole matter out of politics, Wall Street and various associations.

The earnings of this Central bank are to go as follows: 4 per cent to the stock holders of the bank, above that it is divided between the Government and the Reserve Association, and perhaps additional payments to the stockholders until they get not more than 5 per cent. Some believe it will pay 4 per cent from the start. We want to get rid of all bond secured circulation. We provide that the Central Reserve Association shall take over all the bonds held and issue shares for share in bonds of the new association.

Under the new system I expect to see a great deal of our commercial paper in Europe. New York should be the financial centre of the world instead of London. Now if a man wishes to make a purchase in South America it is necessary to do all the banking through the banks of London.

I believe that if this proposed report is enacted during the 62nd Congress it will be the greatest thing that has happened in the country since the Civil War.

HUNTING IN MAINE.

Howard F. Butler of Commonwealth avenue, Boston, E. Arthur Robinson of Auburndale and Nat Sanders of Danvers, came out of Maine woods Saturday morning taking the train at Oakfield Junction. They brought with them six deer and 15 partridge, their full allowance; five of the deer being nice bucks. They report deer very scarce and only shot their limit after two weeks of very diligent hunting from Mr. Butler's private camp, which boasts of the best equipment and three very fine guides. They said they never saw partridge so scarce and they only saw two cow moose and one spike horn bull moose. They had plenty of venison and partridge to eat in camp, as Mr. Robinson was successful in shooting a yearling buck the first day they were in camp, but they all say that if they had not been very familiar with the immediate country in which they hunted and all the haunts of returned empty they might have easily returned empty handed and fared on bacon and beans while in camp. Twelve inches of snow fell two days before they left camp which made the woods almost impenetrable.

THEATRES.

R. F. Keith's Theatre—A real all-star vaudeville show is promised for next week at R. F. Keith's Theatre. Sam Chip and Mary Marbo will appear in their dainty Delft dialogue with droll ditties, entitled "In Old Edam." This is one of the prettiest and most delightful one-act musical comedies ever staged. John C. Rice and Sally Cohen will return to Boston after a long absence in their amusing comedy, "A Bachelor's Wife." One of the novelties of the week will be the Red Sox quartet, composed of four of Boston's most popular ball tossers Buck O'Brien, the pitcher, Marty McHale, Hughie Bradley and Bill Lyons will offer a number of popular selections, and reports from other cities where they have appeared as to the effect that these boys can sing even better than they play. Hall Stuart, Barnes, the story teller and entertainer, Max Witt's Melody Lane Girls in songs and dances; Bradna and Derrick, the equestriennes from the New York Hippodrome; H. T. MacConnell, "President of the 13 Club," and McCormack and Wallace in a ventriloquial novelty, will be other big features.

Plymouth Theatre—Beginning next Monday "Pomander Walk" will enter upon the fifth week of its engagement at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston. The play has not only proven to be one of the most delightful comedies seen in Boston for a long time, but is steadily increasing in popularity as evidenced by the large and enthusiastic audiences that greet the all-English cast at every performance. The coming week will be a busy, crowded time and patrons are advised to make early applications for seats. Louis N. Parker, author of "Pomander Walk," has canceled several important engagements in New York in order to come to Boston, the latter part of this week. He will remain in Boston over Tuesday, November 28, which will be celebrated by the Plymouth Theatre management and the playwright's many friends and admirers as Louis N. Parker Night. The gala performances of Pomander Walk during his visit will be under the dramatist's personal supervision. On Parker Night, he has consented to deliver an address before the acts of the play, in which he will tell some of his personal experiences in connection with the Comedy of Happiness.

MASS. FEDERATION MEETS

Four special cars were attached to the 8.55 a. m. train for Haverhill on Thursday morning, November 16, to carry the club women from Boston and vicinity to the autumn meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs. These journeys to and from gatherings form no small portion of the value of attending Federation meetings, for the social side has its part just as surely as the intellectual side. Once arrived in Haverhill the thoughtfulness of the hosts club was immediately apparent for club members were at the station to welcome their guests and an ample number of cars on hand to convey them to the church.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Henry Coolidge Mulligan, who presented Mrs. Josephine L. Sanborn, president of the Haverhill Club, the hostess of the day.

Mrs. Sanborn extended the hospitality of her club to their guests and it was graciously accepted by the Federation president.

The Federation then turned its attention to the program of the day. In introducing the general subject, "Civics," Mrs. Mulligan referred to the fact that the Federation had met once before in Haverhill, in 1896, and at that time the subject presented was "Some Problems in Civics," and suggested that to-day there are many new problems.

The first speaker was Mr. John Nolan of Cambridge and his subject "City Planning." Mr. Nolan stated that there are widespread misconceptions of this subject and pointed out the great need of work in this direction, not merely for big cities, but even more so for the small towns.

Dr. Frederic W. Perkins in an admirable and stirring address on "Civic Opportunities for Women" presented the great need, especially in our cities and towns where there is a large foreign population, of instructing these foreign-born women in the English language and in American ideals in order that they may not prove a hindrance to their husbands and children. The address was followed by questions and discussion which was only brought to a close by the time limit. A short time was given to the consideration of the General Federation Endowment Fund under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Denison of South Framingham, the General Federation Secretary. Since Massachusetts is the second largest Federation in the country, it is necessary that she do her share in this matter. The clubs were told that they could have all the time they needed in which to secure this money, an equivalent of fifty cents for each member having been suggested to each club and that it be collected by the mid-winter meeting of the Federation.

Ample provision was made for the comfort of the visiting club women during the noon recess. A large number availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the birthplace of Whittier not far distant by trolley.

An organ recital was given by Mr. James W. Hill organist of the church, during the half hour before the afternoon session. The first on the program for the afternoon was "A Half-Hour with Liszt," in recognition of the Liszt centenary this year. Mr. Clarence Albert Jones of Boston spoke briefly of the life of the composer, saying that he is considered in the first rank as a pianist, as a composer a radical, while as a conductor he did much to bring out other composers. Mrs. Arthur W. Brigham of Roslindale rendered several of Liszt's songs and her sweet fresh voice charmed her audience. Mr. Jones rendered upon the piano two selections, one being the "Rigoletto Paraphrase."

After this delightful digression the audience turned its attention to the address of Dr. William Dewitt Hyde, president of Bowdoin College, on "Our Future Citizens." Dr. Hyde in his thoughtful and inspiring address traced the development of six movements for child welfare which have arisen within the present century and which are destined to develop in the next generation a sturdy, vigorous manhood and womanhood.

After a hearty vote of thanks to the hostess club for its generous hospitality the meeting adjourned. The attendance numbered between five and six hundred.

OUR FUTURE CITIZENS.

By President Hyde.

Six times the speaker asked the question "What is it that creates the child?" and gave the following answers: First: The answer of the child labor law; freedom from competitive industry commercial and mechanical, up to the age of fourteen; from fourteen to sixteen freedom from excessive hours night work, or employment dangerous to life, health, or morals; opportunity for fundamental education and normal development as a condition of employment; and protection to the child and when necessary up to twenty-one, from specially hazardous and demoralizing employment.

Second the answer of industrial education; that the child shall be trained from the first in constructive work; followed at the age of fourteen by actual work at processes fundamental to great groups of related industries, for those who must leave school at sixteen and by technical high schools and trade schools in those larger communities that can profitably support them; all with the aim to connect school with life give reality to work and interest to study, and fit for efficiency and promotion in industrial careers.

Third: the answer of vocational guidance; which studies the child's heredity, environment, aptitude, and school record, with a view to placing him in the line of work in which he will be at once most useful and most happy.

Fourth: the answer of the playground and play leader; that the city child shall have the chance to develop his impulses and express his instincts without having to break the laws of society to do it; and shall have a leader to show him how.

Fifth: the answer of the Juvenile Court; that children under sixteen shall not be treated as criminals but that their overt acts shall be treated as symptoms of a condition to be discovered and removed by firm tactful and sympathetic men and women acting as Juvenile Court Judges and Probation Officers.

Sixth: the answer of the club and the association; that the strongest boys and girls will not respond to precepts handed down to them or advice poked at them; but that if heightened, and strong manliness, and pure womanliness are brought close to them in winsome personalities who share their interests in clubs and classes, associations and expeditions, they will admire and imitate these qualities even more readily than they do the bigness of brutality the dash and daring of loose living, and the superficial kindness that often goes with criminality.

This comprehensive child welfare movement to give the children of the nation their birthright of leisure for growth of body and of mind, interesting work, vocational counsel, wholesome play, sympathetic justice, and personal inspiration, is the youngest and justest of our social reforms; for all these six movements, in their systematic and vigorous development have sprung up within the present century, and are only from two to twelve years old. It carries in itself the germs of all the other great social reforms. For if we care for the children of the nation in this costly, vital way; we shall not stop caring for them when they reach the age of twenty-one.

CITY PLANNING.

By John Nolan.

There are two widespread misconceptions about city planning. The first is that city planning is concerned mainly with beauty. But it is of the utmost importance that this fundamental error should be corrected. Any city planning that is worthy of the name is concerned primarily with use and only incidentally with beauty.

The other misconception is almost equally widespread. It is that comprehensive city planning is only for big cities.

What is city planning? City planning is simply a recognition of the sanitary economic, and aesthetic laws which should govern the original arrangement and subsequent development of our cities. It is the substitution of art, scientific skill and foresight, for chance, haphazard and piece-meal procedure. It is the application to the building of cities of the methods which we have found effective and which we use to some extent at least in building many of the component parts of cities, its public and private buildings, its parks, its railroads, its hotels, etc. The great need is to plan the parts of a city in relation to each other and also to plan ahead. Without planning ahead, interrelated planning is practically impossible.

The real problem is how to awaken a constant interest in city planning. In my opinion there are four appeals that can be made successfully. First is the appeal to economy. Town and city planning pays. Certain things are indispensable for every city, for example, streets and thoroughfares, suitable public buildings, and a reasonable number of playgrounds, parks and open spaces.

The second appeal appears to be almost the opposite of the first. It is the appeal to idealism, to humanity, to sentiment. City planning is one of the best opportunities to do good, not to do good-quick, perhaps, but to do good permanently. The common welfare rests absolutely upon right city planning. Without it adequate provision for health, for pleasure, for wholesome recreation, for good homes is impossible.

Another appeal is the appeal to the imagination. This rests upon the actual preparation of plans, upon visualizing the proposals of architects, and landscape architects, so that an average man or woman may understand and appreciate what is already vivid to the creative mind of the city planner. The main work of town and city planning must be done under public authority but this preliminary general plan may very properly be undertaken by a voluntary improvement association or club.

The final appeal is an object lesson. There is above all a need to show, by example, by a concrete work of city planning, just what it is and what it can do. Many people lack imagination, many scoff at paper plans, but things actually done are convincing. They cannot be contested. A park or parkway, a playground, a garden suburb, even a new and better type of street or street tree planting, such changes and improvements as these can be carried out by a change of methods in larger matters.

The problems of city building and city making are strikingly similar to home building and home making. For such work women are highly qualified. Their long, patient, daily work has given them understanding in this field, experience, and insight. Many of them are peculiarly ready for active service in this new field. If they will use their freedom for the study of actual conditions in municipalities at home and abroad, if they will methodically gather the necessary data and information, they will have in their hands an enviable opportunity to do good. The ultimate aim, however, should be to get down to the big fundamental things and to use for this purpose all the official public power and machinery of the state and of cities.

CIVIC OPPORTUNITIES FOR WOMEN.

Frederic W. Perkins, D. D.

Among a bewildering variety of opportunities for women to yield civic influence, I speak of the following:

1. The opportunity to teach English and civics to women of foreign birth in our cities, especially our industrial cities like Haverhill, Lowell, Lawrence and Lynn.

Let me illustrate the need and the opportunity by telling you of the situation with which we are attempting to deal in Lynn. In the city of Lynn, a city of about 90,000 people, there are over 40,000 of foreign birth or immediate descent. Of this number, over 17,000 above ten years of age cannot speak or read English. The immediate need is that these aliens receive instruction in English and the fundamental ideals and practices of American civic life. To teach them English is to do far more than give them utilitarian advantage in the struggle for a living. It is to open a way for participation in the intellectual and spiritual genius of the people among whom they have cast their fortunes. Perhaps no barrier is so separating, so patent a creator of racial and spiritual alienations, as difference of language. Any one who has lost his way in a foreign city, and cannot find his hotel because no one can speak his tongue, has had an experience of that peculiar sort of isolation. He is 'out of it.'

And what a radiant, embracing sense of fellowship has reached out toward some tattered, piratical-looking street cleaner, whom ordinarily one would put in the outermost court, when his broken English, caught from a brother in America, restores one's distracted spirit and guides one's weary feet! Men and women who can speak the same language not only can think the same thoughts, but can know they are thinking them, which is the enduring bond of fellowship.

A work of incalculable civic importance, therefore, is to teach these aliens English and civics. For the children it is done in the public schools, as for youths in the evening schools. But how about the fathers and mothers? They will not go to evening school in large numbers, even if they can. Shame at their ignorance before children holds them back. The children often acquire contempt for their parents and elders. We are not to add alienations within races to alienations between races, we must teach English to foreign grown-ups as well as to children.

That is the work we are beginning in Lynn. The Young Men's Christian association is organizing classes as fast as it can secure teachers. It has developed an ingenious system by which one who cannot himself speak Polish, for example, can yet teach English to Poles.

Now this work is for men, by men. But fully as great a need exists for a similar work for women, by women. Foreign women are especially isolated. They men go to the shops, the children to school. The women stay at home. They miss the educative contact with the American world. And that is not all. They prevent the Americanizing of the man and the child. When the man returns from work or from his class in English, he must go back; not only to the foreign speech, but to the foreign ways. The knowledge that the mother cannot speak English separates her from her own household. More than one pitiful domestic tragedy has resulted from the husband's outstripping the wife in knowledge of English and American ideals and customs.

Here is a civic opportunity for women clubs. A conduct for the foreign women the sort of classes in English and civics that are being conducted for men.

2. Another opportunity for women to exert a civic influence in Massachusetts just now is provided by the movement to investigate the desirability of practically of establishing a minimum wage boards for certain trades largely employing women and minors.

At the last session of the legislature a commission was authorized to study this most important question and report in January to the incoming session. The commission is now at work, holding hearings and ascertaining the conditions as to the wages under which large numbers of women labor. The fact that such an investigation is being made affords an opportunity for women to become intelligent concerning a question which is close to their natural interests and which they can greatly aid in settling wisely and righteously.

Not all of us can see how the problem is to be solved; that is the specific task of the economist. But we can all see that it must be solved if we are to maintain a humane, Christian civilization.

One simple proposition in the midst of much that is confusing, seems to me clear, viz: that any woman who gives her time and labor to an industry has a right to a bare living at least, out of that industry. A minimum must be set somewhere. Shall it be set by competitive exploiting of the necessities of those who must have work? Or shall it be set by fair community judgment as to what a living wage is? Before urging people to strive for a goal we must at least set them on their feet and give them a chance.

I am asking questions not answering them. The point is that a commission is endeavoring to suggest answers. Massachusetts women's clubs have a two-fold opportunity. (1) To become intelligent as to the movement; (2) to throw their influence behind any well-considered plans the commission may offer.
